Miner Reaches Skagway From Atlin With Gold and Tells of a New Find.

Is an American and Work His Property Secretly.

How Leniga Escaped-Other Late News From the Atlin District.

News comes from Skagway of the arrival there of a prospector named Charles Hartman, who had with him $5,000 in nuggets, which, he said, were taken from a new strike about fifty miles from Atlin. He is an American, and as he cannot stake his discovery owing to the exclusion act, he refuses to make any statement as to where the creek is situated, his intention being to work the property secretly. He says as his discovery known, but not before, He is being watched by a number of miners and when he returns to the goldneids will be shadowed.

A copy of the Atlin Claim of May 13th received by the Times has the following account of the escape of Lieniga, who shot Fred. Baur at Atlin. The Atlin paper says: "On Thursday morning, he time before the rooster crowed, Mr. Lieniga, the gentleman who tried to kill Fred. Baur by shooting him with a shotgun, became tired of his confined with snectators. ment, and having nothing more to detain sentiments as we positively refuse to scene. publish in this paper. Men were started in every direction with instructions to try and induce Mr. Lieniga to return. Up to the hour of going to press the gentleman has not returned, neither has he sent any word where he may One hundred dollars' reward has been offered for his arrest, which would really seem as if the anthorities considered him valuable property. "Fred. Baur, the victim of the shooting, is in a much better condition than when we last reported. Speaking to a reporter, Baur said he thought Lieniga must be slightly demented. The erst-while prisoner was accustomed to go off

They all went | the struggle for first place among the tained and no knowledge could be given as to when we'd be able to resume a mucilage diet. We know the difficulties the post officials have to contend with, in bringing mail in from the outside, but this does not excuse the powers that be from providing sufficient stamps to carry on ordinary business, without having to tip the Dominion government to the extent of half a cent on every letter posted at the present writing. That there is something rotten in postoffice circles is apparent to all. Why is Pine City without a postoffice? Why are people compelled to come here and swell the aleady long line of anxious enquirers on the arrival of mail matter? Wa don't ask for a postoffice on every claim; not at all; but a place that shows permanency is the place that should have conderation. If mail conditions are poor now, what will they be in June?"

The paper has the following notes of interest to Victorians: Mr. White-Praser, the Dominion boundary commissioner, has completed his latitude observations and has proceeded to the 60th parallel on Atlin lake to verify the survey made by J. H. Brownlee and R. C.

Second Day of the Queen's Birthday Car nival -The Regatta at the Gorge.

The Queen's Birthday celebration of 1899 is practically over, although the crowd of visitors from neighboring cities has not yet dispersed, many remaining until the end of the week for the purpose of witnessing the bicycle races at Oak Bay Park to-morrow afternoon or the basket bal contest at Caledon'a grounds. Yesterday was regatta day and if was once more a great success, justifying the adherence the programme of past celebrations. The E. & N: trains, the street cars and the roads leading to the Gorge were thronged throughout the afternoon and the arm was alive with boats, most of them gaily decor ated. The number of people who visited the Gorge certainly dispelled the idea that the acquatic events are losing their attractiveness for the attendance was larger than ever. During the afternoon Mayor and Mrs. Redfern entertained a large number of guests on board the reception barge, and there was also every convenience for the comfort of visitors on other official and semi-official craft.

The excursion vessels returning to the nainland were filled with returning holiday-makers, and among them all there were very few who did not declare them selves well satisfied with the enjoyment provided for them in the Capital City. THE REGATTA.

The big events of this year's celebration oncluded yesterday afternoon, when the Gorge-the scene of so many successful race meetings in by-gone days-became the soon as the act is repealed he will make | Mecca of almost the entire permanent and transient population of the city. Among the events of the celebration there can be no doubt that the regatta is the biggest and the attractiveness of it does not seem to wane as the years roll on. The exodus up the arm began early in the afternoon, in water craft of all descriptions, in vans, by train, by wheel, and by any other means of conveyance which could be pressed into service. The result was that when the starting gun for the first race was fired

He met an Italian, and after lined the banks of the arm half way down requesting him to pay his compliments to the police, proceeded on his way. The aforesaid Italian informed another man lent animation and beauty to the scene. and he in turn informed the authorities. Victorians, to whom the scene is an old who then discovered that the prisoner and familiar one, viewed the affair with had escaped.
