K.—I was down to the river to-day and saw a lemon floating around on the water. I saw the lemon sinking and threw a rope to it.

M.—What did you do that for?

K.—Just to give the lemon-ade.

M.—How many shirts can you get out of a yard?

K.—That depends whose yard I get into.

M.—Are you fond of music?

K.—Yes, very.

M.—Then listen to the band on your nat.

M.—Where did you come from?

K.—Where?

M.—From the rib of man.

K.—Well, I'd like to see the rib that that fat woman in the show came from.

M.—My mother sent me down to the butcher's to-day to see if the butcher had frogs' legs. I came back and told her I couldn't see his legs as he had pants on.
