Life in Earnest. A most impressive ravival of religion was progress in their native place, and Mary Allsto and Alice Rosedale were made subjects of renew ing grace. Alice, whose mind had ever be subject to serious impressions, was first arouse to a sense of the guilt of her conduct in so long resisting the influence of the Spirit, and she fe that it would be perfectly just if God should cast her off tor ever. She became aware that was not in the state to be capable of entering with pleasure into the employments of the redeemer in heaven, and yet she feared ex ceedingly that state of shopeless remorse an which her present feelings seemed only agony a slight foretaste!

Her distress incapacitated her for her ordinar occupations. At school the could only weep and at noon she endured the taunts of her wick ed schoolaates, who sneeringly proclaimed that Alice Rosedale had turned saint, with hardly i perception of their wanton cruelty; so much was her mind engrossed with the all importan subject. Mary, for her comfort, tried to repea the cheering promises of the Gospel, but the fell upon unheeding cars, for she was convince they could not be intended for her. She return ed home, and entered her mother's chamber wit so heavy a step and so bad a countenance that Mrs. Resedule was seriously alarmed. Throw ing herself upon a low outoman at her mother she exclaimed, " Oh mother I am lost What shall I do to be saved ?" The answer of Scripture rushed to the mother's lips, " Belleve on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." . But can he, will be receive a poo sinher like me ?"" " Alice," said her mother you believe me when I tell you that I low "How can I doubt you when you as you ph sure me with your own hips ?" replied the daughter. "Then why do you doubt the very ds of Him, who is infinite Truth, "I came not to call the righteous but sinners to repen tance,' and 'Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise enet out P!

Thus saying, Mrs. Rosedale arose and left the room, closing the door after her, and in a retired place not far distant she knelt in earnest suppli cation for her beloved child.

Left alone, Alice arose and paced the floor with great agitation. "O had I regarded the ings that belong to my peace," she exclaimed " I should long ago have beer, at rest, but now believing heart will not submit. There is now but one thing that I can do, as my last hepe. I'll go to Jes

Her natural kindness of manner gave her great power over the hearts of ther companions; this talent she also directed into the same channel, and added to her affection for her friends the most carnest endeavors for their spiritual good. In this work her geutle friend, Mary, joined with her whole heart. In her case the light of truth dawned faintly in der mind, and brightened very gradually, so that she could not distinguished the precise time of the change ; but she could confidently say, with the blind

These two young Christians stood alone in the school, and their example was so conspicuou that they were exposed to much persecution family than her circumstances waranted her to preserve in life, instead of tying a stone around the sick animal's neck, and throwing her into the from two youths of the baser, sort, who held them up to the ridicle of the school in the inter-Nile, or drowning the ugliest of her kittens they sent for the embalmer, (who, we may con This was no small trial to extremely ser jecture, also held the office of cat's meat man to the citizen's of ancient Thebes,) and in course of young ladies; and in the course of the following winter it became almost intolerable from the fact they had a teacher, a college student, who sympathized with these boys. Out of echool hours he was frequently heard to blespheme the holy name, dearest to the hearts of these youthful disciples. At the close of the school, on day, as Alice and Mary were crossing the playground, they overheard one of these boys reman eeringly to the reacher, "There go the saints it will not do to swear before them." The eacher replied with a herrid oath, that he would " take the hypocrisy out of the contemp

Thus encouraged by one your fond mistress, whose form may now, fo who should have suppressed such ruffian-like conduct, the rude boy seized a snowball, and aught we know to the contrary, be figuring as a uriosity in the British Museum. I think vo hurling it with all his strength at the head of Alice, broke into a hearty laugh. The missile nust have died in pain, or else why close or did not miss its aim, and striking her in the eye and leave the other open, never to shu temple she fell senseless to the ground. At this again? Why hang out your tongue by the side instant a strong man belonging to the district, who had been a silent spectator of the whole of your mouth ? and why that lump in your back like the remains of an injury or blow? I wonder scene from behind the fence, rushed forward, if you ever had any legs; there are none now seized the fainting girl in his arms and hore and if you had, why did your embalmer cu seized the fainting girl in his errors and bore and if you had, why did your embalance cut her to his own house; at the same time cesting a look of withering scorn upon the man, who done with them when they were cut off? sweetness, and extending her hand to him re-marked, "You did not whink it would hart me so much, Herbart," all his fortitude forsook him, and he wept like a child. It was a great struggle for that rough, badly taught boy to ask forgive ness of a girl, but he did it manfully ; with the deepest sincerity and humility, and when he was assured it was freely given, and reminded to ask forgiveness of God, he exclaimed warmly, " I'll do it this very moment, @ God be merciful to me a sinner." That prayer was answered, and that rough boy, now a successful minister of the Gospel, commenced a life of prayer from that very hour. As the winter wore away, a shade came ove the brightness of the earthly friendship of Alice and Mary, for the latter, never very strong, was rapidly dec'ining in strength, and was fully aware that she was passing away. Very pre cious were their communings upon the bette world, yet so painful was the thought of separa

"Her tongue broke out in unknown strains And sung redeeming love."

There was joy in Mrs. Ros dale's heart th night, such as the world can neither give no away. At a late hour Alice left her m ther's room, and retired to her own apartmen o sweetness of acceptance with God so irradisted her whole soul that everything seemed changed. It was long before she could yield to shumber, and when she swoke the sun was shin rightly into her room. She arose and three up the case ment, and there lay the landscape with which she had always been familiar, hather in the golden light of a bright June morning She had thought is beautiful before, but then, in the light of her newly awakened soul, as plories burst upon her view, she exclaimed. Lord our God, how excellent is thy name in a the earth 1 The heavens are thine, the ear also is thine. Let the heavens rejoice and l the earth to be glad ; let the sea roar and the ful ness thereof. Let the field be joyful, and all that is therein ; then shall all the trees of the wo rejoice before the Lord. And then, in a little while you will come home too and oh, the glory of that world, it is so dazzling
