His life throughout was in accordance with the profession of his boyhood. He is missed not only in his family but in the church, not only by his sorrowing companion and several children, but by a large circle of friends, among whom is the present pastor, who ever found him a faithful friend, a good adviser, an attentive listener and a good supporter of the gospel; "but our loss is his gain."

Quiet and unassuming in his deportment, always ready to bear his burden and fill his place in the church, he will be greatly missed as well as greatly mourned. Calmly and fearlessly he went down to death, trusting in Jesus, as he said a short time before his decease. He leaves a sorrowing and afflicted wife, a son and daughter, to mourn their sad loss.

Literary Notes.
The Countess of Aberdeen, who keeps eighty servants in her home in Scotland, and is considered to be the one woman in Great Britain who has come closest to a solution of the servant problem, will tell of her methods of treating her help, etc., in an article for The Ladies' Home Journal entitled "How I keep my Servants."

There is some very attractive verse in the New England Magazine for December. F. McArthur, one of the cleverest and best known contributors to Life, Puck, Judge and other leading pictorial weeklies, contributes a piece of delicate verse, "A Refrain." John White Chadwick writes a touching sonnet called "A Thought of Whittier." Robert Loveman has "In Lighter Vein," and J. Torrey C. minor gives a new thought in "November."

The Review of Reviews for December sustains with remarkable enterprise and ability the great reputation this magazine has won for timeliness, exactness and wide range of interest. Among its almost countless illustrations are groups including some thirty of the newly-elected governors of States. No other magazine could possibly have secured and made such illustrations and actually embodied them in its December number, for in many instances it was not known until the middle of November who were actually elected as governors. The editor's review of the election and his discussion of the results will attract wide attention. The editorial department entitled "The Progress of the World," is unusually extended this month.

The Christmas number of the Cottage Hearth comes to us in a handsome holiday cover, and is filled with good stories and articles appropriate to the season. The opening story, by Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, is very bright and entertaining and is in the author's best vein. Miss Denton's story finishes an "Art Talk" on Sandro Botticelli, one of the Italian Old Masters. Ezekiah Butterworth furnishes a Christmas story in verse, entitled "The Old Stage Sleigh." The regular departments are crowded full of stories, poems, and suggestions. The prospectus for 1893, in addition to an unusually good line of stories and articles, announces that Eben E. Rexford, so well known to the readers of The Ladies' Home Journal, is to begin in the January number a Foreign Department under the title "Talks about Flowers." W. A. Wilde & Co., Bat. m. $1.50 a year.

The Missionary Review of the World for December is out with its usual quota of valuable articles for and about the missionary fields of the world. In the department of Literature of Missions are some contributions upon the following subjects: The True Forward Movement, or a Higher Standard of Conversion, by Arthur T. Pierson, Editor-in-chief; The Place of Schools in Mission Work; The American Mission in Egypt; The Gospel among the Jews; The Forerunners of Carey, Part II.; The Status of Muslim Women According to the Teaching of the Quran; A Mulem Back Fire; and Extracts and Translations from Foreign Periodicals. The International Department contains the following: Address of the Educated Classes of India toward Christianity; Rev. Gullian Lansing, D. D.; Slavery by Contract; and Prayer League for Native Workers in China. Department of Christian Endeavor, conducted by Prof. Amos H. Wilds, Editor of Notes. Prospectus, Missionary Society; Madagascar Notes; Malagasy Work and Statistics; British Foreign Missions Monthly Bulletin; Funk & Wagnall Co. Company, publishers, 18 and 20 Astor Place, New York.

— One of the horrors of the drink evil in Great Britain is the smothering of very young children in sleep by their drunken parents. This "murder of the innocents" it appears is by no means diminishing. The number of deaths of "overland" children, says the Registrar-General has been steadily increasing in recent years. It is also stated that the proportion of such cases is more than twice as high on Saturday night as on any other night of the week. The explanation given is that the amount of intoxication is greater on Saturday than on any other day. There are many reasons why it seems desirable to change the day from Saturday, the usual time for the payment of weekly wages, to some other day earlier in the week; but one of the strongest reasons which could be urged would be to lessen this tendency to child-murder on the part of the steadily increasing number of "Bever" who would be better, have no liquor at all, abstinent temperance men, as to win over such drunkards to the side of abstinence and sobriety, and so immediately to close up the drink shops as well.

REV. W. L. BROWN, FOR YEARS A MEMBER OF THE M. E. CHURCH BUT FOR THE LAST YEARS AN EVANGELIST IN THE CHURCH OF GOD. HE IS WELL KNOWN BY THOUSANDS WHO WILL VOICED FOR THE TRUTH OF THE POLYMER.
I write to inform you that the TWO COURSES OF SKODA'S DISCOVERY AND LITTLE TABLETS have done wonders for me. I can hardly realize it, but the change has been so marked. I contracted the Chronic Diarrhea in the Army, and since 1885 I have been a constant sufferer. In addition to this I was troubled as follows: 1st. A large Black and Kidney trouble; 2nd. Dyspepsia, 3rd. Flatulences and an all-over feeling; 4th. Distress at pit of stomach; 5th. Headache and Dizziness; 6th. Muscular Rheumatism in chest so I had to stop work. I was then 35 years of age. I had 18. Five of children, but would be compelled to leave my labor and return to my home work at a time when I had to look after my children. I feel that I am completely cured of all my bodily diseases except the Diarrhea, which I do not cure. I am greatly benefited, and I feel that I can take a course which I think will cure me entirely. Yours with gratitude, REV. W. L. BROWN, Atkinson, Me.
