

FROM ALL OVER THE MARITIME PROVINCES

FREDERICTON

Fredericton, N. B., Dec. 31.—The snowfall of yesterday and the subsequent cold weather has made very good sleighing of the streets, and the owners of fast horses are anticipating exciting sport tomorrow afternoon.

There is good ice at the curling rink and the match between presidents and vice-presidents for the Coleman Cup is being looked forward to with considerable interest. The vice-presidents, Mrs. G. Blair and Lieutenant Governor Snowball, both of whom passed away with tragic suddenness. Bishop Kingston, James S. Beck, for many years auditor general, Ex-Aid. John MacPherson, George Gilman, Benjamin A. Everett and Aid. J. D. Hanlon. The total number of burial permits issued was 132.

It is understood that all the curling clubs of the province except Hampton and Marysville, have entered the competition for the McCaffrey trophy to be played during the next two months.

Impressive watchnight services were held tonight in the Cathedral and Methodist church, and attracted large congregations. The local board of health at a meeting last evening appointed a committee to wait upon the city and district water works and to report on the proposed hospital, the present building having been rendered useless by the erection of a factory in the vicinity.

It seems to be the general impression in political circles here that York will be the next election, have a portfolio in the local government, and that Hon. Clarence N. Goddard, a young farmer of Nashwaak, will become commissioner of agriculture and that Hon. Mr. Harris will be given another portfolio.

Turkeys were scarce in the local market this morning at 22 cents per pound. Col. McLean spent the afternoon at Croisette and returned home last evening.

Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 1.—New Year's day was quietly observed here as a public holiday. It was a typical winter day and everybody who owns or could hire a rig was out on the streets during the afternoon. The streets were little too icy and dangerous for racing, but some of the more venturesome drivers pulled off a few brushes on Government Lane. The honours seemed to be divided between Hugh O'Neill and J. C. Allen. There is good skating on the river near the Gibson shore and the mouth of the Nashwaak, and a crowd of young people were seen this afternoon enjoying the sport. Quite a number patronized the Arctic rink in the evening.

The curlers had a good sheet of ice and completed their annual match for the Coleman Cup. Bishop and Mrs. Richardson held their first public reception this afternoon at the cathedral at 4 o'clock this evening, when Miss Helen P. F. Balmain, lady of England, became the wife of William Harrison Lloyd Roberts, eldest son of Prof. Charles G. D. Roberts, the famous poet and author. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Sub-Dean Street, in the presence of only the immediate relatives. The happy couple left for St. John by this evening's train to spend a few days before taking up their residence here. The bridegroom was for some time assistant editor of Outlook magazine, but is now engaged in literary work here.

Men set to work today marking out the ice bridge at the lower end of the river, and it is expected some will be crossing this week.

Fredericton has enjoyed the greatest freedom from fire in the year just ended than in any previous year in its history. It is probable that the total losses will not aggregate more than a few hundred dollars.
