

City Police Court.
The police arrested four prisoners for drunkenness last night, and they were summarily disposed of this morning.
John Johnson confessed being drunk on the Market Square, and he was fined $4.
David Jones arrested lying intoxicated on the Anchor Line Wharf, was fined the same amount.
John Duncan, drunk in Sheffield street, will have to pay before he gets his liberty.
Catherine Rice, arrested drunk in Duke street, was fined $4. She promised to go out to the country, where she has been for some time, and one of the policemen spoke a kindly word for her, and she was allowed to stand.
Mary Ann Dougherty, a resident of the Alms House, came to the city on a visit and was not equal to the fatigue of walking back last night, so she sought protection in the station. She was allowed to go on promising to go back to her old quarters.
Mrs. Ruben Neil was charged with assaulting the children of John Yeoman. The evidence proved that Yeoman's children commenced the disturbance by firing stones into Mrs. Neil's windows and only got what they deserved. The charge was dismissed.

A handsome assortment of Gilded Pyramids—and every novelty in Photographic Brackets—Home—at NORMAN'S; also a new supply of the Best and Costliest of Dublin's Photos.

A lady in Montpelier, Vt., has a large picture of "Ruth and Boaz," worked in worsted, in which there are 999,219 stitches. It took eight months to do the work.

A Paris Journal lately noted the arrival there of Lord Schirke, a lineal descendant of Alexander Selkirk, the real hero of the story of "Robinson Crusoe." Lord Selkirk himself was also pleased to doubt to learn that he has such a distinguished origin.

"Now, young people," said a Professor of Natural History to his class, "now, then, as to hens. A hen has the capacity of laying just six hundred eggs, and no more, and she finishes the job in just five years. Now, what is to be done with her after that?" "Cut her head off and sell her for a spring chicken!" exclaimed an urchin whose father died in poultry.
