A. in due course, and was for some time a fellow of his college. He received the degree of LL.D from the University of St. Andrew's in 1873; was ordained deacon in 1858 by the bishop of London, and presbyter in the same year by the bishop of Salisbury. Before his ordination he held for about 12 years an assistant mastership in Rugby School. He was head-master of Marlborough College from 1858 down to 1870 when he was appointed master of University College, Oxford. He became examining chaplain to the archbishop of Canterbury in 1874, was select preacher at Oxford University in 1874-75, and honorary chaplain to the queen from 1874 to 1876, when he received the appointment of chaplain in ordinary to her Majesty. He was married in '49.

A Surprised Physician.

A DYING PATIENT RECOVERS THROUGH THE INTERPOSITION OF A HUMBLE GERMAN—Some weeks ago Dr. G—, a very reputable and widely-known physician, living on C— street, was called to attend a very complicated case of rheumatism. Upon arriving at the house he found a man about forty years of age, lying in a prostrated and serious condition, with his whole frame dangerously affected with the painful disease. He prescribed for the patient, but the man continued to grow worse, and on Sunday evening he was found to be in a very alarming condition. The knees and elbows and larger joints were greatly inflamed and could not be moved. It was only with extreme difficulty that the patient could be turned in bed, with the aid of three or four persons. The weight of the clothing was so oppressive that means had to be adopted to keep it from the patient's body.

The doctor saw that his assistance would be of no avail, and left the house, the members of family following him to the door, weeping. At this critical hour, a neighbour, a poor and humble German shoemaker, appeared to the grief-stricken ones as a saving angel. He had heard of the despair of the family, and now asked them to try his remedy, and accordingly brought forth a bottle of St Jacobs Oil. As a drowning man will catch at straws, so the poor wife applied this remedy; she had no hope, but would try anything, as a matter of duty. The first application eased the patient very much; after a few hours they used it again, and, wonder of wonders, the pain vanished entirely! Every subsequent application improved the sufferer, and in two days he was well and out. When the doctor called a few days after, he was indeed surprised; for, instead of a corpse, he found a new-made man.—Exchange.
