commencing this letter the Kitwargas have become enflamed on the subject, have insulted and opposed the members of the Executive Committee, refusing to allow them to explain anything to them, and have left the office and are now parading up and down the street outside. It looks as if they were in league with the Kitwanthcools, for they act in exactly the same way. They started out in a spirit of enquiry, but soon developed into an attitude of the utmost arrogance.

The Port Simpson Indians are now in session.

Sincerely yours,

Charles L. Leung
Indian Agent.
