QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

PUFFS ON KNEES.

Foal born May 14th has a puff half the size of a hen's egg on the outer and lower part of each knee. It is not lame or apparently inconvenienced by the puffs. T. W. P.

Ans.—Puffs of this kind are not uncommon in foals, and usually disappear before or about weaning time. Leave them alone, and if they have not disappeared before winter, blister them. V.

SORE SHOULDER AND TUMOR

1. Mare has a sore shoulder. It will not heal. I have applied butter of antimony, but when the scab comes off there is matter under it every time.

2. Horse has a hard lump, as large as a hen's egg, on the lower part of shoulder. J. E. R.

Ans.—1. Butter of antimony is a caustic and should not be used on sores unless proud flesh be present. Take 1 ounce each sulphate of zinc and acetate of lead; add a pint of water, and dress the sore with this lotion three times daily.

2. This is a tumor and must be carefully dissected out; the wound stitched up, except a small opening at the bottom for the escape of pus. Dress three times daily with a five-per-cent. solution of carbolic acid until healed. External applications will not remove this tumor; the operation is necessary. V.

INDIGESTION.

Mare foaled all right. I put her to work in a week. One afternoon, while working, she became sick. She threw herself down, rolled about, got up, threw herself down again, etc. She got all right again. In a couple of weeks she acted the same. I gave her ginger and nitre, and she got all right. Is she liable to further attacks, and what is the trouble? W. A. K.

Ans.—The mare had attacks of indigestion. If possible, allow her to go idle and raise her foal. If you are forced to work her, be very careful to not feed very large quantities of grain. Feed grain four times daily, water before feeding, and do not work for at least an hour after meals. Feed a tablespoonful of ginger in her food once or twice daily. If she has another attack, give 14 ounces laudanum, 4 drams fluid extract of belladonna, and 2 ounces nitrous ether in a pint of cold water as a drench. Repeat the dose in two hours, if necessary. V.

SIDEBONES, ETC.

1. Over a year ago I wrote you about sidebones on my stallion. You sent me a prescription, which I applied, but it did not remove them. The horse went lame this spring and I consulted my veterinarian. He advised firing and blistering. He fired with an instrument that is kept hot by forcing benzine through a tube with a rubber bulb, and then applied a blister, a sample of which I send you under separate cover. He told me to give six weeks rest in box stall and to grease the parts regularly in the meantime, and he said I might breed him to a few mares in the meantime.

2. How much meal, composed of oats, barley and buckwheat, should a three-year-old stallion, serving three mares a week and getting no exercise, be fed?

3. Are artichokes good feed for a stallion? T. W. W.

Ans.—1. The sample of blister is all right. Your veterinarian has treated the case in the most approved manner. You must not expect a removal of the sidebones, as they cannot be removed, and the most we can expect is the removal of the lameness. Leave the case in the hands of your veterinarian, as he evidently understands his business. I think it would be wise to castrate this horse, as it is a great mistake to breed a stallion with sidebone, ringbone, spavin, or any of these bone diseases, as there is such a probability of them transmitting the predisposition to their progeny. Of course, you think the trouble was caused in your horse by him getting the foot stuck in the manger, but accidents of this kind will not cause either sidebones or ringbones.

2. About 12 to 14 lbs., divided into three meals. It would be much better if you would give him regular exercise, both he and his progeny would be better.

3. I have had no experience with these for horses. V.

EMPIRE

and note how few parts it has, how perfectly simple it is, how easily it turns, how perfectly it skims, how easily it is kept clean, how strong and durable it is, you would at once decide that it is the separator for you. No separator ever made such rapid strides in popularity as has the Empire. The reason is because it satisfies every purchaser. Everyone who has it speaks a good word for it.
