TREATMENT OF IN-FOAL MARE

How should a mare that is in feal be treated at foaling time? At what length should the navel string of foal be cut from the body, and what should it be tied with? I have two mares in foal, and this is my first experience. Should a Clydesdale mare, in foal, be trotted? YOUNG FARMER.

Ans.-A mare in foal should have regular exercise, either running loose in a roomy yard or worked in moderation. Gentle trotting will do her no harm, and she should not be required to draw heavy loads. She may do farm work up to within a few days of foaling, and be the better for it. Tie within an inch of the body with silk thread dipped in a solution of carbolic acid (one part of acid to ten of water), and cut off two inches below the thread. Then dress the end of the navel string below ligature, twice daily, with the carbolic solution till withered and dried up.

GOSSIP.

Commando, the leading Thoroughbred stallion in America, had $274,000 to his credit up to November 12th last, his stock having won considerably more than double the amount secured by the progeny of his nearest opponent, Sain. Peter Pan and Colin are Commando's chief winners. The latter, in all, as a two-year-old, has secured twelve races of the aggregate value of $135,290.

At a meeting of the Iowa State Board of Agriculture, held in Des Moines, December 12th and 13th, the premium list the 1908 fair was revised and adopted. The cash premiums were increased in the cattle, swine and horse departments. In the horse department, a full classification for Hackneys has been added, and the Government classification for American carriage horses was Other classes have been adopted. strengthened, and a new and liberal classification for draft geldings and grade mares in harness is offered. classification carries a thousand dollars in prizes, and assurance has been received that it will be supplemented with specials from several breeders' associa-

TRADE TOPIC.

RAISING POULTRY AS A SIDE LINE.—There is money in raising poultry for the market. As a side line it fills in many unprofitable hours, and pays handsome dividends the year round. You can start without a feather and select enough pullets from the first season's hatching to lay all the eggs you need for the next season, or you can market them as broilers at a good round price. The business of raising poultry is one that doesn't require a large amount of money to start. For a few dollars you can buy either the Wooden Hen or the Excelsior incubator, and either one will more than pay for itself with the first hatch. There's no need to pay high prices for incubators that won't do as well. These incubators are made by H. Stahl, Quincy, Ill., who is George widely known as one of the largest and most successful manufacturers of hatchers and brooders in the country.

Begin to-day by writing for a free copy of Stahl's catalogue—an instructive book on poultry-raising. It is quite elaborate, containing many plates in natural colors, including views showing development of the chick from the egg to the bird.

THE UNKNOWN SEX.

During the time that a certain Middlesex regiment was quartered in Cawnpore, a large order was sent to a shoemaking firm for boots for the men. The manager sent the order to the chief baboo with instructions that it was to be attended to without delay. The baboo took the paper and read it with evident surprise on his face. He reread the order, and appeared more mystified still. He read it a third, then a fourth, and finally a fifth time. Then he went off to the manager. "Please, sir," he said, "not understand. Male sex I know, female sex I know, but what is Middlesex?"
