THE TRUE WITNESS AND CATHOLIC CHRONICLE.

The Quest of Father Maurice.

Father Maurice sat in the big bay window of the rectory parlor. It was bright daylight outside-a day in treacherous March, but full of warm sunshine; and this sunshine lay now in yellow bars on the dark red floor. A glorious day it was in-ded with orgony of winter's frost glorious day it was in- gleam of pl a enough of winter's frost countenance deed, with it-just barely enough to set the lood tingling with the very joy t being alive. But Father Maurice heeded not the sunshine nor the glory of the God-given day. The blue sky outside did not appeal to him, nor the bracing whole countenance into one the whole countenance into one of determination. A man of whom any mother might be proud as she sent him to fight the battle of God against all the world. A man to whom the old might look up as the incarnation of all gentleness, and children might cling to as the incar-nation of all strength. His books-he was a scholar of not of

His books-he was a scholar of no' His books—he was a scholar of no mean attainments—lay piled in a heap at his elbow. His papers, too, in orderly precision, were stacked be-fore him. Bat he touched nothing. His abstracted gaze rested on the opposite wall, and even as he gazed the rectory parlor faded from his sight and before him can's a visco of the past.

It is a tiny room-kitchen and sit-It is a tiny room-kutchen and su-ting-room combined. On the scru-pulously clean floor is laid a gay rag carpet. Old-fashioned mottoes are framed upon the walls, and over the mantel is a cheap picture of the Sacred Heart. Muslin curtains, held back by bright red ribbons, are on the windows, and in these windows the windows, and in these windows blossom the flowers their owner loves. She is a small woman, with shrewd, gentle kindly face and a snrewd, gentle kindly lace and soft gray eyes-eyes that send forth beams of charity on all her little world. She is a widow, her only child, a boy, her idd. She has mar-velous dreams for that boy of hers, and in his most turbulent moments the thought of his mother helps to the thought of his mother helps to curb the untamed spirit, as anxious to outrun bounds and seek mischiefs as any other lad of his age and as any other has healthful activity. and

She had worked for him since his father's death left him with only her to guide hum and take care of him. Like Anna, the mother of Samuel, she dedicated him to the Lord and in his future were bound up all the simple ambitions of her life-all her simple ambitions of her life-all her desires and hopes. No wishes for grandeur were hers, no longings for things of confort, no craving for material good. But on the knees of prayer she humbly besought the' grace that this one child of hers should be called of God to reap the shrifting hervest spiritual harvest spiritual harvest. The prayer was heard. He had the blood of a long line of fighting an-cesters in him, even if of humble ori-gin. The free air of America, breath-ed in at every norm made his area in at every pore, made his eye clear and his brain sharp. We need said the good old pastor his kind, the delighted mother. "Vigorous, healthy stock-we need him to bat agnosticism and the worship of self

She did not understand what he meant, but he felt sure that her boy was destined for something wonoby was described for something work-deful by those very words. He grew and throve in health and mind and soul and body. From high school to college from college to seminary. Daily the sweet face grew sweeter and more holy, for her boy was God's.

"A poor old woman, sonny," she wrote to him, in her cramped, painswrote to him, in her cramped, pains-taking hand, "a poor old ignorant woutan, dear, but who, thanks to you, won't be ashamed to face God."

ivest countenance. it the "From Max Ramsey, of all fel-joy lows!" he said in a delighted tone fel-

Well!' He sk

"Well!" He skimmed through it, still smil-ing, then settled back in his chair for a slower reading. If was a breezy epistle, and humorous, to judge by the manner in which the smile broadened and settled on his has the total briefly of the number. not appeal to him, nor the bracing air, whiffs of which came through the window as if to tempt this lov-er of nature out into the open. A wide bar of the yellow light barely passed his eyes and rested on his black, closely waving hair, bringing out the purple tints in it. He was indeed a noble-looking one of a thinker. His eyes looked one of a thinker. His eyes looked out on humanity with the faith of a child in its depths; the large mouth and the square chin settled ne of a contament. a settled ne of a thinker. His grees looked out on humanity with the faith of a child in its depths; the large mouth and the square chin settled ne of a contament in one of suits. "So there isn't any cha for you to try your powers at all, fighting Parson Maurice, as used to call you," it ended. "Y remember I told you once you co never convert me? See what a p phet I am, though it profiteth yo nothing. Mother is still pagan as she brought me up to be pagan as she brought me up to be. Come and see us, Father Maurice, before she goes again to the land of the idols. If you can upset her ensy going philosophy, her monumental don't-care-ism, you will be chtilded to my candid astonishment. It shall be laid at your feet to do with as you please."

vou please The whole letter, written in this nonsensical style, touching lightly upon things which Father Maurice knew must have turned into wide-ly different channels the current of a gifted mind, aroused a certain cu-riosity in the young priest. He replied at once, and the following af-ternoon found him seated in Mrs. Mrs. Remsay's drawing-room listering to the sweet-faced, stately indy relating some of the incidents of her contisome of the incidents of her contr-nental trip. Max Ramsey, a big, bluff, blond young man, with an engaging countenance, put in a word now and then that served to give his mother's more serious tale a tinge of the ludicrous. Max Ramsey, a

At last they came to the concerning which Father 1 Father Maurice was most anxious to hear.

was most anxious to hear. "Mother doesn't understand it." The said, laughing at the suddenly thoughtful face of the woman oppo-site. "She can't understand it, she won't understand it."

"Pray try to look at it with my eyes," said the mother. "He left the breakfast table in the morning-this is an honest fact-actually laughing at some preposterous dogina of the Catholic faith. At luncheon my boy came in and looked at me. ""Well, mother!' he said, 'I've got

it. I've always known I'd get sometime, and it's conie at last.' "His tone was so solemn—so—so nlike himself—that he very nearly frightened me to death. "Got what, got what?' I cried out. " 'The Catholic religion,' he answered. 'And she said 'For heaven's sake, is that all? You scared me so,' put in Max.

put in Max. Father Maurice was shaking with laughter. The way in which Mrs. Ramsey mimicked her son's voice and actions was so true to life that he was forced to laugh at her and with said. her. And now that he has found out

And now that he has found out the way of it," she went on, as if it were a personal grievance, "he won't explain it. I can't get a word out of him to satisfy me." "My dear mother, it is impos-sible," said Max, a thoughtful ex-pression coming over his empt foce if pression coming over his sunny face. "I went out that morning as veritable a pagan as—as you are I came back willing to believe are now thing they told me. Father M tosh was talking to me. He very kind, you know, Maurice, much interested in both of us. McIn had often expended his breath finer language; and I knew it. Suddenly just like a flash, the whole thing dawned on me.

God." And what those words meant to Father Maurice only he knew. For if she were to bring him to God as her offering, dare he detract by a single unworthy thought from the value of to long to perfect himself to lead the highest life attainable. The great day of his ordination the same spot that he had been stand-ing with Max the day before. I was willing to try the experiment." she ended, with a light laugh, "but the same spot that he laugh been stand-ing with Max the day before. I was willing to try the experiment." she ended, with a light laugh, "but the spirit didn't move me." "And I went the next day along "but | periment?" he repeated, in his grave voice. "I should hardly call the ransom of a soul an experiment. must be more than an experiment. It when a blind man, for the first time when a blind man, for the first time, comes from the chrysalis of his shadowed existence into God's own sunlight. I can imagine him exult-ing in it with an almost heart-break-ing joy, bathing in it, putting out his hands to grasp some of its beau-ty, holding up objects to it, so that this new and wonderful light may transfirme into loveliness-endowing index transfigure into loveliness-glowing, iridescent, wonderful—those things he had but known by the poor sense of touch when he walked in the ways of dorkness."

of darkness." The feeling of an intensely spiri-tual nature vibrated in his tone. Max leaned forward, and now Fa-Maurice scarcely recognized the ther well and loved. "That's it, that's it!" Everything even the most trivial, is transfigur-ed by the golden glow of faith. Mau-rice, you've explained it wonderful-ly. Mother, can't you understand?" 19. Mother, can't you understand: "Each person has his own stumbl-ing block—a mountain which would be but a molehill in the path of an-other man," said Father Maurice, with a smile. "I should hardly like there memory after Father. Me. to try my powers after Father Mc Intosh-I know of him; he is a won derful theologian. But what is the difficulty with you, Mrs. Ramsey?" "That is a hard question: I have so many," she said. The levity had left her face. It was well to jest, so many," she said. The levity had left her face. It was well to jest, indeed, but those earnest words of his had sunk deeply into her heart. and the grave thoughtfulness of his mien when he spoke added to the ook herself a little, as 11 lightly trying by that movement to get rid feeling that perhaps she was of the one of those blind ones, who had not get opened her eyes. "My very first and my worst is non-belief in the jet opened her eyes. "My very first and my worst is non-belief in Ahe power of prayer." Father Maurice looked interested.

"You see," she went on, eager now to qualify her position before this grave young priest, and speaking with an amount of earnestness that made her son look at her in sur-prise—"you see, I can't conceive of any Being-subsense or otherwise Being-supreme or otherwise, whatever He is—wanting one of His or its creatures to bow down before it. Then, again, the Creator knows the wind Water and Wa or its creatures to bow down before it. Then, again, the Creator knows the mind He gave you. He knows also its workings and its wishes, doesn't He? Of what use is prayer in that case? He is aware of all wishes. you would say before you speak. And as to praying to the saints, why, it why, it at all s ridiculous—can't see that at Show me first the reason why prayer. The rest will come."

said Max 'reason why 'has been demonstrated to this lady v no less learned priests than Fathers Dupree and Schurman, to say nothing of Father McIntosh, who nothing simply overwhelmed her with dog-

"Oh. dogma!" with a laugh. want practical proof. Show me the answering of one prayer. Then you can quote all the Fathers of the could say hotly. The picture of lind man groping in the dark, wing things only by the sense Church to me blind man groping in the blind man groping in the nowing things only by the f touch, annoyed her. Father those last words of of touch, Maurice, at those last words of hers th. His eyes grew caught his breath. He leaned forward. His face over which some emotion disturbing its calm, astonished her She listened. "I am a priest four years," he said. "I had a mother once--a mo-ther, Mrs. Ramsay, who never in all her precious life tasted the luxury you know. Her back was bent with work and age; her hands were horny and wrinkled-O God in heaven bless those horny hands wherever they 'I had a mother once-a mo may be to-day!" Emotion choked him: he paused "Her face was seamed and wrinkled and lined," he went on. "Humble she and lined, he went on frumble sh was and poor and a widow, and 1-her only son-her only child. Sh gave me to God, proud of the giving glad of it, yielding me back to Hin who gave me. She prayed for me Mrs. Ramsey. I was no wiser o batter or more identical than better or more talented than th average lad of my years, heedless, in keed, and careless and inclined to keed, and careless and inclined to levity. But she prayed for me. And her prayers nust have touched the heart of God she loved in her pure way, for they made me what I am. After Christ, I am His priest by vir-

After Christ, I am His priest by vir-tue of my mother's prayers. "Well, on my ordination day she disappeared. There is but one ex-planation—she was afraid to hamper my career, she was so proud of me. My poor talents were so many sour-ces of joy to her. She thought, may-be, the son she toiled for would be ashamed of his mother who had eat-on bitter bread for his sake, and was parlance-for your intention, I think it is." She paused a moment, add-ing wistfully: "Maybe if, in return, you-pray for me"-she frowned, for you-pray for me -she net she was wedded to her fetish and hated to yield her pet point easily-"I will come out into God's easily—"I will come out into G light," she ended, with a laugh

It was fully two months after-wards. The May sunshine was warm and serene, and even the busy city appeared glad of the breath of comsummer. A touch of the warmth material bodies crave was in the without a hint of the summer' dness. Father Maurice, who torridness. Father Maurice, had just left the rectory, was ing briskly along the streets, he found himself hailed in glad, was walk miliar tones. He glanced up find Mrs. Ramsey smiling a greeting He had seen very little of her the past eight weeks and even Max man-aged to call on him only occasional-ly. The latter sat beside his mother in the open carriage. There was a blockade just at this point, and at Max Benear's order the coachman Mrs. Ramsey's order the coachman drew up to the curb and halted Mrs. Hallsey's ofder the Coachinan drew up to the curb and halted while Father Maurice, his handsome head bared, stood beside her, After the first few words the lady plunged into the subject nearest her heart. "Have you heard anything lately?"

she asked 'Concerning my mother?'' he que tioned, divining at once what she meant, "No, I have not. Did yon keep your promise?" She looked at him without a sha-

She looked at him without a sha-dow of her former raillery. Her eyes were earnest, her lips grave. "I am keeping it faithfully, faith-fully-and what is more, shall con-sider any answer you receive directly due to'my prayers. Does this sound, pregamptuous? I can't help it. It is the queerest feeling, but it is true. I have never been so earnest about have never been so earnest in my life as I am abou anything bewitchee anything in my the as I and a this. I think you have been "I think you have been dumb," he answered. "Now that language of the spirit is finding that the Innguage of the spirit is finding vent at last in rightful speech, it craves for its true food." "Thank you-there is a good deal of meaning in that. Terhaps you are right. I have read somewhere about storning the citadels of heaven-well, if such a thing is possible. I must have weakened a few of the outer ramparts. I-I want more than an answer," she finished abruptly, "I ramparts. 1-1 want more durated answer," she finished abruptly, "1 who am in darkness, seek the light," She turned her eyes on her son, who smiled affectionately. The understanding that existed be tween these two was beautiful the son's part the love he entertainthe son's part the love he chief and ed for his mother broadened a dispo-sition inclined to aestheticism. If made him manly, as an absorbing af-fection for another makes the na² rowest masculine soul. It softened the woman's somewhat imperiou disposition, prone to the arrogan her luxurious existence engendered To Father Maurice the mege sight engendered then was a keen joy- so perfect was the sympathy between them. He looked from one face to the other.

smilling now boyishly. "I am glad to hear you talk so," he said. "Very glad. You are a few steps farther on the great road. Two months ago you would not have said that." smiling now boyishly.

that." "Maybe not," she answered adding: "Will you get in and drive with us a way? Perhaps, too, I can persuade you to have dinner? There persuade you to have dunner? There is much I should like to ask you." "Thank you, thank you," he an-swered heartily, "But I am on duty for the evening. Next week-let us say Thursday?" Thursday? sav 'Father Maurice, Father Maurice, ease!'' An excited voice called his

, an excited face met his gaze turned at the call.

A man had halted in a hasty run past hin and now stood in front o him, hat in hand. "Thank God, father, I met you

-was just going to the rectory There's a poor woman run over up street and she's being carried in the street and sne's being carried in-to the drug store. They rung up an ambulance, but she wants the priest. Quick, too, Father Maurice, I'm afraid she's pretty bad—" It was the call no servant of God her way beard in your.

has ever heard in vain. Without word Father Maurice turned and left word Father Maurice turned and left his friends and was soon lost to sight in the throng. As they went along the man, who attended the church with which Father Maurice was connected, gave him hasty bu graphic details of the accident. The crowd around the drug rtore fell away as they saw the priest, and hats were lifted as he passed. Two chairs had been drawn togeth-

Two chairs had been drawn togeth-er, and on them they placed the poor creature. A policeman stood inside the door to keep back the curious crowd, some gaping coldly, others synpathetic, but all filled with the grewsome sentiment that animates a crowd anywhere-anxious to see. A kindly woman who had witnessed the occurrence had here normited to rakindly woman who had witnessed the occurrence had been permitted to re-main. She was a young woman, and tender-hearted, and with eyes full of tears she had removed the old-fash-ioned bonnet and the neatly darned gloves, and had made a pillow for the gray head by folding up her own incket and placing it underneath jacket and placing it underneath. The poor old face was ghastly white the eyes closed, and the woman whe was kneeling beside her on the floo looked up-gladly-when she saw the priest. "Oh," she murmured, "Father-"Oh," she murmured, "Father--" He was a stranger to her, but she was a catholic, and recognized the Roman collar and clerical bearing. She fell back to allow him to per-form his priestly duties. Why did Father Maurice suddenly grow rigid, and why did that strange mist swim before his eyes? Why did his face grow pale and his nostrik dilate?

nostrils dilate?

nostrils dilate? "God, my God!" he whispered. "In any way but this—give her back to me in any way but this—" He fell on his knees. The startled watchers saw him put one arm under the poor old woman's head, and with the other clasp her to him. They did not understand. But the pathos of the group touched them. The big policeman at the door felt his eyes, hardened by much gazing on sorrow, grow moist. He turned his head away. The woman heard his broken tones, saw the old eves nis proken tones, saw the old open and the wrinkled face g suddenly into beauty under the of mother-love that transfigured "My son, my little boy!" she i wurdd grov rush mured Mother," he whispered back, in a Choking voice. "My mother!" There was silence a moment. The tears were streaming down his face, and the sight worried her. She put up her wrinkled, toil-worn hands and wiped them away with faltering, weak fuggers. ak fingers weak fingers. "Don't cry now, my little son." she said. "Twill break your mo-ther's heart to see you cry, my bonny, bonny boy, God love you." "Oh, mother, mother, my mother." he whispered again. "You have al-most broken my heart. Where did you go-what have you done; and why, oh why-" "Ah, now, sonny-don't. Would it he me to stand in your way childle

"Ah, now, sonny-don't. Would it be me to stand in your way, childle, with the light of God shining - on your big w. c forenead that day? 'Twas the day of my life, my boy.

'Twas the day of my life, my boy And 'twas little to do to take my self out of yours then. God has beer good to me, sonny dear. He made you Father Maurice-my boy a priest. Think of it ! Praises be This holy name forever and forever! "'Anσ." he answered solemnly Nature striving in his heart, tool second place as the instinct of the priest asserted itself.

have prayed God to give back to me, my mother,' 'I have loved you better than thought I did, but if He gives to me-only to lose you, dear-His holy will-be done." It cost him an effort to say the words, for his heart was breaking. But dropping his voice to a whisper he listened to her faltering b. He had the holy oils in his ket, and he found time to anoint before the end, and, still with arms about her, he repeated over ocket. and over the simple prayers for dying—the prayers she loved. The ambulance surgeon came, but Fa ther Maurice surgeon came, but Fa-ther Maurice simply motioned him aside. She was going fast then, and one glance at the glazing eyes told the young doctor so. He looked in some surprise at the white face bent so tenderly above the dying wo man-at the strong arms that held the shaking old form in their tende a Church. I am still obliged to say Mass and give Benediction in a Mean Upper-Room. clasp. "She is my mother!" said the t, in answer to the curious and at that the man fell back, touched to the heart at the grief expressed in the simple words The Catholic woman was on her knees sobbing audibly.

Outside Mrs. Ramsey saw the Outside Mrs. Ramsey saw the crowd thinning rapidly away from the drug store, for excitement in the city is but ephemeral. She called the coachman to halt. "Father Maurice must be in there yet," she said. "Go, Max. Perhaps who can beln the poor creating who.

Yet such as it is, this is the sole outpost of Catholicism in a division of the county of Norfolk measuring 35 by 20 miles. And to add to my many anxieties. I have no Diocesan Grant. No En-dowment (except Hope) We must have outside help for the present, or haul down the flag. The generosity of the Catholic Pub-lic has enabled us to socure a valu-ble site for Church and Preshvlery.

boy in the world, and ver tired of the little hands, and the winning Bobby's mother thou time to give the youngs lessons. One was that ask for things to cat away from home away front home. " "I don't care," said his mother had told hi

I. Hate

THURSDAY, NOV

B

TWO LITTL

Two little children

Knelt at their m Four little hands, And lowly whisp

And sweetly pray

aised.

With quivering lips "The naughty one

Such lovely storie

could tell-stories of lins and of little fla cesses! And how I love to hear them!

"I think, Aunt E

"that I like best of the wish fairy. I fairy, and that I cou wishes, all day long And what do you Emily did? Made the

of shining gold paper

blue bows and bells o

and a sash round h wand of glistening pu-hand; and little Dot transformed into a s eyed fairy. Aunt E and sent her off to " "O, dear," said gru

I could find my glas And away Fairy Do and downstairs, and grandma's glasses.

"I wish someone wou my soldiers away."

And there on the Was fairy Dot.

Mother wished he watered, and father v

newspaper; Aunt Emi someone to help stir seed the raisins, and she knew what the cl ser looked as though drink, and the kit some milk; and there wishes, everywhere in Wasn't it good F

Bobby was a little f

good-natured and the neighborhood. His h

white house surrounde

lawn, and beautiful sh where they were most

Bobby. "Now, Bobby usually

Now, Bobby usually tite, and he was not it ing what he wanted t ing his home lived "Au he called her, althoug really no relation to hi thought Bobby was ab boy in the world any

* * *

BOBBY.

said little

came true

sash round h

FAIRY I

-Selected.

MORRISON & HATCHETT Advocates, Barristers, Solicitors, 5th Floor, Banque du Peuple Chambers 97 ST. JAMES STREET. Phone Main 3114.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1908.

M. J. Morris

Hon Cir Ales KAVANAGH, LAJOIE & LACOSTE

ADVOCATES, SOLICITORS, Etc. 7 PLACE D'ARMES H. J. KAVANAGH, K.C. PAUL LACOSTE, I.I. B. H. GERIN-LAJOIE, K.C. JULES MATHIEU, I.I. B.

> Bell Telephone Main JOHN P. WHELAN M, A., B ADVOCATE AND SOLICITOR. 93 ST. FRANCOIS XAVIER ST. Montreal,

Telephone Main 227

Two little angels, Praying to God Four little eyes to MULLIN & MATHIEU

ADVOCATES Roota 6, City and District Savings Bank Chambers, 180 St. James St., Montreal.

"Now, ask of God, Your hearts both Forgive each other You must forget CASIMIR DESSAULLES Barnard & Dessaulies Two little heads in raised, And answered: "" We'll ask of God t But, what must Alwater & Ducios ADVOCATES Guardian Building, 180 St. James St. A. W. ATWATER, K.C. C. A. DUCLOS, K.C. J. E. COULIN Four little arms we Their eyes with t "O, mother! what What have we to Each little angel (Knelt at their mo

ADVOCATES Savings Bank Building, 160 St. James Bell Telephone Main 1679.

GOUIN, LEMIEUX, MURPHY & BERARD

BARRISTERS, SOLICITORS. Etc. Hon, Lomer Coulin, K.C., Hon, R. Lemieux, K.C. D, R. Murphy, K.C. J. O. Drouin, K.C. F. Brassard, I.J., B. New York Life Building.

Tel. Bell Main

T. Brossard, K.C., H. A. Cholette, I.I. B. Thomas M. Tausey, B.C.I. BROSSARD, CHOLETTE & TANSEY

Advocates, Barristers and Solicitors. Phone Main 199 160 ST, JAMES ST, The Guardina Bidg

CODERRE & CEDRAS

ADVOCATES S Place d'Armes Hill, Montreal Street Railway Edg Evening OFFICE : 3663 Notre Dame Street West, 53 Church Street Verdun, FRANK E. MCKENNA NOTAKY PUBLIC Royal Insurance Building Montreal.

STUART, COX & MCKENNA. Main 2874

Bell Tel. Main 3552, Night and day servi Conroy Bros.

193 CENTRE STREET Practical Plumbers, Gas and Steamfitters, Estimates Given. Jobbing Promptly Attended To essor to John Riley. Established in 1860, and Ornamental Plastering. Repairs of ds promptly attended to, 15 Paris Street, Point St. Charles.

Lawrence Riley PLASTERER

TO LOVERS

OF ST. ANTHONY

of Padua.

Dear Reader .- Be patient with nie for telling you again how much 1 need your help. How can 1 help it? or what else can 1 do? For without that help this Mission must cease to exist, and the poor Catholics already here remain with-

Yet such as it is, this is the sole for

highest life attainable. The great day of his ordination came-a happy day for both, bring-ing with it the wondrous eeremony that set her boy apart from the world of men. On that glorious and wonderful day his mother's face shone upon him with the peace of heremone file shone upon him with the peace of heaven. She had wept tears of joy. Her lips were trembling as she kiss-ed his hands, his anointed hands, and when he gathered her shrunken figure into his strong arms she put her gray head on his shoulder and sobbed aloud in excess of delight. And after that-silence. And after that-silence.

Where she went he did not know. Through what mistaken idea she had Through what mistaken idea she had nanaged to efface herself he never liscovered. But search for her as he night, from that day forward until his he had never seen his mother's ace or heard her voice. discovered.

This was the memory that shadow-ed Father Maurice's eyes and made heavy his heart. Before him on the table lay his Bishop's letter-a kind-ly, tender letter written from a spi-ritual father to his well-beloved son. In it he spoke of what he knew to be the young price's correct long. heavy his heart. Before him on the table lay his Bishop's letter—a kind ly, tender letter written from a spi-ritual father to his well-beloved son. In it he spoke of what he knew to be the young priest's carnest long-ing, a post on the missionary fron-tier, but also of the faring of his guest, and what chances there seem-ed to be of success. For well the suffered in consequence of this sud-den void in his life. Father Maurice lifted his head from his hand with a sigh new, folded the letter carefully and put it in his In it he spoke of what he knew to be the young pricest's earnest long-ing, a post on the missionary fron-tier, but also of the faring of his quest, and what chances there seem-ed to be of success. For well the Bishop knew the anxiety of mind he suffered in consequence of this sud-den void in his life. Father Maurice lifted his head from his hand with a sigh new, folded the spirit didn't move me " The laugh, the last words jarred on Father Maurice. He shrank from this airy touching on the most sols airy touching on the most sol-n of subjects. You were willing to try the exemn

Backache is the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are liable to become affected.

Heed the warning; check the Backache and dispose of any chances of further trouble.

If you don't, serious complications are very apt to arise and the first thing you know you will have Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of Kidney Trouble.

ashamed of his mother who had eat-en bitter bread for his sake, and was bent with much toiling up and down another's stairs. Mrs. Ramsey, when you spoke just now I felt suddenly, that here was a way-that God meant you for His instrument. Through your prayers He will give me back the one to whom I owe my life my vocation. It must be an Inrough your prayers ine win give me back the one to whom I owe my life, my vocation. It must be an inspiration, mustn't itû How could you, wealthy, aristocratic, anoving in the circles that you do-how could you come in contact with a poor little old woman? And I do not ask you to seek her. Just pray -pray that I may find her. God will, in His mercy, give to you what He has not given to me.'' He had touched the woman's heart beneath her cold exterior. The tears were streaming down her cheeks-tears she did not check or wipe away, though generally any emotion away, though generally any emotion seemed an insult to the classic calm on which she prided herself. put his hand ° out to mee Maz on which she prided herself. Max put his hand out to meet his friends, and their fingers met warm-ly. His eyes, too, were moist. Fa-ther Maurice looked ashamed. "Pray forzive me for making you feel so badly," he said. "I do not know why I said so much--it must surely have been an inspiration, Mrs. Ramsey, for--" "Father Maurice, I have never praved in my life. I shall do so now for your wishes. There is an-other way of saying it in Catholic

Eye Strain Headaches

Manitoba lady tells how headaches disappeared with the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

Women who use their eves much for reading or fine needlework are sure to find eyè-strain and nervous, sick headaches among the first symptom when the nervous system gets run down

As a positive cure for headaches, not merely relief but cure, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food stands without a rival because it gets at the cau of the trouble and builds up t nervous system to health strength. and strength Mrs. C

Geo. Fuller, Lakeland, Man. Mrs. Geo. Fuller, Lakeland, Stat., writes: — "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of Nervous headache, from which I was a great sufferer, and I am no longer troubled with twitch-ings of the Nerves in the arms and legs." The portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box: 50 cents at all dealers, or Edmanson, Rates & Co., Toronto.

. .

yet," she said. "Go, Max. Perhaps we can help the poor creature, who-ever she may be."

Max obeyed. He entered the store hastily, coming out a few minutes afterwards and approaching the arhastily. istocratic woman who waited him. Her somewhat languid expression gave way to a look of anxiety when she saw his face. She sat up quickly. "What is it, Max? Something has

"Your prayer has been answered," "Your prayer has been answered," mother dear. I shall stay here-per-haps I can be of some use to Mau-

'Max!"

"Max!" "He has found his mother, he has found her at last." "And she is—" "Dead, dear. Go home without me, I shall come as soon as possible and tell you all about it."

Three months later Father Maurice was sent on his longed-for mission work. Two things he likes to rework. Two things he likes to re-member of his last few days stay in New York. One is the reception into the fold of Mrs. Ramsey, who found faith the day the quest was ended, and who is now among the humblest children of Mother Church. The other is his last visit to the little .mound in Calvary Cemetery where rests all that is earthly of his mother's form.—Grace Keon, in "The Buler of the Kingdom."

we have money in hand towards the cost of building, but the Bishop will cost of building, but the Bishop will not allow us to go into debt. I am most grateful to those who have helped us and trust they will continue their charity. To those who have not helped I would say: —For the sake of the Cause give something, if only a "lit-tle." It is easier and more pleasant to give than to beg. Speed the glad hour when I need no longer plead for a permanent. Home for the Blessed Sacrament. Address—

Father Gray, Catholic Mission. Fakenham, Norfolk, England.

Address

P.S.-I will gratefully and prompt-ly acknowledge the smallest donation and send with my acknowledgment a beautiful picture of the Sacred Heart and St. Anthony.

Letter from Our New Bishop.

Area Father Gray.—You have duly accounted for the alms which you have received, and you have placed them securely in the names of Dio-gene far towards providing what is necessary for the establishment of a permanent Mission at Fakenham. I authorize you to continue to solicit dums for this object until, in my judgment, it has been fully attained. Tours faithfully in Christ, f. F. W. KEATING, Bishoo of Northampton. Bishop of Northampton law. "I can get all I here and at Aunt Eliza "But you are not to thing to eat at Aunt E "Ho! What'll I do y "Ho! What'll I do w gry at Aunt Eliza's." "Come right home at thing to eat. Now. rem The next day Bobby Eliza's as usual. His told Aunt Eliza about 1

the youngster if he brown when it was near the n mother called to him to $20 as the one Drawn when it was near the n the to him to $20 as the one Drawn when the head to him to $20 as the one Drawn when the head to him to $20 as the one Drawn when the head to him to $20 as the one Drawn when the head to him to $20 as the one Drawn when the head to him to $20 as the one Drawn when the head to head the head the head to head the head to head the head to head the head to head the head the head to head the head the head to head the head to head the head so as to see Dad, who up the street. On the

The street. On the oven was an appetizing p Bobby's eyes turned tow sidled in the direction of At last he said: "Aunt Eliza, if you ga thing good to eat, and yo a big saucer, and told r it home, I wouldn't spill It is needless to say home a dish of the pudd

You can see G Gin Pills turn the urine 1 Fills for Kidney or Blad changed color. You see for have started to cure. It we are doing you good. 50c. a box; 6 for $2.50. At all dea-lers. If you can't Set them in yourn nel ghborhood, order duroct. ier direct. mple free if you mtion this paper