

WELCOME THE COMMISSIONER

Citizens Repair to the Forks and Escort the New Governor to the Official Mansion—Heartily Congratulated and Talks Most Interestingly of the Future.

It was nearly 11 o'clock yesterday evening when the Honorable Fred T. Congdon, commissioner of the territory, in company with probably a half hundred of his warmest friends and admirers, arrived at the executive mansion. The new commissioner had just reached his future home from the long and wearisome journey overland from Whitehorse and his friends had gone in a body to the Forks to meet him. Upon the arrival of the White Pass stage, Mr. Congdon was prevailed upon to exchange his seat for one in the cutter of Ex-Mayor Macaulay, and it was the conveyance of the latter that headed the long procession that paused but once or twice on its way to the gubernatorial residence. Once there a sort of informal reception was held at which the heartiest congratulations were extended to the new commissioner who by way of reply spoke feelingly of the cordial manner in which he had been received by the people of the Yukon upon his return. A reception had been arranged at which an address was to have been presented from the board of trade and also one from the municipal council, but when it was discovered that the commissioner's party would not arrive until a late hour it was postponed until this evening.

The news of Mr. Congdon's arrival last night rapidly spread and though it was late an unusual number flocked to his residence to extend their felicitations. All were surprised at the excellent physical appearance made by the commissioner. He seemed somewhat fresher than when he left early in the winter, his face bore a ruddy tinge that betokened good health and the grasp of his hand carried sincerity with the touch of every finger. No one could doubt but that he was glad to be back in the Yukon for he had gone forth a few months ago as a plain citizen of the territory and now he holds the highest office in this part of the far north that was within the gift of the government, a fitting reward that was bestowed for the valiant services rendered last fall at the Dominion election when largely through his efforts good government prevailed over senseless anarchy and ignorant rowdism.

A representative of the Nugget was received at the official residence this morning and thoroughly enjoyed a half hour chat with the new commissioner. Mr. Congdon is an easy man to interview, being neither too verbose nor too reticent and knowing just how to express his thoughts in the most terse and concise manner possible. The successful interviewer is he who can secure the meat from a half hour's talk with a prominent man upon public subjects and present it to his readers in as few words as possible, and in doing this more than can be imagined depends upon him who is doing the talking and the manner in which he says it.

Mr. Congdon has been the commissioner of the Yukon territory since March 12 when he took the oath of office before Mr. John J. McGee, clerk of the privy council, at Ottawa, leaving the city the following day which was the day after parliament convened. One thing Mr. Congdon desires to particularly impress upon the people of the territory is that with reference to the health of Yukon's member of parliament, Mr. Ross. With the nasty little innuendoes that is so characteristic of the Wise Mike who has the editorial management of the opposition sheet, an opportunity has never been allowed to pass to insinuate that Mr. Ross is anything but a well man, that he has one foot in the grave and other such ridiculous rot, and it is a pleasure to be able to refute absolutely such stories. Mr. Congdon is authority for the statement that the health of Mr. Ross has not been so good in years as at the present time.

"I did not see Mr. Ross for some time prior to my departure for the west as I left Ottawa on the 18th and he did not arrive until between the 20th and 25th. I saw him, however, and was with him for several days about the first of January shortly before he went south and I could not help being struck with his appearance of health, brightness and vigor. A week or two after we met he went to Montreal to consult Dr. Stewart, who I believe is recognized as one of the greatest specialists in the entire country upon the subject of the disease from which Mr. Ross had been suffering. He told Mr. Ross that he had made the fastest and most marvelous recovery that he had ever known or heard of and that at the present time his only trouble was due to nervousness. He also said that if he would take an absolute rest for about two months he would be in as good health as he ever was in all his life. This advice so cheered Mr. Ross that he continued improvement became noticeable every day and he immediately began making preparations for his southern trip and absolutely refused to heed the doctor's advice. I have heard from him frequently since then and of him from those who have been in his company and the reports of his health are most excellent. The last I saw him he proposed to come inside and pay his constituents a visit as soon as the house rose if the session was not continued too long, at all events not later than July or August. His activity since his return to the house has been simply marvellous."

"What is the probable extent of appropriations for the Yukon and for what purposes will they be voted?" was asked.

"That is almost impossible to state without figuring. I went over the estimates for the Yukon with the minister of the interior and Mr. Cory, who gives special attention to the details of the matter and fixed all those absolutely necessary and did all I could with those of which I was not positively certain. There is no reason to doubt but that the vote for the Yukon will be ample. At present, however, I can give you no particulars."

"Are there any new roads contemplated?"

"That is something I do not know enough about at present to enable me to make any definite statement. Any roads that are necessary to be made will of course be constructed, but the greatest appropriation in that respect will be for the maintenance of those already in use."

"What are the views of the members of the cabinet as to the Treadgold concession?"

"The cabinet does not freely disclose its opinion upon matters of this kind until such are made public by means of orders in council, but I do not think that anyone can interview any of the ministers at Ottawa without becoming assured of their recognition of some of the errors that have occurred in the Yukon in the past and their sincere determination, so far as possible, to remedy these and do everything in the best interests of the people of the Yukon?"

"Is the total cancellation of the concession likely or will it merely be amended?"

"That is a matter with which Mr. Ross has to deal and with which I as commissioner have nothing to do. I can only express the hope that the matter will be satisfactorily arranged, but can not speak with certainty of the ultimate result."

"In what particulars does the government regard the concession as being advantageous to the miners, and is the government seriously considering the substitution of a public water system for Treadgold's scheme?"

"One of the difficulties attendant upon the Treadgold scheme is to induce parliament to undertake the vast expense of establishing a natural water supply for the Yukon, and it is particularly difficult at the present time owing to the vast demands on the treasury from every quarter of Canada for assistance in public work rendered necessary by the rapid growth of the Dominion, and especially in this true of the west. Members feel that the great problem of transportation and that all the resources of the country will be taxed to meet legitimate demands of that kind."

"The probable new legislation that will be enacted by the Yukon council at its first session is a matter that is of vital interest to everyone, particularly to the wage earner as the new law framed by the Trades and Labor Council will be presented and speedy action asked to be taken on it. In reply to the question as to what new legislation was in contemplation, Mr. Congdon said:

"The first thing to be done will be the consolidation of the ordinances of the Northwest territories in force in the Yukon territory, and of the ordinances passed by the Yukon council. With regard to other matters, without some preparation it is impossible to speak with any definiteness. I understand a lien law has been prepared and will be submitted to the council and I have no doubt it will receive from every member of the council, as it certainly will from myself, most careful consideration and support so far as while protecting the rights of mechanics and laborers it does not by injuring credit and doing injury in other directions work for evil rather than good. It is a large question in respect to which the best opinions of the most advanced counselors are not fixed. It is easy to make a lien law which while absolutely protecting wages earned will injure the laborers by causing an immense reduction of employment and of the possibility of earning wages."

"Another matter for which the opposition press has been continuously howling for weeks and weeks and which to a large extent has been settled is that of the next meeting of the council and when it is to be. The 'senior member' for district No. 1 has been particularly rampant with his demands that a meeting be called at once and all sorts of the most dire threats have been made by him and his man Friday on the News if his requests were not considered, but that such have caused nothing more than a passing notice, if that, is observed by the statements of Mr. Congdon relative to the matter. The new commissioner will not call a meeting of the council until there is business in view warranting it. In regard to when the next meeting will be, he says:

"I can not say when the next meeting of the council will be. As soon as the business that is being prepared is in readiness, then I shall call a session and not before. It will take some little time to get the work ready and I am in hopes that the estimates relating to the Yukon will shortly be brought down and the appropriation made. Until such is done and the figures showing what we may expect are before us, the most important work of the council, of the year cannot be properly undertaken."

"What is the probability of there being a general election this fall?"

"None whatever."

"Is Mr. Ross to be given a cabinet position?"

"That depends wholly upon Mr. Ross."

"When will the Yukon council be made wholly elective?"

"Probably shortly before the termination of the term of office of the present elective members. Certainly not before such change takes place will it occur."

"As stated, Mr. Congdon has been Job Printing at Nugget office."

MINING EXPERT HOFFMAN

Now En Route From Seattle to Siberia by Way of Dawson—Will Remain Here Until Opening of Navigation—Goes in Interest of Guggenheime Exploration Company.

Special to the Daily Nugget.

Seattle, April 9.—Geo. F. Hoffman, the noted mining expert, has started for Siberia by way of the Klondike and Nome in the interests of the Guggenheime Exploration Co. of which John Hays Hammond, the celebrated South African operator, is general manager. He is accompanied by his son, J. P. Hoffman, also a mining man. On reaching Dawson, Hoffman after examining some properties, will await the opening of Yukon navigation, taking a steamer to St. Michael and Nome. From the latter place he will cross the Bering sea in one of the Northwestern Commercial Co.'s steamers running to Siberia. He will take a large force of trained prospectors. The Guggenheime Exploration Company will confine its operations to a succession of territory held by the Northeastern Siberia Co.

COMMISSIONERS' REPORT

Ten per cent increase for miners, pumpmen, engineers and firemen. Increase to apply for all work done after Nov. 1, 1902. Positions manned continuously to be provided with three shifts of eight hours each.

Men to be relieved on Sunday by relief provided by operators. Nine hours to constitute a day's work for miners. Establishment of a permanent board of conciliation to consist of six members to settle disputes. Circuit judge of third judicial district to appoint umpire when board of conciliation is unable to settle a difficulty.

No suspensions or lockouts to be ordered pending decisions of the board of conciliation. Check weighmen to be appointed upon the request of the majority of miners in a colliery. Miners to receive an increase of 1 per cent in wages for each increase of 5 cents in price of coal to consumers.

No person to be discriminated against because of membership or non-membership in any labor organization. Awards made shall continue in force until March 31, 1906. Discontinuance of "coal and iron" policy. Stricter enforcement of laws relating to child labor. Federal and State governments should provide for compulsory investigation of difficulties between miner and operator.

Losses because of last strike. Operators, $46,100,000, mine operators in wages, $25,900,000, transportation companies, $28,000,000.

Straight-Line Airgrams
Berlin, March 21.—Experiments with Ernest Rahmer's new system of wireless telegraphy, which directs electric waves exclusively to one point, obviating the danger of outsiders catching messages, have been made before representatives of the Admiralty Secretary and the commander of the torpedo division.

The result is obtained through a series of parabolic mirrors, which give all the electric waves a parallel course. The system is available for distances of twelve to fifteen miles and is intended principally for communicating between vessels in harbor or along the coast.

The transmitting velocity is twenty-five words a minute.

The fresh beef at Douglas Market is giving great satisfaction, having been grain fed all the way in. No advance in price.

Returns After Vacation on the Coast

John R. Grey of the Dawson Hardware Co. came in on the White Pass stage last night in company with Commissioner Congdon.

Mr. Grey spent the time he was on the outside visiting the various cities of the coast from Vancouver down to San Francisco.

In the latter city he states that business is in splendid condition and new buildings are in course of erection on all sides.

An immense block is nearing completion on the site of the old Baldwin hotel. Two floors are to be occupied by branches of John Wannamaker of Philadelphia.

Vancouver and Victoria were not very lively owing to the strike on the C.P.R. In both cities the merchants were often seen driving their own trucks and delivery wagons and business was very sluggish.

Mr. Grey made quite extensive additions of stock to be delivered at the opening of navigation but the bulk of the company's orders will not be sent out until later in the season.

He found the trail in excellent condition, far better than at the same time last year. Mr. Grey looks well and rugged and states that he is more than pleased to be back once more in Dawson.

Elegant Display
On Friday, tomorrow, Mrs. Robt. Hutcheon will open at her new store on Second avenue, opposite the Dawson Hardware Company, the most elegant line of Easter and spring goods ever seen in Dawson.

The stock is just in over the ice and is direct from New York, London and Paris, and embraces none but the very latest styles—all the go in the above mentioned hubs of fashion.

At Mrs. Hutcheon's store the ladies of Dawson have the greatest opportunity for selecting what they wish ever extended to them in this city. They are cordially invited to visit the new store and inspect the stock whether they wish to purchase or not. What they will see there will be pleasing to the eye.

Secured No Booty
Colorado Springs, March 12.—Burglars last night effected an entrance into the Denver & Rio Grande office at Colorado City and blew open the safe, but failed to get any money.

A heavy charge of nitro-glycerine was put into the safe, which not only demolished the strong box, but wrecked the depot interior. This is the tenth attempt in the past six years at this place, none of which have been successful.
