TORONTO MAN
DISAPPEARS

Mystery Causes Anxiety in that City—Last Heard of in Mc-Leod, Alta.—His Valise Arrives in Toronto; But Where Is He?

The arrival here in Toronto on July 14 of a battered black leather valise with the lock smashed, containing clothing and toilet articles of John J. Nelson of this city, presents a mystery behind which lies the possible disappearance of a Toronto man of whose whereabouts the anxious wife and family have not secured the slightest clue.

The Toronto police, the Winnipeg force, and lastly the provincial detectives and The Telegram, have been appealed to in the effort to solve the puzzle as to why this black valise should reach the city safely, and to be delivered at the home of Nelson by the Canadian Baggage Transfer Co., while the owner seems to have vanished, at some point on the 2,000 mile stretch between Macleod, Alberta, and Toronto, his home town.

There is the possibility, and to this the family and friends are striving to pin their hope, that Mr. Nelson may have forwarded the valise to its destination, may have struck out from Winnipeg in a new direction to take up land, and may now be safe and sound away from communication facilities. But that the husband and father knowing the valise containing the effects he took away from this city in the first place would arrive here to herald his return, and would maintain blank silence as the days and weeks roll on, without his following his effects, seems almost unbelievable to the family and friends.

It was on July 14, between four and five o'clock in the afternoon when the doorbell of the red brick house at No. 781 Euclid avenue, where the Nelsons live, rang, and an expressman employed by the Canadian Transfer Company handed the black valise to Mrs. Nelson. His business was to deliver the article and get a receipt. The appearance of this piece of baggage, about the only bag that Mr. Nelson had taken with him when he left for the west last February, gave Mrs. Nelson a start of pleasurable surprise, as her husband had not in his letters spoken of beginning the return trip. The express messenger, however, to her natural equities, could give no information whatever.
The family was in a state of expectancy from that time on, and next day also were on the qui vive for the arrival of the father. The days wore on, and there appeared neither an explanatory letter nor any signs of the traveller. Then mystery stuck its gruesome features into the proposition, for the family recollected that in the last letter written from Macleod, that no mention of the home trip was made.

The last letter written by Mr. Nelson to his wife and family was dated July 4. From that time to this there is no trace. To add to the suspense Mrs. Nelson's family ascertained that the valise had been check-ed from Macleod to Winnipeg, and there rechecked to Toronto on a passenger ticket over the C.P.R. to Toronto, which disposes of the idea that, planning a long jump to another section, Mr. Nelson sent his effects on ahead. When the valise arrived home it contained a suit of light clothes, a smock, shoes, socks, collars and Nelson's razor laid in the bottom—such articles as a man carries when he travels.

As the time passed and no bit of knowledge came to the family tending to dissipate the mystery, the fear that some harm had come to the traveller forced itself upon the family. It chanced that one of the Nelsons picked up a newspaper which contained the record of a man who under the assumed name of McIntyre, had hanged himself in a hotel in one of the western towns or cities. On the item did not state that this might have been some connection with the disappearance of Nelson, telegrams were sent out to various western places asking the police to describe the appearance of the suicide, but the location of the tragedy was not discovered.

Another thought, that after purchasing his ticket for Toronto, that Mr. Nelson may have become ill or disabled in Winnipeg, has depressed the wife and family, and Mrs. Nelson has communicated with friends there, and with the chief of police.
Application was made here a week ago or more to the Toronto police, with the result, the family says, that the local force said the matter was not one that could concern them, advising recourse to the deputy attorney general's department.

Mr. Nelson is rather well known here in town. He was employed for some years with the Methodist Book Room, in the paper department. Feeling the lure of the land, he set out on February 15, with W. J. Reid, of Orangeville, for the west, who is a relation, who had previously taken up land near Macleod, Alta., a distance of 800 miles west of Winnipeg. Upon his arrival there Mr. Nelson did not immediately carry out his intention, which was to take up land and farm.
He remained with the Reids, and frequently wrote home to his wife, his last word being dated, July 4.

When the valise arrived here, Mrs.
Nelson wrote to Mrs. Reid, querying about the movements of her husband.
Then Mrs. Reid answered, stating that Nelson had had some good-bye at Macleod on July 10, stating that he had a bad dream the night before, and announced that he would return to his home. Mrs. Reid according to letters she has since written, then asked him to fill a prescription for her at the T. Eaton Co. store in Winnipeg. Later on Mrs. Reid received the medicine showing that Nelson was at that point on schedule time.

Recalling that in the person of William McLelland of Winnipeg was a man who was some time ago Nelson's foreman in the Methodist Book-room, Mrs. Nelson wrote there, thinking her husband might have stayed over to call on his old friend.
He notified the police and a search of the hospitals disclosed no trace of the Toronto man.

The Nelson family here then had recourse, in the effort to pierce the mystery, to the company that carried the bag. They were told that the valise had been checked on a ticket good for passage from Winnipeg to Toronto, and that the consignor had paid at the time for carriage to Toronto and for the delivery of the article to the Euclid avenue house this city.

Every day now Mrs. Nelson and the family of four children are hoping to get some word that will lead to knowledge as to where the missing man is. A photograph has been mailed to the Winnipeg police, with the description of J. J. Nelson.

A search of the black valise showed that the key was placed in the pocket of the black smock. In the bag was a letter bearing the Euclid avenue address. The lock was broken off, and several of the articles protruded.—Toronto Telegram.

Irrigation Convention.

Lethbridge, Aug. 5.—The Western Canada Irrigation Convention closed this afternoon, and will meet next year at Kamloops. Interesting papers were given by R. H. Campbell, of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, on "The relation between irrigation and forestry," and C. W.
Peterson of Calgary, on "The place of irrigation in sub humid districts."

Prof. H. W. Campbell, known as "Dry farming Campbell," also addressed the convention and cleared away the mistaken ideas regarding his system of soil culture.

The convention passed several important resolutions. One was to appoint a permanent secretary. The government of Alberta and British Columbia will be asked to issue bulletins regarding irrigation as is done by the department of agriculture in the United States. Another resolution was passed for placing the responsibility of noxious weeds on irrigation ditches on those responsible for the maintenance of the ditches.
The fourth called for having irrigation experts on agricultural institute staffs.

The government will be asked to set aside the whole of the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains for a forest preserve in order to save the rivers of Alberta. The convention by resolution urged upon the local government and irrigation companies to come to a working arrangement for the construction of bridges over ditches, while the cases are being settled in the courts. A resolution to the effect that the agricultural college of Alberta should be located at a point where the necessary area of irrigable land can be included in the college farm order, and that students may be given instruction in the practice and theory of artificial application of water to crops was passed unanimously. The British Columbia government will be urged to establish an agricultural college as soon as possible. A. M. Grace, chief engineer of the South Alberta Land Co., gave an address on the irrigation project of the company.

The following officers were elected:
Hon. Presidents, His Honor Lieut.
Governor Dunsmyth; pres., Hon. J. S.
Fulton; first vice pres., J. S. Dennis; second vice pres., A. M. Grace; treas., C. W. Hillamore, Kamloops.
Executive committee, W. C. Richards, R. B. Bennett, W. H. Fairfield, J.
L. Robinson, E. B. Knight, A. E.
Meighan and C. W. Peterson. A permanent secretary will be appointed by the executive.

This morning the delegates were taken on a special train over the bad bridge and out to the experimental farm, where they had one of the famous "Grown in Lethbridge" luncheons.

THE WHEAT SITUATION

Crops Suffering in Argentine from Drouth—Rain Is Also Needed in Russia—Unfavorable Conditions Should Make Wheat Prices Good.

On the 26th ult., the day after the date of our last week's review, in which we reported quite a sharp decline in wheat prices, there came a sharp reaction, caused apparently by the congested condition of the July option in the U.S. speculative markets. In New York, July wheat jumped up to per bushel, in Duluth 34c, in Minneapolis 26c, and in Chicago 24c.

This advance was short lived, however, and on the day after eastness and decline again prevailed, so that in most markets closing prices today show declines of from 2c to 2 1/2c under this day week. New York, however, shows declines of only 1c on September, and 1 1/2c on December wheat, and European markets are not much changed. The seasonable weather over United States and Canadian spring wheat country has been taken as the main surface influence causing the decline in prices but the real cause is the turning over of the bull leaders in the Chicago market from the supporting to the depressing side of the market. The strong situation in wheat the world over as regards requirements, available supplies, and prospects of the yield of the crops of another year, added to which is the feeling among producers that they ought to have as high prices as during the past year, does not in our opinion warrant the present decline in prices, but the speculative trade in the United States markets is always ready to sell ahead for future delivery when things seem to be going favorably with the crop on this continent, and at the present time recent bull leaders in the Chicago market are utilizing this sentiment to the advantage of their own plans, and having with astute foresight sold out their own holdings in the September and December futures, they are now to all appearances helping to bear down the markets, probably without themselves going short to any extent, and when they decide that the proper time has come they will take the bull side again, and will soon have the rank and file of professional traders following them in buying, and then everything will tend to advance, prices again. It is quite logical and reasonable that the speculative traders should have adopted the selling side at the present time, because the weather over the United States and Canadian spring wheat country has been such as to suggest favorable development of the crops.

As regards the world's trade in wheat, buyers generally at home and abroad are going very slow, owing to the decline in the American markets.
Wheat is needed everywhere, but the trade in cash wheat, or for immediate delivery is strictly from hand to mouth, as is sure to be under the current market condition. A great deal of wheat has been sold to exporters and others for September and October delivery, at prices much below what has been going for cash wheat, but these prices now look high in view of the subsequent decline. Nevertheless all this wheat is needed, and if broken harvest weather were to develop over the spring wheat country, there might be considerable shrivelling to get stuff in time to fill September and October contracts. In Broomehall's summary of the European crop situation this week the gist of the reports is unfavorable. The weather is unsettled in the United Kingdom and sunshine needed. Some damage is reported from Russia by hot winds, and rain is needed. Yields from threshing in Roumania are disappointing. Germany has a poor crop and warm weather needed, and will require to import probably not less than 90,000, 000 bushels this crop year. Threshing returns are also disappointing in Hungary, and today the Buda-Pesth market was 1 1/2c higher. The French crop is rather better than previously reported. The latest report from Argentina says there is no improvement in the south, and crop is suffering from dry weather. Prospects for next crops are good in Australia and India.—Commercial.

Going Wrong at Imperial Conference.

London, Aug. 5.—Colonial delegates to the Imperial Defence Conference remarked today: "All we are doing is so far absolutely secret. All I can tell you is that things are going the wrong way, and I'm sorry for it."

The United Service Club dinner to the delegates to the Imperial Defence Conference, Major-General Arbuthnot occupied the chair. Sir Frederick Borden, speaking in response to the toast to the guests, said that some years ago the forces of Canada was an unorganized mob. Now they had got their different departments of the army in the Dominion and they could at once put 50,000 men in the field, and in a few weeks another 50,000. (Cheers.) They were also going to try and do their duty with regard to the navy.

At the moment the Canadians were convinced that if there was danger or risk they would do as they had done at the time of the South African war. They would come to the rescue of the empire with all the money they could get, and all the men that might be necessary in order to help this country man its feet. (Cheers.) They in Canada were going to begin at once to do their duty to lay the foundations in building up a navy which would co-operate with and be part of the great British navy.

General Smuts, of South Africa, said blood was thicker than water, yet in another sense there was something that was thicker than blood, as the tie of honor was even greater and stronger. (Cheers.) He hoped that as time went on it would be more and more realized that it is not the tie of blood which held them together, but the tie of community of interests, justice, fair play and equality.
