That nook behind the parlour door—
Those lips of hers—but give
These blessings, Fate—I want no more—
With these, content, I'll live.
Let others best like that or this, Wine—wealth—a name—before
All pleasures else, give me a kiss
Behind the parlour door.

Wine's well enough, I'll not deny, When healths go brimming round. When laughter's loud and mirth is high, And care's in bumpers drown'd. Some find in this the heaven of bliss— I, pleasures worth a score Of such delights, in one fond kiss

Let some bewilder, not in vain. Their brains to win a name; Delight they doubtless with it gain-A pleasant thing is fame. Well—fame is bliss—yet give me this,
And I'll not sigh for more,
An age of fame's not worth the kiss
I stole behind the door.

Who money loves, enjoys the gold, He gams, I never doubt; Yet happier far, a handred fold, Am I, though wealth without. Though joys like his are not amiss, I'd freely give a score Of such delights, for one fond kiss Behind the parlour door.

Take all the pleasure all those three While this remains but mine But leave me this, I'll nothing miss, For little needs he more Of pleasure, who can steal a kiss Behind the parlour door.

And yet a moment, think my song-My own she soon will be—
Fast towards us trips the hour along,
That gives her all to me.
Say, will not this be higher bliss,
When we shall need no more, At times alone, to steal a kiss Behind the parlour door?

Store,) Toronto, dated the 9th October, 1854.

To Professor Holloway,
Sir,—Gratitude compels me to make known to you the extraordinary benefit an aged parent has derived from the use of your Pills. My mother was afflicted for upwards of four and twenty years with asthma and spitting of blood; it was quite agony to see her suffer and hear her cough; I have often declared, that I would give all I possessed to have her cured; but although I naid a large sum for medicine and advice. I would give all I possessed to have her cured; that although I paid a large sum for medicine and advice, it was all to no purpose. About three months ago, I thought perhaps your Pills might, benefit her; at all events I resolved to give them a trial, which I did; the result was marvellous: by slow degrees, my mother became better, and after persevering with your remedies for nine weeks, she was perfectly cured, and now enjoys the best of health, although seventy-five years old.

I remain, Sir,

(Signed) Your obliged,
THOMAS WESTON.
