to fail in the negotiation or to make a "bad peace" and either would have spelled political ruin. Instead, upon the very terms upon which the emperor told Mr. Meyer he would make peace and upon which the military party did not believe it possible for peace to be negotiated, M. Witte succeeded in securing a treaty honorable and under the circumstances favorable to Russia. This has evidently only exasperated his enemies the more, and intrigue is again at work to discredit him. Since Japan was in a conciliatory mood they now say he made a mistake in surrendering half of Sakhalin. Yet he did so by the Tsar's orders and himself insists that personally he would have stuck to the end to his original declaration not to cede territory or give indemnity. In Japan the situation is reversed. The government recognized the advisability of concluding peace ever if all demand for indemnity had to be withdrawn. But the people were incensed even at the suggestion of the division of Sakhalin. That was evident from the expressions in the Japanese press yesterday. And that was before there was ever a suggestion of waving demand for any indemnity whatever. Today Tokyo is silent. Not a word or line about the receipt of the news comes out of Japan. The government has its hand upon every wire. And among those who best know Japan here it is ominous of the popular wrath the receipt of the terms has raised, and they recall with a shudder past tragedies when ministers have been unpopular. In view of the situation both at Tokyo and St. Petersburg, alarmists are inclined to make much of the fact that the minutes of yesterday's faithful meeting have not yet been signed by the envoys of the two powers. It is pointed out that either side could still repudiate the agreement, but both plenipotentiaries refuse to admit even the possibility of a change in the agreement.

The following statement of the Japanese government which governed their decision to waive the question of indemnity can be accepted as authoritative. Japan realized fully she was making a sacrifice for peace, but she was looking to the future. It was not a question of whether the war could be successfully continued, but of whether peace was not now more advantageous to Japan. Japan had already gained all she had fought for. It was only the "spoils of war" that remained, and having achieved the real objects of the war, she could afford to forego the spoils rather than be placed in the position of fighting for money. While Japan believed she was entitled to the spoils, she felt that her position was so strong her successes so complete, that she could yield without detracting from the force of her victory.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 30.—The following is the text of M. Witte's cablegram to Emperor Nicholas announcing peace: I have the honor to report to Your Majesty that Japan has agreed to your demands concerning the conditions of peace, and that consequently peace will be established, thanks to your wise and firm decision and in strict conformity with the instructions of your Majesty. Russia will remain in the Far East the great power which she hitherto has been and will be forever. We have applied to the execution of our orders all our intelligence and our Russian heart. We beg your Majesty mercifully to forgive that we have been unable to do more. The war office at 3.30 p. m. had not sent any message to General Livnevich concerning the declaration of an armistice. War Minister Rudiger spent the day with Emperor Nicholas at Krasnoye-Selo, the big military near Peterhof. The war office this afternoon addressed a letter to General Rudiger asking for instructions regarding the cessation of the present preparations to send further troops to the front, etc., and also regarding mobilization, but no answer has yet been received. There is reason to believe, however, that General Rudiger after conferring with the emperor sent a message to General Livnevich creating an armistice. It is impossible to learn just what the general said, but the war office is most desirous of averting any engagement which might result in needless loss of life. It is learned today that the first official telegram from M. Witte announcing the conclusion of the Portsmouth conference was received at the foreign office at 11 o'clock last night. It was communicated to his majesty with only the loss of time for recording it. Several high naval officers were seen this afternoon. They one and all expressed regret and even dissatisfaction at the conclusion of peace.

At the celebration of the golden jubilee of St. Francis Xavier's College, Antigonish, commenced to-day and will continue on Thursday. His Lordship Bishop McDonald and several of our island priests are in attendance.

At the Coleridge games in Montreal on Monday, J. W. Morton, the English sprinter, who arrived on the steamer Bavarian on Saturday, equalled the world's record for the 100 yards. The performance was a wet track and was the more remarkable from the fact that Morton had not been on a running track since June.

The British Men-of-War Cornwall and Berwick came into Charlottetown harbor yesterday afternoon about half past three o'clock and anchored in the stream. The larger ships of the squadron, commanded by Prince Louis of Battenberg, are expected to arrive here on the 15th. Each of the ships here is 8,000 tons.

It is semi-officially announced from Tokyo that the former Russian turret ship Poltava, now known as the Tango, in the Japanese navy, was brought to the naval station at Matsuyama on August 29th, from Port Arthur under her own steam. The former Russian auxiliary steamers Zoya and the Boorah have been refitted at Port Arthur.

A tornado struck the northern part of Carleton Place on Thursday last and demolished a score of houses, barns, and railways. It caused no fatalities. The storm came from the West and had a path of two hundred feet. The centre had the appearance of a funnel shaped cloud not black but luminous. It was not accompanied by lightning, thunder or rain, and the stars were to be seen shining.

The Government of China has placed the boycott of American products under the Imperial ban. An edict has been issued commanding the Viceroy and Governors of the Provinces to take measures for the suppression of the boycott and holding them responsible. A cablegram has been received at Oyster Bay from Minister Rockhill giving a summary of the edict.

Three hundred representatives of the intellectual classes from St. Petersburg met at Terijoki, Finland, recently. One of the speakers described the peasant agitation in the Province of Saratov and Samara, Russia, saying that some of these and of peasants, with arms, were organizing for a movement to be made in the autumn. Cossacks and infantry have been sent to Terijoki.

News comes from Santa Fe, New Mexico that two youths named Jo Martinez and Hucore Romero were killed by the explosion of dynamite which they used for a target. The boys were rabbit hunting. Not finding any game when they reached the powder case of the Denver and Rio Grand Ry. Co., near China they set up a box of dynamite as a target. The box contained 400 pounds of explosives and the explosion set off four tons of powder. Many windows panes were broken.

An English Marconi Company is about to take active steps towards establishing wireless telegraph communication between British South America and the Mediterranean station of the company, with this end in view, J. N. Greenfield, K. C., left Montreal Sunday for England, en route for Brazil and Argentina Republic to interview the Governments and to make such arrangements with the different South American Countries that the company consider necessary to the carrying out of their enterprise.

On Friday last the Allan Line Victorian while going out of the St. Lawrence, ran ashore on Cape Charles one hundred miles from Montreal. A dense fog prevailed and in addition there was a thick smoke from the forest fires. Earlier in the day the Virginian, thus Virginian, went ashore at Cape Charles fifty miles below Quebec. The Victorian had 300 passengers. She stuck hard and fast forward and took in nineteen feet of water in the forward hold. She blocked the shipping channel and impeded navigation. Every effort with wrecking gear was made to release her. The Virginian will be sold to the salvors.

Six Indians, comprising the whole family met with terrible deaths on the sandheads at the mouth of Fraser River B. C. on the 2nd. As the tide rose the five men were slowly out. As Chas. Gibson, wife and four children started to cross the Gulf of Georgia, they were driven on the sandheads in their boat during the storm, or they managed to make shore after their boat was swamped. The whole family was never known, but according to the story told by a fisherman the entire family assembled on the sandbanks at low tide were out of from human help, and remained there while the tide slowly rose first to their knees and finally engulfed them.

London advises say: The conclusion of the New Anglo Japanese treaty of alliance has only now become definitely known to the newspapers which were keenly interested and anxiously discussing the probable contents. Important modifications bind either power to come to the assistance of the other, if attacked by any one, instead of as in the old treaty, by two powers. The Telegraph says the Anglo Japanese treaty will guarantee terms of Portsmouth treaty. It will check any insane idea of Russian revenge and will render impossible any Japanese Coalition and terminate the scramble for China. The supposed treaty will establish an unequalled defensive alliance between Great Britain and Japan and it is believed India's included in the territory over which the treaty calls for preservation of the status quo. Should this prove the case its value to Great Britain will be enhanced.

The parade took place shortly before noon, and notwithstanding the rain in the afternoon the sports went on and were well attended and well carried out. The Summerside sports were postponed.
