

The Poet's Corner.

American Presentation.
Said Martin Jones, "Now we must go
Without delay to the depot."
Laughed sweet Miss Jones, "I should say so;
Let's start at once for the depot."
Smiled Mrs. Jones, "In quick step, oh,
We'll all run down to the depot."
Greeted Mr. Jones, "It's mighty hot
To drive you all to the depot."
These conflicts of presentation
Would not be if they called it "station."

A Dialogue.

"Dainty little lady,
Listen, pray, to me;
Canst thou ever love me?
Canst thou say to me."

"No I tell you that, sir.
You must prove to me
That my heart with you, sir,
Safely kept will be."

"Prudent little lady,
You hast stolen mine,
Surely, while thou hast it,
I must value thine."

"That is proof enough, sir,
Further would I know
What about me 'tis, sir,
Makes you love me so."

"Simple little lady,
Hast thou not been told
That thy silken tresses
Shine like burnished gold?"

"Answer that is none, sir;
I need scarcely say
Even golden hair, sir,
Quickly turns to grey."

"Modest little lady,
Clearest summer skies—
Blue, and calm, and cloudless—
Pale beside thine eyes."

"Ah, but you must own, sir,
Though that may be true,
Age will never spare, sir,
Eyes of deepest blue."

"Crest little lady,
Shall I praise thy lips,
Or thy fairy fingers,
With their rosy tips?"

"There will come a day, sir,
When these hands shall lie
Cold, and these lips, sir,
Never frame reply."

"Then, my little lady,
I can only say
That it was thy goodness
Stole my heart away."

"Goodness not my own, sir,
Given each day anew;
Lovest thou me for that, sir?
Then I love thee too."

The Fashions.

Cheap materials covered with expensive trimmings is one of the inconsistencies of fashion in ladies' dresses. Pretty breakfast caps of red silk, edged with lace, are worn by young married ladies at watering place hotels.

A new scarf is already christened Arabi Bey—an individual who now does not give much attention to fashion. Blue, red and white flannel hats, of the Buffalo Bill shape, are extensively worn by young ladies at the seaside.

Wristlets of gay-colored ribbon, tied in a bow and having streamers, are all the rage among the ladies at the fashionable summer resorts.

The new shade in cream-color now so much seen in dress materials, answers to the name of "fresh butter." It is a compromise between yellow and ecru.

In summer dresses short skirts are universal, both for morning, afternoon and evening wear, and papa rejoices that it takes less material now than formerly to make a gown for a favorite daughter.

Shrimp pink is one of the fashionable colors of the day, and it is said of it that it is very trying to the complexion, a fact in itself not likely to perpetuate its popularity. Another color in high favor is "lobster red."

Huge bunches of red and white roses worn by the ladies in their belt this season are of artificial flowers, but so clever in deception that only a close observer can detect it. This is why ladies keep away from the electric light, perhaps.

Wraps and mantles this summer are, if anything, handsomer and more stylish than ever, a trifle eccentric, perhaps, in cut and trimmings, but pretty, nevertheless. A lot of gray cashmere with ball or tassel fringe are especially stylish.

Newest coaching hats are something of a modified Gainsborough of fine white straw and exclusively trimmed with long, white, waving, nodding plumes. They are called the "McKay," presumably after the rich Californian who lives in Paris.

One sees considerable coin jewelry this season—bracelets, necklaces and bangles made of United States gold and silver pieces. A lady of Long Branch wears a necklace made of ten and twenty-dollar gold pieces, the market value of which is an even $200.

French bunting costumes are in high favor, and seem to be the ground work for a great deal of rich and expensive embroidery. The material is soft and pretty and just the thing for the "rose buds" of the season at the watering places and summer resorts.

The Doctor's Secret.
Probably no new development will more surprise the public, than to learn the secret of success of certain leading physicians, when they have a difficult case of throat or lung disease that baffles their scientific skill, they prescribe Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, having it disguised in a prescription bottle, with their own directions and name attached. The patient is cured, and they get the credit.—Tribune. Trial bottles free at Rhynas' drug store. Large size $1. (2)

A Word of Caution.
As is usually the case where an article of true merit has attained a world-wide reputation by its wonderful results, as the celebrated Electric Bitters have done, certain unprincipled parties have endeavored to imitate them, and expect to induce an unsuspecting public to purchase their fraudulent wares. Ask your druggist for the genuine Electric Bitters, that are guaranteed to cure, and take no others. Sold by Geo. Rhynas, druggist, at 50c.

Fun and Fancy.

"What did you say the conductor's name was?" "Glas—Mr. Glas." "Oh, no! Impossible, it can't be." "And why not, pray?" "Because, sir, Glas is a non-conductor." Dandling applause from the scientific passengers.

Texas Sightings: Mrs. McCoble, an Austin lady, rebuked her colored cook, Matilda Snowball, in the following words: "When I hired you, you said you didn't have any male friends, and now I find a man in the kitchen half the time." "Lor bless your soul, he ain't no male friend of mine." "Who is he, then?" "He ain't only my husband."

An Illinois dentist extracted a large piece of quartz from an old Dakota miner's mouth, into which it had been blown, not by the high winds which they have out in the mountains, but the blast of powder. But there are lots of men who get more quartz into their mouth than they ought to, and who can't be cused as easily as this man was.

A prominent physician says that if mothers did not take up the senseless prattle of babies and hurl it back at them under the plea that it is "baby talk," children would learn sooner to talk plain. They repeat the jumble of syllables that they first hear. That's the idea. Instead of saying of soapy water, "I doesn't fink it tastes dood," you can just as well have Mr. two-year-old observe, "the taste of soap combined with aqueous fluid is not agreeable to me."

A certain young man brought his affianced down from the country to see the sights. One day, while passing the confectioneer's, the swain noticed in the window a playcard bearing the announcement, "Ice cream—one dollar per gal." "Well," said the young man, as he walked into the saloon, "that's a pretty steep price to charge for one gal, but Maria, I'll see you through, no matter what it costs. Here's a dollar, waiter; ice cream for this gal."

Woes of wealth: One was carrying home a cent's worth of yeast in a pithcr and the other was going to the store for a bar of soap in bulk. "Familly you live in going away this summer?" asked the girl with the yeast. "Well, they did talk of it," replied the other, but the dress-maker disappointed them. Are your folks going? "They were going, but the milk bill came in this morning and I guess they will have to put off the trip. Dear me but the rich have their troubles as well as the poor folks. Good-by."—Detroit Free Press.

An Assassin of Character Finitish.

Eleven years ago a cause celebre started London society. Lady Twiss, wife of Sir Travers Twiss, was a beautiful and accomplished member of the aristocracy. Her husband was chancellor to the archbishop of Canterbury, an office lucrative on account of the large fee paid to the chancellor. Besides this, Sir Travers Twiss had a high reputation as a lawyer, and an extensive practice. In 1866 he was honored by a degree of D. C. L. from the university of Oxford, together with Alfred Tennyson and General Lord Clyde. Lady Twiss had been a guest at Queen Victoria's court.

But in 1871 Lady Twiss suddenly appeared in a London police court, summoned thither by a lawyer named Caffers who had in some way found out that before her marriage she had been a fast girl both in Germany and in London, England. He made use of this to blackmail the unhappy lady, whose life since her marriage had been a happy one, who was, as her husband testified in the police court, a faithful and affectionate wife. Lady Twiss had paid Chaffers by the sale of her jewelry, till she could no longer satisfy his extortion. Then he summoned her into a police court and for hours compelled her to stand the torture of a minute cross-examination, the full publication of which in the London papers, in its most revolting details, was a reproach to English decency. At last she fainted, and her persecutor left the court knowing that he had ruined his victim and her husband.

But before he left the court the magistrate addressed him in these words, "You will live to be an object of contempt to all honest men."

Of course lady Twiss and her husband were miserably. They went to live abroad. Her husband did not forsake her. Of late they have returned to London where Sir Travers has made speeches in public and is practising law with success. Meantime the noted Chaffers met his punishment. His clients left him, all men shunned and hated him, he had to go as a pauper to St. Pancras workhouse, where he will die and get a pauper's burial. It is satisfactory that when he lately applied for a warrant against Lady Twiss for perjury in denying his charges against her character in years gone by, the warrant was refused.

The moral is plain. Whatever the consequence of refusal, never, under any circumstances, pay blackmail. Had Lady Travers on receiving the first blackmailing letter confessed all to her husband, he would soon have handed over the miscreant to the police.

The Wild Strawberry plant possesses rare virtue as a cleansing, cooling, astringent, antiseptic, and healing medicine, and when combined with other valuable vegetable extracts, as in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, it is an unfailing remedy in all bowel complaints. 2

The parties who came from Buffalo for the body of F. Behnman, who was found dead near Amherstburg last week, claimed that he had $100 on his person when he left Buffalo and think that he has been foully dealt with.

Sewers of The

A good article that has achieved success, and attained a world-wide reputation by its true merits and wonderful results, is always limited. Such is the case with Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Already unprincipled parties are endeavoring to defraud an unsuspecting public, by offering imitations of this most valuable discovery. Do not be deceived, but insist on having the true remedy, and take no other. Trial bottles free at Rhynas' drug store. Large size $1. (5)

Who's the Best Physician.

The one that does most to relieve suffering humanity of the thousand and one ills that befall them, is certainly the best of all physicians. Electric Bitters are daily doing this, curing where all other remedies failed. As a spring tonic and blood purifier they have no equal. They positively cure liver and kidney complaints. In the strongest sense of the term, they are the best and cheapest physician known.—Daily Times. Sold by Geo. Rhynas, at 50 cents. [3]

Nine Physicians' Certificate.

It is generally considered a pretty difficult task to outdo a physician, but the following will prove conclusively where nine were completely outdone. Mrs. Helen Pharris, 381 Gayton St., Chicago, was treated for Consumption by nine physicians, and all pronounced her case incurable. Seven bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption completely cured her. Doubting ones, please drop her a postal and convince yourselves. Trial bottles free at Rhynas' Drug Store. Large size $1.00. (4)

Frederick Kline, of Foster Crossing, O., who once lost all his savings in a bank failure, hoarded $800 in gold in a barrel filled with rubbish. He placed a sitting hen on top, hoping she would give the alarm in case of an attempt at robbery. On Sunday Kline discovered the money had been stolen.

The Doctor's Last Happy Result.

EVANVILLE, Ind., Jan. 11, 1882.
I recently had a very difficult case of Consumption. I treated it in the most scientific manner possible, but to no effect; patient grew gradually worse. Rather than give up, and as a last resort, I decided, much against my wish, to use a remedy that had cured one of my former patients. Greatly to my surprise, the patient began to gain, and in a much shorter time than I dared to expect, she was completely cured. The name of this remarkable remedy is Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. I now use it altogether in my practice.—[Leading M. D., Evanville. Trial bottles free at Rhynas' drug store.
