VOCATIONAL TRAINING FOR WOUNDED TO BEGIN HERE

B, Kidner, Commission Secretary, to Pay Visit Here In Near Future.

A visit to London is expected in the near future from T. B. Kidner, vocational secretary of the military hospitat commission, when arrangements will be made for vocational training for the inmates of the military conval-escent hospitals. Of these, there are at the present time 32 enrolled at the Belvidere Convalescent Home and 14 at the newly opened military instituon at Victoria Hospital.

A start in this direction has been made in Quebec and plans are being made in Toronto.

New Ways of Making the Home Beautiful

It is really wonderful how styles change and improve even in the most prosaic of house fittings, and do you know that furniture, rugs, upholstering, draperies and every housefitting is improved and adapted to the higher standards of living that is characteristic of the present age? Even the method of cooking is changed, which may be done now without any fire and very little effort. Compare the fastened down rugs of a few years ago with the beautiful rugs of today, and many other things we might mention, valuable only today in museums. This Season—the spring of 1916—has its innovations in homefurnishings and decorations, and they are all advance steps in utility, comfort and beauty. We urge you to bring your Spring Homefurnishings needs to Smallman & Ingram's, and see how wonderfully well we can meet them and how wonderfully small the outlay required.
