LONDONERS FIGURE IN PASSION PLAY

Assist With Production of "Victory in Defeat" At Okanagan Home Theatre.

An interesting souvenir brought home by Mr. and Mrs. Jared Vining from a visit to Naramata, now famous for Carroll Aikins' Home Theatre, where a little group of London girls has been studying dramatic art this past summer, is a program of the esentation of what is termed the Canadian Passion Play." The title ras "Victory In Defeat," a study of piritual progress in the life of Christ, dedicated by the Canadian ayers gathered there to the memory Marjorie Pickthall. Miss Blanche Tancock of this city was one of the vo members of the executive in charge of arrangements, and Miss Margaret Glass, with an assistant, looked after settings and costumes for the production, given daily from July 31 to August 5.

"Victory In Defeat," according to the Vancouver Daily Province, differs from the Oberammergau Passion Play in two respects. It is not strictly speaking a play at all, but a series of silhouettes, seen against a screen of marvellous and ever-changing luminosity. In the second place, it is not a continuous and historical review of the life of Christ, but a series of incidents selected for their artistic rather than their purely religious significance.

Mr. and Mrs. Vining made their pilgrimage to see the Home Theater, which has drawn students of drama from all parts of Canada, while stopping over a day in Penticton, 10 miles away.

The theatre itself, Mrs. Vining states, was built originally as a fruit packing house by Mr. Carroll Aikins for his large orchard, which he had undertaken to work in quest of health. rather than money. The second story of the big shed has been transformed into a gem of a theater while the lower floor serves its original purpose The students work on fruit picking as needed and the London girls were in their farmerette costumes when met by Mr. and Mrs. Vining. The players enjoy a happy fellowship with Monday in October. others of kindred interests in the desire to realize the ideals of Mr. Carroll Aikins. His work on the Greek dramatists as well as modern plays is already becoming known throughout Canada to discerning theater lovers. The four London students, Misse Margaret Glass, Shirley White, Constance Blackburn and Blanche Tancock are expected home on Septem-

SURE WAY TO GET

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, and that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge, rub over the blackheads briskly, wash the parts, and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only causes irritation, makes large pores, and does not get them out after they become hard. The peroxine powder and water simply dissolve the blackheads on they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anybody troubled by Mrs. Childs from Miss Govenlock, who is in Kanazawa, telling of her work in Japan, was read by Miss Winifred Dunn. Miss Govenlock was a former member of Askin Street Church. Don't Ruin House With Soft Coal Smoke Burn "Strike Fuel" In Expert's Way are you numbered among the homemakers who are bemoaning the lack of "black diamonds" in the basement? Are you one wh never before realized in quite the same way the preciousness of sparkling anthracite, unless, perhaps, in those war days of trans-portation difficulties, when occasionally it seemed you were getting your coal doled out by quart measure? Prospects at present are that hard coal will not be shipped into London freely until towards Christmas time. For those who failed to get in a supply of coal in the late spring the necessity confronts of making the best of the soft coal available.

"But it will ruin the decorations of the house, the curtains, the hangings, the coverings, ruin everything," is a wail that is heard to right and to left, as visions are conjured up of weeks of "dirty black

"Not necessarily," said a London authority on coal the other day to the Women's Department of The Advertiser. Specially requested to do so, Mr. William Martin has prepared the following directions, based on his own knowledge and experience, for the use of soft coal for domestic purposes, with safety, cleanliness and satisfaction:

"These are directions for burning soft coal in furnace, range or other heating apparatus which is not self-feeding. coal cannot be safely used in baseburning stoves.

"In making the first fire have all drafts on full. Put in a generous amount of kindling and only about enough soft coal to cover the kindling. For this first fire avoid the use of coal smaller than about three inches square, otherwise the kindling may be smothered or the shaker become clogged. Allow this to burn until it has become a bed of red-hot coals, which should then be pushed back in the fire pot as far as possible. In front of the glowing coals put in a fresh supply of about half the quantity used when firing hard coal. Ignition then takes place from back to front, the fire spreading over the fresh coal burning the gases and reducing the formation of smoke and soot.

"After the first fire it is not important that you select the larger pieces, but more satisfactory results will be ob tained if a little care is taken and the smaller pieces used for topping each fresh supply. The upper or blower draft should be on full, or nearly so, at all times, so as to carry off any unburned gases or

"The under draft will have to be regulated by the amount of natural draft there is in your chimney. This will be indicated by a quick or slow-burning fire, and the under draft opened or checked accordingly. very little under draft is required to burn soft coal after a bed of red-hot coals has been produced.

Why do thousands of Women this about Nemo Corsets?

"I would never think of wearing any other corset than a Nemo. I used to 'shop around' buying different makes of corsets. Then, one day, a friend suggested that I try a Nemo and I did so. I know the style I like, now, and have had complete corset comfort ever since. My gowns fit better too.

The above expression of opinion is echoed daily by thousands of Canadian women in cities, towns and villages across the Dominion. They have personally experienced the day-in-andday-out comfort and satisfaction of a scientifically designed modish corset-made in the Nemo way.

Read carefully the brief descriptions that follow. You, 100, can be properly fitted in any of the styles described-for there is a Nemo Corset to meet your exact individual needs, no matter what type of figure you possess.

Kop Service Corsets — Designed for that large class of women who are over-developed in hips and thighs. The reduction of these parts is accomplished by bands of parented semi-elastic Lasti-Kops Webbing, which will not lose their elasticity, and are guaranteed to last the life of the corset. A Nemo Maternity and Convalescent Corset is also furnished in this Service. 5 models, 20.36, 33 00 to $10.00. 20-36, $3.00 to $10.00. Self-Reducing Service Corsets - For women of medium-full figures.

The patented Nemo Self-Reducing Straps—slightly tighter than the portion of the corset they cover—afford a constant gentle massage which softens superfluous flesh and allows it to be carried off in the circulation. Other features combine to make these corsets ideal for reducing any excess fatty tissue. 11 Models, 22-44, $4.50 to $8.50

Wonderlift Service Corsets—Intended for women of all types, their secret lies in the Wonderlift Bandlet, a band of Lasti-Kops Webbing, adjustable to the exact individual lines of the wearer, yet cleverly concealed beneath the corset-skirt. The firm uplifting support of this Bandlet is invaluable to women who skirt. The firm uplifting support of the bandlet is invaluable to women who skirts and fallen abdominal muscles and suffer—even slightly—from weakened and fallen abdominal muscles and organs.
