STORY OF A BOTTLE

Taking the old testament story of Jeremiah's visit to the house of the potter as the basis of his sermon on 'A Broken Bottle," Rev. J. H. Slimon, pastor of Adelaide street Baptist church, preached a forceful discourse at Sunday evening's service.

His remarks on the subject of the parable of the potter and the clay were summed up under three heads. First, he declared the story taught the message of divine sovereignty. As clay in the hands of the potter so are we in God's hand. Secondly, it contained the message of divine udgment. Just as some of the vessels in the potter's house were found to be marred and broken, so nations and individuals are marred and broken when they run counter to the laws of God. Thirdly, the story contained a message of divine hope for men. The potter, Jeremiah found. The Mystery Man was found by was able to take the marred and Miss J.
