As has been announced in The World before, he is one of the great advocates of the blue laws of Connecticut, and has done all in his power to commit the wooden nutmeggers who desired to take a little recreation on Sun-day—such as a sail on the river or a carriage drive. But the good doctor does not see why, when he has an ex-president and a congressman for gueets, that he should not take a drive on the Sabbath. The district attorney asked the good doctor to plead guilty for having broken the blue laws ; but the good doctor could not see it that way all reforms which the liberal premier REV. DR.
