The meeting of the International Association of Dance Masters and Teachers was held in London from January 8 to 10, 1926, at the Savoy Hotel. Secretary of the London Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Gordon Hemps, received a delegation from America, consisting of Mr. F. W. Hems, of the International Association of Dance Masters, and Mr. J. C. Hart, of the National Dance Masters Association. The meeting was opened by Mr. Hemps, who gave a brief history of the International Association, and its aims and objects. He said that the object of the Association was to promote the study and practice of dancing, and to encourage the development of dancing in all its forms. He also spoke of the importance of dance in education, and the need for more dance teachers and students. Seconding the strongest support from another, there is also the outside concern of the party are in favor of the motion will win out if the second session of the party will be reached with the selection of the three members to serve under, and in the motion to serve under, and in the session to serve under, and in the motion to serve various nominees with varying acceptance. It is und stood that before he submits a rec mendation, Sir Robert will take satiation, presentation of making remain that those ministers who int end to remain will loyally serve under new premiers, and their willingness do so will undoubtedly be a factor in the selection.

The image shows the front cover of an illustrated booklet. The title 'Hotel Sunsets' is prominently displayed at the top in large, stylized letters. Below the title, the text reads 'Goderich, Ont.' and 'Fineset resort hotel on Lake Huron, solid brick, 100 rooms, beautifully equipped'. To the left of the main text, it says 'The sunsets, bathers, tennis, play-er and bower will find ample facilities for the exercise of their favorite pastime, close to the hotel. Beautiful drive, also boat-ridge on Lake Huron and brilliant golf course at The Sunsets'. At the bottom, it lists '350 Dundas St., London, Ont.', 'MURDOCH MASON', and 'm.w.s'. The number 'X225' is printed at the top right.

The CHOOOSING SUCCESSOR. His own judgment, buttressed by opinion which he has sought from Parliamentarily following and which, yond doubt, is being supplemented by many senators and members of Parliament have completed with Robert's request and made known him their views indicating first, second and even third choices. A good number of Ontario, are waiting till they get back and size up things, but the better and will not be delayed over the weekend. It will take some time to sift all of this information and digest it all in order to come to the proper conclusion to the matter at hand. There are many aspects and implications of the party's far-reaching importance which were on the process if the party would be a far success. A close second, based in favor, with Sir Thomas Williams, who has already accepted an offer to succeed.

WITH WOOL AND SILK

The local Chamber of Commerce is recipient of the following communications from the Credito Italiano, referring to the silk and wool industry of Italy, from which it would appear that Canadian importers would do well to consider that country as a source of supply for their Canadian market. The following statement is made by the Credito Italiano:

"SILK—We are rather surprised to note that whilst Canada is buying from France and Switzerland, the silk market quantities of silk and supplies from Germany have been almost entirely held by our country.

"Our industry is at the greatest importance among the silk-producing countries of Europe, the yearly production of silk amounting to from five to six million pounds.

"The silk industry is now, Our

Over Two Hundred Entitled at the Meeting of New Union

At a meeting held in the Freeport Hall, Hembry and Dundas Streets, last Friday evening, there was a large attendance, and entitled a strict enthusiasm.

There are silents that the field is becoming like something milder now. While Sir Thomas subsists, his supporters both in and out of the House, his whidbawal from the Cabinet and his repeated declarations that he is not desirous of becoming one of them, causes a certain shrinking in other directions. Hard Sir Thomas been in the Cabinet at the time of the physical breakdown of the Prime Minister last Christmas, there would have been reason to doubt that he would have succeeded to the post of Chancellor of the Exchequer, thus giving, perhaps, the extreme supply Quebec's representation and appealing to the provinces. Then there are the Meighen and Sir Henry Drayton, who think that at the last it may narrow down between these two.
He has done a prodigious amount of work for the Government, and many argue that by all the rules of the game he is entitled to his reward. Against this is the contention that he is well known good deal of Parliamentary experience.
Mr. Meighen is an able lawyer and Sir Henry Drayton is a very good trial lawyer.

OTTAWA, July 2.—(Special to The Free Press).—An expectant and deep concerned public awaits with the keenest interest the moves on the checkered board of national politics resulting from the resignation of Sir Robert Borden and the announcement of a new ministry, headed by a new premier. Very probably it may be several days, if not a week, before anything is made of any announcement. The one definite fact is that Sir Robert Borden is going out, as soon as he can, in obscurity due to the many considerations which enter into the situation.

The retiring premier intended this general conference to be his last action, but he will not resign until his successor has been chosen. Who that will be in his place is not yet known. Who that will be in his place is not yet known. Who that will be in his place is not yet known.
