Tomatoes au Gratin .-- Prepare the tomatoes in the same way as the foregoing, but fill them with minced chicken or veal, which is mixed in a little white sauce, season with salt and pepper and the raw yolk of an egg. Cover the meat in, with nicely browned bread crumbs, and stand each tomato on a round piece of fried bread; place them on a baking tin and bake till the tomato is done; arrange them or a dish, paper and garnish with fried parsley.

Very few housekeepers, says Hall's Journal of Health, can realize the nutri tive value of cream, and understand its superiority to any other solid fats, in permitting the gastric juice to mix with it in the most thorough and perfect man-ner, and in this way aiding and hastening digestion. It is invaluable in the case of invalids, for it serves as nutriment in a very available form. It is superior to butter, because it contains more volatile oil than butter made from it. It is frequently ordered by the physical of the company to the company of th cion, for those consumptively inclined, for those with feeble digestions, for aged persons, and those who suffer from impaired circulation, cold feet, and who ted chilly from want of nutriment. No other article of food gives such satisfactory results.

A perfectly safe substance for cleaning silver, will always be found in French whiting. For all ordinary purpoles, such whiting, wet with water, is at that is necessary; but if the silver is very much discoloured, it should be wet with alcohol. This will give a brilliant polish. It is important that the materials used to clean silver should be perfectly free from any gritty subthrough a hair sieve or a piece of mus-iin, to insure against anything that might scratch the plate. Silver, as well as steel, must be washed perfectly clean before being rubbed with the polishing material A soft silver-brush will be required for brushing the chased and repousse work, which is found on nearly all the silver-nandled knives. Only sub stance which are well known have been suggested for the cleaning and care of the various articles spoken of.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A LETTER FROM EMERSON.

"I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wird Strawberry, and I think it the best remedy for summer complaint. It has done a great deal of good to my-self and children." Yours truly, Mrs. Wm. Whitely, Emerson, Man.

Spiced Peaches .-- Six pounds of peachthree and one-half pounds of granulated sugar, one on of vinegar, one-half pint of water, one ounce of cinna mon, a little less than an ounce of cloves one tablespoonful of salt and two blades of mace. Pour boiling water over the packer, allow them to stand a few moments, then drain them and remove the skins. Tie the spices loosely in a cheeseloth bag and place in the kettle with ugar, vinegar, water and salt. Allow the syrup to boil a short time, then add the peaches a few at a time, and took until tender. Skim them carefully into a stone jar, nad when all are cooked, pour the syrup over them. The day following, drain the syrup from them, boil it agair, and pour over the ruit When cold, cover closely and store away for winter use. It sometimes happens that one has a quantity of imperfect fruit which cannot be spiced whole. In this case cut the fruit into quarters, and though not quite so at tractive in appearance, the spiced spiced tractive in appearance, the spiced peaches will still be excellent.

Talking of patent medicines-you know the old prejudice. And the doc ors—some of them are between you and us. They would like you to think that what's cured thousands won't cure you. You'd believe in patent medicines if they didn't profess to cure everything—and so, between the experiments of doctors, and the experiments of patent medicines that are sold only because there's money in the "stuff," you lose faith in everything.

And, you can't always tell the prescription that cures by what you read in the papers. So, perhaps, there's no better way to sell a remedy, than to tell the truth about it, and take the risk of its doing just what it professes to

That's what the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., does with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

If they don't do what their makers say they'll do-you get your money back.
