

ST. CLAIR VIDEOTEX DESIGN INC.

COMPANY OVERVIEW

St. Clair Videotex Design Inc. was formed in September 1981 as a joint venture by one of Canada's largest communications enterprises and a leading videotex/teletext hardware manufacturer. St. Clair's business goal is to assist clients in identifying and exploiting opportunities in this new medium by providing effective communications through planning experience and a high standard of creativity.

St. Clair's corporate links offer unique advantages as a supplier of frame design and creation, applications consulting, content development, database services, test programs and strategic planning. St. Clair is independent from any one systems operator, which gives it a unique position of objectivity supported by a broad base of experience. St. Clair's staff is composed of people with extensive expertise in the videotex industry supported by a creative team professionally trained in graphic arts and design as well as a number of associates.

EXPERIENCE

St. Clair Videotex has been involved in the launch and implementation of two major commercial systems in Canada. It has produced information for every other major Canadian system, including advertising content for national advertisers on IRIS, the national teletext service of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC), and several U.S. services.

St. Clair Videotex's clients are specifically seeking ways to communicate effectively in the new electronic media in a wide sphere of business and consumer applications. These clients include:

- Canadian and U.S. advertising agencies
- Retailers and manufacturers
- Videotex/teletext systems operators
- Government departments and agencies
- Pharmaceutical companies
- Financial institutions
- Tourist-related operations
