

Schwärzwaldspeise, s. f., pl. -n, Black Forest food or dish.

schwätzen (or schwätzen), v. tr. w., to chat, chatter.

Schweif, s. m., gen. -(e)s, pl. -e, tail. [Syn. Schwanz, which is of more frequent occurrence.]

schweigen, v. intr., schwiege, geschwiegen, to be silent, keep silent.

Schwelle, s. f., pl. -n, threshold.

schwellen, v. n., schwoll, geschwollen, schwill, schwillst, or w., to swell (the weak form is usually trans.).

schwer, adj., heavy; grave, grievous; difficult; adv., heavily, etc. schwerlich, adv., hardly, scarcely.

Schwiegersonn, s. m., gen. -(e)s, pl. -söhne, son-in-law.

schwierig, adj., hard, difficult; hard to please, nice, fastidious (p. 49, l. 6).

schwindeln, v. impers. tr., to be giddy ["I am giddy" = mich schwindelt; the subj. in Eng. becoming obj. in Germ.; v. tr., to swindle].

schwören, v. tr. and intr., schwor or schwur, geschworen, to swear, take an oath [not necessarily of profane swearing, like its syn. fluchen, "to curse;" see above].

schwül, adj., sultry, close, oppressive (of the weather).

sechs(e), card. num., six; ord. sechste, sixth (pron. "sex").

Séchsbatzner, s. m., gen. -s, pl. —, coin worth 6 Batzen; sixpenny-piece, sixpence.

Sechser, s. m., gen. -s, pl. —, same as prec.

séchzehn, card. num., sixteen.

séchzehnjährig, adj., sixteen-year-old.

See, s. f., pl. -n, sea, ocean. [Syn. Meer.]

[See, s. m., pl. -n, lake.]

Seele, s. f., pl. -n, soul.

Séelenverkäufer, s. m., gen. -s,

pl. —, kidnapper; crimp [one who kidnaps men for ships; lit. "soul-seller"].

Segen, s. m., gen. -s, no pl., blessing; benediction.

segnen, v. tr. w., -ete, ge—et, to bless; partic. adj., ge—et, prosperous; see p. 14, l. 1.

sehen, v. tr. and intr., sah, gesehen, sieh, siehst, to see; to behold; sich s. lassen, to show one's self, appear.

[sehnen, v. tr. refl., to yearn, long for (gov. nach); hence:]

Séhnsucht, s. f., no pl., yearning, longing, desire.

sehr, adv., very, very much [Scotch "sair," Eng. "sore," as in "sore afraid"].

sein, v. n., auxil. of tense, impf. ind. war, part. gewesen, pres. ind. bin, bist, ist; sind, seid, sind; pres. subj. sei, to be (used as copula in a sent. and as auxil. of perf., plupf., and fut. perf. with many neut. verbs, particularly of motion); [formerly spelt seyn, to dist. from foll.]; v. n. impers., to feel (gov. dat. with zu Mut understood). For difference between es ist, es sind, "there is, there are," and es gibt, see under geben, above.

sein or seiner, gen. third pers. pron. sing. m. (and n. when referring to animate objects; see es), his; its (her, referring to fem. dim., as Mädchen; hence:)

sein, -e, —, poss. adj., third pers. sing. m. (and n. of animate objects), his; its (her). Properly only used when referring to the subj. of the sent., or of the principal sent.; when referring to anything else, the poss. adj. of third person should be replaced by the gen. case of the demonstr. (dessen, deren, dessen, or desselben, etc.).]

seit [or seitdém], subord. conj., since (of time, not cause).