ANNUAL GAMBLE WITH NATURE Ten Days in August When Fear Haunts the Canadian Northwest.

For ten days and ten nights early in For ten days and ten nights early in August the Canadian homesteader is uneasy, says Fred Bates Johnson in Success Magazine. The hot sun of a long summer day helps the feeble patches of yellow in the grain to make deep inroads into the mass of green.

Day by day the conquering yellow sends its color over the receding green, until the fields stand half and half until the fields stand half and half by night the homesteader watches the temperature, the winds and the clouds. Each night is a bit colder than the preceding one. There is the suggestion of frost in the air early one

The grain is now yellow with patches of green—the reverse of last week's condition. Under the influence of the blazing, burning sun the yellow throws euggestion of frost and wades into the fast disappearing ranks of Two or three days more and the green is gone, routed, vanguished. The yellow, now tipping into golden brown, dominates the field. Another day or so and early one morning a binder sings in the field. The grain is ripe and ready. It has been saved and none is there to care for the bit-ing, stinging, killing frost that comes a few nights later. The homesteader has made a gamble. He has gambled

This practically gave the same privileges to the Americans as to the British. Before the war of independence, of course, the fishermen of the 13 colonies had equal rights with the fishermen of Newfoundland and Acadia, but after the war the former were no longer regarded by Great Britain as having any right to share in the fisheries. The new republic protested, and the result was the treaty of 1783, which gave the Americans about all they claimed, and splendid paper was the best review of leges to the Americans as to the Brihension. TRIED TO CREMATE BODY

Neighbors Smelled Burning Flesh and Interfered.

ONEONTA, N.Y., Sept. 7 .- Dragging the dead body of his brother Edward, enveloped in a sack, across a stony field to a woodpile, a considerable distance from the house, Wm. Pindar of Eminence deliberately prepared a funeral by placing upon a carefully-heaped pile of wood the sack containing the body. He prepared kindling and ignited the mass.

Neighbors quickly rushed to the scene,
upon smelling smoke of burning flesh, and persuaded the man to desist in his attempts.

The body was drawn forth from the fire The body was drawn forth from the fire in a badly-charred condition, and was removed to a nearby house.

Dr. M. D. Lifes, the coroner, was sum moned, and Pindar is now held in custody pending an examination as to his sanity.

A Brilliant Reception.

The reception in the Windsor, given by Hon. Chas. Murphy, secretary of state, to Cardinal Vannutelli, was a notable success in point of numbers and in the representation of prominent citizens. So great was the crush that many were unable to reach his eminence. Many guests kissed the ring of the legate, and all passed on and were greeted in turn by the secretary of state, Hon. Chas. Murphy. Archbishop Bruchesi of Montreal, Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Hon. Sydney Fisher and Sir. Frederick Borden were present.

The reception room was decorated with the Union Jack, and the papal colors of white and yellow. His eminence insisted on receiving till midnight, which was the hour set for midnight mass at Notre Dame.

Fifteen Thousand at Midnight Mass.

At 11 o'clock to-night, the Church of Notre Dame was crowded with men, attending for the midnight mass, which was preceded by an hour's adoration of the blessed sacrament. The church seats over 15,000 and only conference ticket holders were admitted. The securing of tickets is even a more difficult problem for the strangers in the city than the securing of hotel accommodation. Those for Notre Dame have long since been all disposed of, and the some is the case for the big function in St. Patrick's on Saturday morning. Hundreds of out-of-town clergymen and lay visitors from as far away as New Orleans have been seeking them, only to be told that they are all gone. The seats in the church sold for a dollar a piece, and standing room for half that amount, while to merely gain entrance to the enclosed space around St. Patrick's, to view the procession, costs a quarter of a dollar.

CANADIAN CLUBS ASSOCIATION

Sanford Eyans of Winnipeg is Elected as President.

The Association of Canadian Clubs concluded its second annual conference at St. George's Hall yesterday.

The question of erecting a memorial to Gen. Wolfe was left standing.

After many suggestions had been offered by various of the delegates, it was resolved, on the motion of C. R. McCullough of Hamilton, seconded by Dr. Helen MacMurchy, that J. F. Mag-kay and G. A. Brown be a committee to bring in touch with each ather the conservation and technical education commissions and the executive of the Canadian Clubs, with a view to enlisting the interest of the clubs.

On motion of C. R. McCullough, seconded by E. F. Surveyor, Montreal, its was resolved that the Canadian clubs thruout the Dominion be asked to take into consideration in 1917.

On motion of R. H. Smith of Winnipeg, seconded by G. H. Brown of Hamilton, it was resolved to instruct the incoming executive to bring about an understanding to ensure the exchange of membership privileges among the various local clubs.

The question of having an official organ was fully discussed, but no action was taken, the matter being referred to the incoming executive as a subject for discussion at the next conference, which will be held in Widnipeg.

The election of officers, which followed, resulted in the unanimous appointment of Sanford Evans, Winnipeg, president; Mrs. R. W. Prize Butter Makers.

The results of the third section of the butter-making competition were exceptionally good this year, the competitors having on a possible total of 100 points, scored as follows: 1, Miss M. L. Carrick, Rosewood, 96.07: 2 Miss Neille Carrick, Rosewood, 94.67: 3, Miss Mary Joyne, Cobourg, 94.65: 4, Miss K. M. Wolfe, Guelph, 94.10: 5, Miss Laura Joyne, Cobourg, 93.80.

As this showing clearly demonstrates, the prizes were warmly contested. In fact, the work was conducted with such scripulous care and neatness by each and every one of the contestants, that when it came to a question of superior merit the judges. Messrs. Robertson and Singleton, were fairly nonplussed as to what decision they should render.

The second section will complete their work this evening.

The auction sale of exhibition butter and cheese took place vesterday under the auspices of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Prices were high, and, with one exception, very satisfactory. The only marring case was that of the white cheese, of which 107 pounds were reserved for future sale as the price offered for it did not exceed 10.1-2c a pound.

PAMPHLET CRITICIZING ARMY ADMINISTRATION

Copy of Lieut. Sutor's Sensational Writings in Toronte-Attacks System, not the Men.

A copy of Lieut. Sutor's famous pamphlet criticizing the war office and pamphlet criticizing the war office and the methods of appointment and administration of the British army, has been sent to the reference library by the chief librarian, then in Scotland. This pamphlet has made a great sensation in Great Britain. The lieutenant was under arrest for a time, and it is likely to provoke a lively discussion at the next session of parliament. It may be seen by the public from 10 a.m. to 9.30 p.m., the hours of the reference library.

The pamphlet, which is entitled, "The Army System; or Why Muddle Thru Thirty Millions a Year During Peace?." consists of 39 pages, paper bound, and from start to finish it is a scathing arraignment of the war of-

TThe battalion was halted. All the officers were called out. A discussion then took place to ascertain which color of boots was the more suitable for the King's birthday. It was much better talking than walking about. So there was a long discussion, each officer giving his views on the subject. Then the C. O. summed up the various opinions. He said. "Gentlemen, there is a general consensus of opinion that brown boots ought to be worn. I think, therefore, we will wear brown boots. But, of course, if anyone wants to wear black boots, he can do so."

Relates Some Scandals.

There are five chapters in the pamphlet. Chapters I. and II. are taken up with general remarks and anecdotes of a more or less scurrilous character. Chapter III. describes the methods used in teaching signalling at a certain army school, giving many technical details of the mismanagement and slackness prevalent there. Chapter IV. gives full details of another was transactions.

The author played an important part in the enquiry, the chmax being "dismissal from school in disgrace, charged with bribery, loss of certificate, and honor impugned, also loss of adjutancy." the result was a decision of the army council that there were no irregularities. The chapter concludes:

"No body of men are more zealous—more desirous of efficiency—than the officers and N.C.O.'s of the British army, so I have found. But it is the system. Those who succeed best today in the army are those who have most identified themselves and their interests with that system. There are, therefore, strong vested interests. The men at the top are the products of that system. If they care for anything, it is for it. They support it. It supports them.

A Challenge to Haldane.

"What occurred at the signaling school shows the length to which men will go to acquire efficiency, and the difficulty of acquiring it. I challenge the secretary for war to place the proceedings of the court of enquiry on the table of the house of commons. If he did, he would no longer be secre-

If he did, he would no longer be tary for war."
The fifth chapter contains little of public interest, consisting, as it does, of some rather incoherent remarks about discipline and military qualities.

THE VISITORS' TROUBLES.

No Easy Time for the Stranger at Fair Time.

It surely was your fate at some period of your life to be miles away from the "comforts of home." Don't you remember having a private interview with yourself about just where you would get a hair trim and a good shave? If some man had dropped in shave? If some man had dropped in and told you he was a resident and to mention his name at a certain barber shop, why, you would have fallen in his arms and wept for joy. Now, here is a suggestion from a man who has been there: If you want to get absolutely high-class, antiseptic work in Toronto, and get the treatment that would come your way in your own particular barber shop at home, go to the Traders' Bank Barber Shop. This splendid barbering establishment is situated on the second floor of the big bank building at the corner of Yongs and Colborne-streets, one block south of King. There is a good manicuring expert in attendance, and the name of the proprietor is Forsyth. Ask for Mr. Forsyth. Tell him you noticed this little write-up.
