LECTURE TO-DAY.

"When the World Sleeps," which comes to the Majestic next week, is a play and production with many startling surprises and contains much that pleases the lover of melodramatic sensations. The scenes shown are many and varied, and the principal climaxes are reached at the old mill when a daring rescue is made. The burnt ruins of the mill with its dying embers, glowing coals and wondrous effects produced by electrical devices, show a picture that for realism has seldom been equaled.

derful master of technique, with which is blended the charm of the poet. Never have the somewnat phlegmatic crities of New York been moved to such extravagince of expression by any other virtuose. Leonard Liebling, a picturesque pen nan, says of his first concert: 'Those who were not there will never forgive themselves if they do not hear him at the next opportanity. Those who did hear him nave since been walking around in a species of waking-dream. Experienced plansist there graped, when they did not thrill, trembled when they did not exult. Criticism is simply speechless in face of such consumate art as Rosenthal's.''

The program is an admirable combination of the classical and the popular. It begins with the Beethovan Sonata, Op. 109, with its plastic soul pictures in tones. The famous Carneval of Schumann has been ittingly described as twenty-one musical moving pictures of a carnival, as seen in the composer's imagination; beginning with the starely preamble, sounding the invitation to the ball, then the clown and harlequin joining in the valse noble; after that each incident of a carnival follows quickly, concluding with the promenade and the march.

The third group of Mr. Rosenthal's selections begins with Chopin's charming Cradle Song; then follows the Scherzo;

A wise law would be one that would force the railroads to com-bine in keeping the law-a law that would prevent the railroads from breaking the law. The best regulation can be brought about by the rail-roads themselves if they will only do it. Their power should be supplemented by such governmental control as would prevent them from doing wrong.

"The privilege of the railroads in discriminating in the matter of special rates and compensations is too often abused, as we have seen. It is the common tendency of railroads to give advantage to the wealthy shipper against the weaker or smaller one—a tendency to grush the weak. For this reason, I say that it is necessary, it is essential to freedom and independence, that the railroads should be held under control to prevent discrimheld under control to prevent discrim-
