LONDON RECOGNIZES VETERANS' SACRIFICE WITH BIG RECEPTION

Fine Tributes Paid Heroes in Welcome at the Armories.

Without too many high-sounding phrases, with an absence of cold ceremony, yet with a friendliness and a warm-heartedness that was unmistakable, London last night extended her hands in welcome to those of her her hands in welcome to those of her sons who a few days ago returned to their homes, after an absence of some three and one-half years in France. So uncertain was the time of their arrival here that it was impossible to arrange any sort of a reception that would be worthy of the name, and as a result the men of the first contingent from London and the surrounding district were gathered together at the armories last night, where ample amends were made to them for anything that may have been lacking in

Probably no more striking subject has appeared in years on the program of the Ontario Teachers' Association than that on which Dr. Sherwood Fox of the Western University spoke to the educationists in session yesterday, in Toronto, namely "Cursing as a Fine Art."

Dr. Fox declared that whenever man condemns in strong language.

Dr. Fox declared that whenever a man condemns in strong language anything that does not please him, he practices a primitive barbarism as extensive as heathendom.

In the course of his lecture, he reviewed the history of the curse and the place it has held since the days of antiquity. Following the development of the curse through the ages, he finally told of a modern one, selected from a daily newspaper of Nancy. France. Men Who Want War Service Badges

Must Make Speedy Application

Men who are entitled to war service badges should apply for them at once. This is the purport of instruction issued at militia headquarters, where it was stated that there are many men in Western Ontario who are entitled to the badges who have not yet applied for them, and who until their application forms have been filled out will not get them. As there are many yet to be handled, headquarters is anxious to get the work cleaned up as soon as possible, and not to have it drag along over many months.

Noon.—Barely 50,000 kands the second hour's business was on the same insignificant scale. Prices displayed greater irregularity, rails and shippings reacting with the general list, although Marine preferred made prompt recovery. Popular war issues and specialties averaged 1-point declines, and General Motors and Sumatra Tobacco yielded 2 points each. Petroleum and telegraph shares were scarcely affected by the proposed federal investigation of those properties.

1:30 p.m.—All previous records for dullness were broken during the noon hour, less than 14,000 shares changing hands. Prices continued to shade, Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Studeoaker and Ohio Gas losing approximately 1 point each.
