TAFT WILL FOLLOW OUT ROOSEVELT'S POLICIES

New President in His Inaugural Address Declares Himself in Favor of Tariff Reduction and for the Protection of Combinations Doing a Lawful Business.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—The first chief executive to take the oath of office in the chamber of the senate in seventy-six years, William Howard Taft, became president of the United States today.

Accompanied to the capital by President Roosevelt and a guard of honor through a blinding snow, Mr. Taft reached the White House just as the sun became visible. He was met by the president-elect, who escorted him to the executive mansion. A sudden blizzard sweeping in from the northwest last night, to set awry the weather bureau's optimistic promise of "fair and somewhat cooler," caused an abandonment of the outdoor ceremonies on the famous east front of the capitol, much to Mr. Taft's chagrin, and threatened for a time to stop altogether the brilliant pageant of the afternoon.

By great efforts a passageway was cleared along the centre of Pennsylvania avenue, and for nearly three hours President Taft and Vice-President Sherman reviewed passing columns, replete with martial splendor and picturesque with civic display.

After a brilliant and impressive ceremony in the senate, during which both president and vice-president took the oath of office, President Roosevelt, again a private citizen, bade an affectionate adieu to his successor, while all in the historic chamber looked on in silence, and then hurried away through a side door to take a train for New York. As he passed out of the chamber he was given an ovation quite the same as that rendered the new president. Outside the capitol the retiring chief executive was met by the New York county committee and under their escort was driven to the Union station, a short three blocks away. A band at the head of the column playing "Add Long Live the President" was compelled time and time again to acknowledge the cheers from the throng which lined his way.

Mr. Taft's day was one of steady cheers and plaudits from the moment he first appeared on the White House portico to go to his inauguration, until he returned late tonight reluctantly from the inaugural ball. Mr. and Mrs. Taft were the guests of the Roosevelt family at the White House last night setting a new precedent in the courtesies of the executive mansion as they did again today when Mrs. Taft accompanied the newly-made president and Mr. Sherman, the new vice-president from the capitol to the head of the imposing parade to the White House. The presidential carriage, drawn by four bay horses, was escorted by a military band and a detachment of the army. The journey was begun and President Taft quickly recognized by the crowds which

PINE KNOTS MACERATED IN WHISKY

The shavings of a pine knot macerated or soaked in Whisky is the remedy of the old mountaineer and backwoodsman for rheumatism and pain in the joints and limbs. From time immemorial the medicinal properties of Pine have been highly valued. Whenever possible, physicians recommended that consumptive patients camp out in the Pine forests, where, asleep or awake, they must constantly inhale the pine laden atmosphere, bathing the lungs with the healing, health-giving and invigorating air.

Unfortunately, there are but few whose circumstances will permit them to leave home and work to live in the open. Those who must stay at home will find in the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine that therapeutic virtue for which the Pines are famous. It is the essence of the action of the Pines and Santalwood, carefully compounded to retain the well-known healing properties of these trees.

A half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine, mixed with two ounces of Glycerine and a half-pint of good Whisky will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable. Take a teaspoonful every four hours. It is better to purchase the ingredients separately and prepare the mixture at home. Be sure to use only the genuine Virgin Oil of Pine, prepared by the Leach Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

TO URGE FOR VOTE ON LOCAL OPTION HERE NEXT MONTH

An important meeting to consider the question of local option in the four wards in which petitions were circulated in December will be held next Tuesday evening in the lecture room of the Portland Methodist church. This was decided upon yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the executive of the ward workers who circulated the petition.

It is felt that since the government is pledged to amend Sec. 21 of the license act, so that a fair expression of public opinion in the wards will be practicable, the vote should be taken this year, at the same time as the civic elections, in Dulce Victoria street and the four wards, where the necessary petitions were properly prepared and signed.

In order that there should be no ground for complaint on the part of the liquor dealers, it is suggested that local option, if carried, should not go into effect until 1910.

It is expected that Tuesday night's meeting will endorse this course, and the electors of the four wards named are invited to attend, especially all those who signed the petitions. It is felt by the executive that the work already done in these wards should not be wasted.

AROSHA O'S AND DENIES HIS GUILT

Italian Declares He Knows Nothing of the Murder of Edward Green

He Declares He met Sippeil in the Shack Where They Were Arrested—Also Says He and Sippeil Sold Their Guns to Men Whom He Does Not Know—Some Damaging Evidence

Perth, N. B., March 4.—Batting desperately to stem the tide that threatens to engulf him and Leon Seppel and carry both to the gallows, Aroshe strove to convince the twelve men in the jury box this afternoon that he is innocent of the murder of Edward Green. With the intensity of emotion in his countenance the constant interlocking of his hands, and the drops of perspiration coming from his face, yet without possessing admirable self-control throughout the ordeal, the young and rosy Italian endeavored to furnish a plausible retrospect of his whereabouts on Sunday, Dec. 26th, the following Monday and the preceding Saturday and Friday afternoon.

Was he successful? That is for the jury to determine.

One particular flaw in his testimony was his inability to name the men or their location who he said purchased his shot gun and Seppel's rifle. His inability to furnish the names of the men who purchased the guns was a serious flaw in his testimony, as the situation is much too complicated for the majority of ignorant foreign navies to comprehend.

Aroshe strenuously denied that he owned the shot gun exhibited by the crown, nor did he, nor the pair of boots, all found by trackers in the woods, and, in fact, declared that he never saw them.

None of his evidences incriminated Seppel openly, as according to Aroshe, the trail was of two men detected by separate footprints. Between the postmark and the fire a pack of cards was gathered. The trail from the fire indicated by the repeated circular tracks in the snow, and the fact that the men were walking in the snow, indicated that the men were walking in the snow.

Over 1,500 persons, the exact being equally divided, witnessed the proceedings and when Aroshe was testifying the crowd surged forward, surrounding the dock and in the crush that ensued several women fainted. The trial of Aroshe and Seppel will be jotted down in history as the sensation of seasons in Victoria county annals.

William McGinnis resumed his testimony after the intermission. He said the two men had evidently laid down a bundle and proceeded to the right of way, returning shortly, it was a mile west of the residence, 300 feet from the residence, the two men crossed the right-of-way. The spot was a mile west of the residence, 300 feet from the residence, the two men crossed the right-of-way.

Donald Fraser, Jr., said he aided in organizing the party starting from Plaster Rock. He did not enumerate the watches found, Steele discovered them under a tree on the bank of the Wapke.

Albert Ridgeway indicated on the map the spot where the watches were unearthed.

Seymour Trafton, an Indian, said he was a game warden, and resided in the woods. He saw a camp on East Brook, a tributary of the Wapke. He saw the prisoners first, quietly with guns and was conversing with them. One was a shot gun and the other a Mauser rifle, the same styles as those displayed by the crown. They were shooting at birds and squirrels in the yard of Amiel Johnson camp, when he first entered them, the initial day of their sojourn in the camp. He and McGinnis noticed the trail of two men, one foot print was flat and the other depicted a shoe without a very high heel. One shoe showed that only one left was on the heel.

He and McGinnis followed the trail in its various courses and visited the Amiel Johnson camp, where an old Italian was sitting by the stove and the little boy was collecting wood on the exterior of the structure. The old man was fully dressed, but apparently not doing anything. They saw a man on the right-of-way with a rifle. Nobody could come along the right-of-way to the camp from the Tobique without being detected by him. They met Foster and Pearson and returned to the camp ten or fifteen minutes after they first saw the prisoners.
