SEBALL WAS BETTER SUPPORTED

Endance During Year Exceeds That of 1915—League Officials Meet

New Orleans, Nov. 14.—The national convention of baseball leagues met in an all session here on Tuesday with the aid of officials of minor and major league clubs and delegates from throughout the country in attendance.

The meeting will continue through Friday.

Among the important questions expected to come up for decision were the new rules of the Baseball Players' fraternity, including one relating to contracts and the club's control over injured players.

Other matters to be discussed were the relations between players and league clubs, contracts, schedule classifications and association with the National League and the American League.

Quit Yale to Go Job Hunting

Tired of Being "Merely Sons of Millionaires"

Loud Cheers From Fathers

Both Anxious to Get Sons Back to Give Them Openings in Their Own Businesses

New York, Oct. 16.—The Chicago millionaires believe their sons are in this city posing as young men without means and looking for jobs "to make their own way in the world."

This spirit is so rare that the fathers have decided that they need the youths in their own enterprises, so Herman E. Dick, a prominent Chicago business man, an uncle of one of the boys, is here looking for them.

Mr. Dick left the following cryptic advertisement for insertion under the classification of "Public Notices," in the New York Times:

"Matthew's Uncle Herman in town at Waldorf—thoroughly approves of what you have done. Have two fine openings for you. Don't be afraid to see. Everything all right. If I am out, wait for me."

The story behind the advertisement might serve for the plot of a novel. On Saturday, Nov. 11, Dick, aged twenty, son of Albert B. Dick, a millionaire manufacturer in Chicago, and Paul Martin, also twenty, son of William F. Martin, a retired Chicago financier, vanished from their quarters at Yale where both were freshmen.

The records of the two during their two years at Yale had been spotless, so the dean of the academic department said in a brief statement which he sent to the worried parents.

The boys were seen at the time of their short letters to the effect that they were tired of being "merely sons of millionaires," that they had always had everything they wanted for college left nothing to be desired. They didn't want to be said in the papers that they had been merely the sons of rich fathers, so they were going out into the world to make their way alone, and advised their mothers that they would write promptly if they became ill or fell into distress, but that otherwise they wanted to make good.

Young Dick went to South America last summer with a representative of his father's mimeograph company. He and young Martin had been good friends before they went together to preparatory school. According to their freshman classmates at Yale, they had been making secret plans all fall, the nature of which mystified other students.

The families believe young Dick was inspired by his experiences in South America and the business opportunities he saw there.

"Why couldn't he have done anything that would have pleased their fathers so much?" Uncle Herman E. Dick said yesterday. "There aren't many young men who wouldn't have been perfectly content to postpone settling down to a job as long as possible while they had comfortable allowances as these fellows had should hold out."

So their fathers have discovered in their own sons the kind of stuff they need in their business and if their sons intend to work for anybody in South America or anywhere else, they might as well let their own fathers have the advantage of their mettle. It shows that they're the right sort and their fathers will always have places for such youngsters. They need not go back to school if they don't want to. I can assure you of that. Jobs are open for them tomorrow if they want them."

According to reports from Chicago, the mothers of the boys are worried over their absence, but the fathers are optimistic and convinced that the boys will win. The statement sent by Dean Jones of the academic department at Yale read:

"Paul Martin and Matthew Dick withdrew from Yale because they had decided to go into business. There wasn't a mark of any kind against them at college. Both are fine boys, and I am sorry they couldn't finish their college course."

Mr. Dick, Sr., is president of A. R. Dick & Co., manufacturers of the Edison Mimeograph, with headquarters in New York. Mr. Martin, Sr., is retired from active business, but still is interested in many enterprises. He was formerly president of the Chicago Gas Company.

A man of 60 who had been a grumbler all his life, he was called to the practice of changing doctors on the slightest provocation, not long ago called in a young physician who had gained a considerable reputation. He was calling the doctor what he thought was the trouble with him, when the doctor ventured to disagree with the diagnosis.

"I beg your pardon," said the patient in a haughty way, "it isn't for a young doctor like you to disagree with an experienced invalid like me."

And he sought another physician.

Former Stars Sell Shoes

Marty O'Toole, the $22,500 beauty, and "Buck" O'Brien, pitcher and actor, have opened a shoe store in Brockton, Mass., and are said to be thriving.

O'Brien maintains that nobody should be better fitted to sell shoes than an ex-ball player. "A ball player," says "Buck," "puts an awful strain on his footgear in every department of the game. He soon comes to know how a shoe should fit, where it should be light and close, and he comes to know something about leather, too. When he retires he has a practical knowledge of a paying business, for, to the best of my knowledge and belief, people are going to need shoes for a great many years to come."

St. John Boy to Meet Glover

Baigor Commercial—Teddy Morris of St. John, N.B., and Johnny Glover of Boston are to be the star performers in the fast programme that is to be staged at the Bangor arena, Tuesday evening, November 21. They are real scrapper these two and are to meet in two six-round bouts. Morris and Glover met while on the border and had sharp match in which the decision went to Glover. The friends of the St. John boy were not satisfied with the outcome as Morris was far from in shape and indeed was suffering from malarial fever but in spite of this fact would not disappoint his supporters and so went into the ring a sick man.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Once a city man of convivial habits got into difficulty in a small town. Indeed, he found himself haled before the local magistrate.

"The constable," observed the city man to the magistrate, "seems wonderfully certain about the details of my case. How is it he doesn't call his fellow-officer to corroborate what he says?"

"There is only one constable in this village, sir," explained the magistrate. "But I saw two last night!" indignantly asserted the accused.

"Exactly," said the magistrate, smiling broadly, "that's jest the charge against you!"

BENNY KAUFF

HIT ONLY .264

WITH THE GIANTS

New York, Nov. 14.—Elmer Jacobs, Pirate pitcher, lacks just a little of being officially credited with being the only big league baseball player who hits the size of his hat. Official National League averages for 1916, made public today by Secretary John Heydler, show that Jacobs has halloped the pill for a count of .264, which is as near as science has come to comparing the size of hats with batting averages.

Had Chase, leader of the league, has an average of .266, which probably is one good reason why Cincinnati stands second in team batting, with a count of .264. Brooklyn leads in this department with .261.

Chase had a rival for league leadership in Lew McCarty, New York catcher, but the fact that McCarty took part in only eight games gives the championship to Chase.

The unwritten law that favors battery men does not apply here, for McCarty appeared in many of his contests as a first baseman for Brooklyn.

The average show that Benny Kauff failed in his first big league year to punch a record of .300. The former Federal star had an average of only .264. He was second as a base stealer with forty swipes. Max Carey, of Pittsburg, leading here with sixty-three pilfers.

ENJOYED "AT HOME"

A pleasing social evening was spent in Central United Baptist church on Wednesday evening at an at home given by The Merry Maids of that church.

The president, Miss Hilda Corium, assisted by the Misses Gladys and Marion Shea, and Miss Katharine Kimball, received the guests. The pastor, Rev. D. J. MacPherson and Mrs. MacPherson were present. The evening was spent in games and music. Solos were sung by Miss Gladys Scribner and Corium. Piano solos given by Miss Treva Wetmore and Miss Mildred Brown were especially enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. A. E. Jenner and Mrs. M. Kimball. The gathering broke up at an early hour with the singing of the national anthem.

Fist in Something

According to their own account, the children were first in something at school; one was first in reading, another in arithmetic, another in sports. Bertie alone remained silent.

"Well, Bertie, how about you?" his uncle asked. "Aren't you first in anything?"

"Yes," said honest Bertie. "I am first out of the building when the bell rings."
