"Souls for Sables," Strong Picture of One Phase of Social Life; Other Good Features

It used to be diamonds that novelists held up as the lure supreme. In the photoplay now showing at Imperial Theatre, sables appear to be the bait with a wealthy Lethbridge trapped the fair sex. "Souls for Sables" proved to be unusual entertainment—unusual because David Graham Phillips, author of the story "Garden of Company"—which in reality is the fiction's right name—has struck out boldly on a subject that most people would not care to discuss except in whispered tones to confidential friends. However, in picture form, it is not an indelicate or risque exposure of domestic infidelity but a powerful sermon as it were. Dainty and appealing Claire Windsor is the little wife of Eugene O'Brien, who succumbs to the inducements of her married neighbor (Eileen Percy) and meets the wealthy man of sables at a dinner-party, where she too is presented with a gorgeous sable coat. The efforts of these two women to keep all knowledge of the exclusive furs from their respective husbands works the action into a highly emotional pitch and before the concluding reels are screened, grim tragedy enters into the mix-up.

"Souls for Sables" is one of that kind of stories that create discussion. It is certainly not namby-pamby and for that reason mostly suited to adult eyes. Both author and producer have not glossed over the indiscretion of accepting gifts from other men particularly gifts of rich apparel which a husband in ordinary circumstances could not possibly afford to buy for his wife. The story is sumptuously mounted and acted with artistic restraint and seriousness.

A pleasing feature in Imperial's program last night was an orchestral overture.

GIBSON STIRRING IN TAMING THE WEST

Amusing Picture at Gaiety Combines City and Ranch Life With Rapid Action

An exceedingly amusing story combining city and ranch life with rapid outdoor Western action is the current offering at the Gaiety theatre, where Hoot Gibson is appearing in "Taming the West," a Universal-Gibson Special.

Gibson is given ample opportunity to demonstrate his skill at automobile driving and at horsemanship. Playing the part of a dissipated city youth who went into the West to recover his health and self-respect, Gibson demonstrates that he is quite properly the champion horseman of the world, a title gained in competition at the Pendleton Races.

He breaks a bronco, gets a mean spill, but remounts the animal and subdues it. Other scenes call for daring horsemanship and Gibson shows his horse past sheer dexterity and out-rides a group of pursuing cow-punchers. He is also given a chance to show his skill in automobile piloting and drives a heavy racing car over the hills and plains of the roadless ranch. Tearing through fences and barns and taking dangerous stunts as he discovers himself in an impasse and turns about abruptly.

Combining the thrilling chase scenes with a clever original plot taken from the story, "The Range Dwellers," by B. M. Bowers, Arthur Rosson, director, has produced a picture which will appeal to many classes, including lovers of Westerns, comedy followers and those who appreciate clever drama.

In the cast are Marceline Day, Morgan Brown, Edwin Booth Tilton, Herbert Prior, Louis Hippe, Albert J. Smith, Francis Ford and Frons Hale.

America has a property loss of approximately $1,400,000 daily by fire.

Here is the Proof That Dr. Chase's Ointment does positively relieve the most severe cases of piles.

While Dr. Chase's Ointment is recognized everywhere as the standard treatment for piles you may be interested in this letter which describes one particular case. There are thousands of similar cases.

Mrs. Wm. Hughes, Appin, Ont., writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment cannot be equalled. I used it for protruding piles of the worst kind. When the Doctor said an operation was the only hope, I began to prepare for one, when I remembered reading about Dr. Chase's Ointment. I resolved to try it, and after using two boxes I had no trace of the piles. It was the greatest relief I ever got, and I only hope other sufferers who read this letter will lose no time in purchasing a box, and see for themselves the miracle it works. It will be the best investment they ever put their money into."
