STRIPED SILK TRIMMING.

5663

A smart waist of China silk trimmed with Roman striped taffeta. It is made without a lining and has an adjustable shawl and long or short one-piece sleeves.

Roman striped silks are so very popular that they are being used to trim separate waists as well as entire suits. An unusually pretty model forms the subject of to-day's dress-making lesson. Heavy China silk may be used for the waist. Two and three-quarters yards will be required, since the silk is usually 36 inches wide. Roman striped silk 27 inches wide is $1.50 a yard, and 1/4 yard will be needed for the trimming.

After the material is cut according to the pattern, proceed with the making. First gather the upper and lower edges of the side front. Be careful to have as few gathers as possible at the sides, because the sleeves show.

the kimono effect. Now see the sleeve to the side seams front and back as notched, and close the under-arm seams. Shirr the cuff and finish the edge with lace; then attach to the sleeve. Tuck, crossing on crosslines of small "o" perforations; stitch 1/4 inch from folded edge, inserting cord and draw in required size. Adjust to position, stitching along crossline to small "o" perforations, seams and lower edges even.

At this stage the underfacing should be adjusted underneath the front and square collar. A slash will have to be made to pass a cord through, and this should be made between small "o" perforations. Adjust stay to position underneath front, notches and edges even. Adjust band to position on front, notches and edges even. Sew front, band and stay to side front, sleeve and back as notched, small "o" perforations at corresponding seams and center-backs even.

To the upper edge of the front sew the square collar; then continue around the sleeve and back as they are brought into the neck of the waist notches and center-backs even. Close invisibly, meeting front edges of stay and front. The narrow vest is formed of striped silk to match the collar, and the cuffs may be of this trimming also, which may be substituted for shirring.

GOLD AND WHITE

Very fantastic were some of the styles seen at the races at Auteuil recently. One of the most famous of French beauties wore a gown as here pictured. It was of white, soft, silky crepe, with a broad band of gold embroidery about the hips and forming a part of the blouse. Over this was worn a cape of the white material lined with gold-colored satin. A gold straw helmet with upstanding white wings made this woman the object of much attention.

Hints for the Cook

Peaches With Orange Jelly
 Drain the juice from halves of preserved peaches and set peaches in cool place. Take one-half box of any powdered gelatine and put over it one cup of orange juice. When soft turn one cup of hot peach syrup over orange juice and gelatine. Stir until all is dissolved. Allow to cool and when beginning to set beat to foam with Dover beater. Fill the peaches with the beaten orange gelatine and set aside to get firm. When ready to serve whip one cup of cream until stiff, add one cup of peach syrup and turn over peaches and serve with angel cakes.

No More Cutting For Sore Corns

The real corn remedy, the one that always gives results, is Putnam's Corn Extractor, which makes corns and callouses go quickly, and without pain. Goes to the root of the tormenter, absorbs its roots, gives lasting relief, and surely removes corns or callouses, whether just starting or of many year's growth. The name tells the story. Putnam's Painless Corn and Wart Extractor, price 25c.

To Regain a Healthy, Girlish Complexion

If you would have a clear, fresh, girlish complexion, one ounce of ordinary mercuric iodine will aid you in this direction more than shelves full of cosmetics. It produces a natural beauty. This wax, removable at any drugstore, completely absorbs a bad complexion, restores the healthy young skin underneath. Its work is done so gradually, day by day, that no inconvenience is caused. The wax is applied at night, like cold cream, and removed in the morning with soap and water. Another valuable rejuvenating treatment is this for wrinkles—apply over face in a solution of powdered sorbolite. I dissolved in 1/2 cup water. This has a remarkable action in smoothing out the lines and "firming up" the loose tissue.

WHAT IS A DAY'S WORK IN POTATO PLANTING

United States Department of Agriculture Gives Results of Investigation.

Washington, D. C., May 29—According to data collected by the United States Department of Agriculture an ordinarily industrious workman should cut approximately eighteen to twenty-two bushels of potatoes for seed in a ten-hour day. He should plant by hand approximately 18 acres.

These figures are included in the results of a systematic investigation into what constitutes a normal day's work in various farm operations. In some districts, 15 or less bushels are a day's work but more extended and complete studies in the large potato districts show an average of 15 bushels a day is too low. To obtain this information the specialists of the department obtained actual figures in a large number of instances.

The tables show what should be done in cutting and planting Irish potatoes. A normal day's work in cutting potatoes for seed, giving the average number of bushels per day for cutting by hand and with cutter, is shown as follows:

Method of Cutting.	Cut per day.
By hand	18 bushels
With cutter	22 bushels

It will be noticed that cutting by machinery is vastly faster than cutting by hand, but despite this fact only one practical grower in five uses the cutter. The majority believe that the extra time and expense involved in hand cutting is offset by the certainty of having an eye in each seed piece. The following table shows the time required to plant:

Net Hours in the Field, 9.53.	Number Number Planted	Width of row	Planted per day.
Operations of men, horse, per day. <td>Acres. <td></td> <td></td> </td>	Acres. <td></td> <td></td>
Dropping by Hand 1	1.08
Planting with planter	2	5.48	4.91

When the planting is done by machinery, the two-man type of planter, though slower, is usually preferred to the automatic-feed type. This is because the two-man type is considered more certain in placing seeds in every hill and less likely, also, to spread disease from one seed tuber to another.

A normal day's work in planting sweet potatoes, cabbage, and tomatoes by hand, giving the average daily acreage for designated crews and adjustments for each crew and width of row:

Net Hours in the Field, 9.55.	Number Number Width Planted	of men, horse, of row	per day.
1	1	36	1.0
2	1	38	1.6
3	2	32	1.9
3	2	40	2.4

In this table the investigators were compelled on account of limited data, to average the three crops. It should be remembered, however, that sweet potatoes can be planted somewhat more rapidly than cabbage, and tomatoes a little faster than sweet potatoes.

What Forest Scouts Do
 "Flourish which talk," are given in a letter from J. H. McGillivray, deputy forest warden in charge of the Michigan Forest Scouts.

He says that his band of boys now numbers more than 4,000 and includes many Boy Scouts in its membership. Within the short time in which they have been at work the boys have reduced the forest fires loss from $3,600,000 in 1911 to $67,000 in 1912 and to less than $28,000 in 1913.

"The boys," he says, "have planted in unit forests of 1,000 trees, 60,000 mixed pines and spruces as an object lesson to their elders in reforestation."

PARISIANS DISCARD GLOVES

New Custom for Men Threatens to Reach London.

London, May 27—Almost as much attention is given to men's dress nowadays as to women's. Recently a London daily held a display of men's garments, especially in connection with evening dress.

Once more the colored dress cloth made a spasmodic appearance. The attempt to get away from the somberness of the present mode in men's evening wear has been made again, and again, but it has never yet succeeded, and the innovation is hardly likely ever to influence the West End drawing-room. The black evening suit has come to stay, because it is convenient, and because it is a perfect background to the costumes of the women. It is only in fancy dress that men will be as brilliant as their partners.

The English capital still remains the exemplar and guide for men's clothes. But a custom noticed in the Paris ballrooms just now threatens London. The young men are discarding gloves even when dancing.
