

specially adapted on account of the character of its grasses, abundance of water, and the influence of the Chinook. Pincher Creek is the centre of a good mixed farming area. The other towns which have attained importance on the Crowsnest Railway are the mining towns of Taber, Belleue, Frank, Blairmore, and Coleman.

Raymond, about twenty miles south of Lethbridge, has a large sugar refinery. It is on a branch of the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company's railway and on the irrigation canal. Its tributary interests include the growing of grain, the cultivation of sugar beets, and the grazing and feeding of live-stock. Stirling is a junction point on the railway, and is watered by the canal. Magrath is in an excellent farming district, and is also on the canal. Cardston, which is nearer the foothills, is beautifully situated, and is likewise in an excellent mixed farming district. It is equally noted for its heavy yields of grain and for the excellence of its stock. Warner is a new town between Stirling and the boundary, and is in the centre of an excellent wheat-growing district.

Washing Gold with a "Grissely."
