

Our Family.

A Riddle.
Glad made Adam out of dust,
But thought it best to make me first;
So I was made before the man—
To answer God's most holy plan.

My body he made most complete,
But without legs or arms or feet;
My ways and actions did control,
And I was made without a soul.

A Hint Being I became,
That Adam first gave me my name;
Then from his presence I withdrew,
Nor more of Adam ever knew.

I did my Maker's laws obey,
From them I never went astray;
Thousands of miles I ran I flew,
But seldom on the earth appear.

But did I see myself complete,
And put a living soul in me;
That soul from my God did claim,
And took from me that soul again.

But when from me that soul was freed,
I was the same as first I was;
And without hands or feet or soul,
I travel now from pole to pole.

I labour hard both day and night,
To help men in their various ways;
Thousands of people young and old,
Will as my death great light behold.

No fear of death doth trouble me,
For happiness I cannot see;
To Heaven I shall go,
Nor to the grave my light be lost.

Meanwhile their children at home had their talk about the matter.
"How funny," said Tommy, "no one father and mother go out to market together!"
"Yes," said Sally, "isn't it?"

"I wonder," said Tommy, "whether anybody that father knows has died and left him some money?"
"Of course," said Sally, "but I don't think they were engaged when a sharp rap came at the door and disturbed them."

"Sally went to the door, and there stood a butler with a basket and a leg of mutton in his hand."
"Does that man live here?" said the boy.
"Of course," said Sally, "this is his house, isn't it?"

"Well, who does live here?" said the boy.
"Your father," said Sally, "this is No. 20, but no one of that name lives here."
"Is that so?" said Tommy, "my father and mother, and us," said Sally, "and what about your father?"

"They call him Jack Lewis," said Sally.
"Jack Lewis? Is that his name?" said Tommy.
"Is that his name?" said Sally, "and here's a leg of mutton for you."

Be diligent and in season. Never cause your husband to wait a moment if possible to prevent it, for although he may have waited an hour or a longer hour for dinner and supper, and breakfast also, if need be, he has the meal always at the appointed hour, unless some very important event prevents.

Never neglect your work to gossip with a friend. If on calls when your duties are in the kitchen, invite her to take a seat there, or if he be a stranger, politely ask to be excused, but never give to your husband as a reason for a late hour, which is an excuse for a late hour.
