At St. John's Church, Roxbury, Mass., a rood screen to the memory of the late Rev. Charles Mockridge, a former rector of the parish, was dedicated on the eve of the Epiphany.
It will be recalled that it was while at Ashmont that Mr. Mockridge died of an incurable disease. The screen, which is of oak, stretches across the width of the chancel, and at the top are three figures, the central one being Christ on the Cross, with the Virgin on one side and St. John on the other. These figures were carved at Ober-Ammergau last summer.
The ancient Roman officials in the amphitheatre included a functionary named the "Missionarius," whose duty it was to stand watching the attitude of the emperor while the gladiatorial conflict was going on. When one of the combatants fell, if Caesar felt an impulse for clemency, he signalled the "Missionarius" his will that the victim should be spared, and the messenger ran down into the arena to convey the dictum of mercy to the victor. The early Christian churches soon borrowed the word from the arena, and it was transfigured as is every human factor which Christianity touches. The Christian missionary is the only messenger of mercy that the world has known and he is taking his messages wherever man is found.
