

The King and His Scottish Bodyguard of Royal Archers

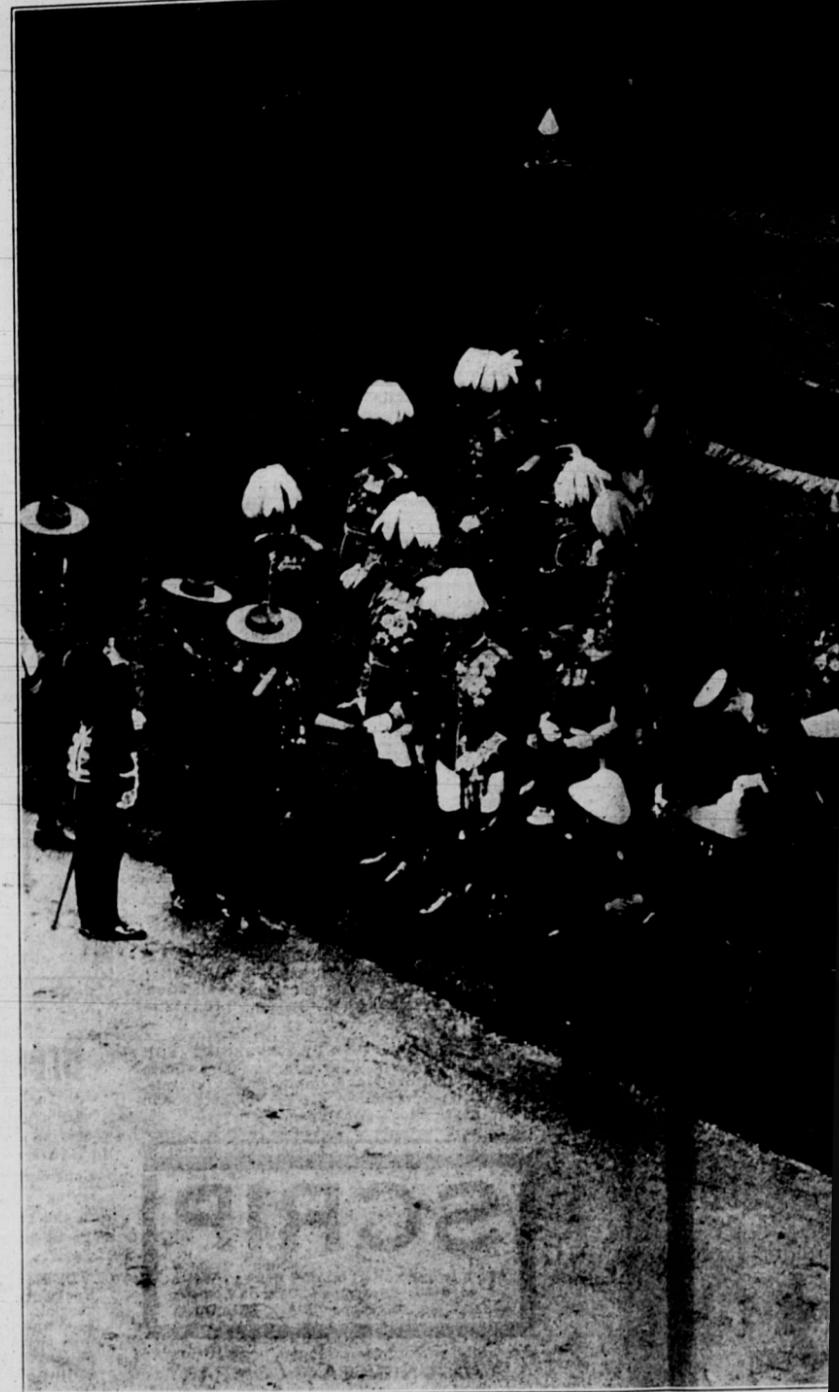

THE KING PRESENTING A NEW FLAG TO HIS SCOTTISH BODYGUARD

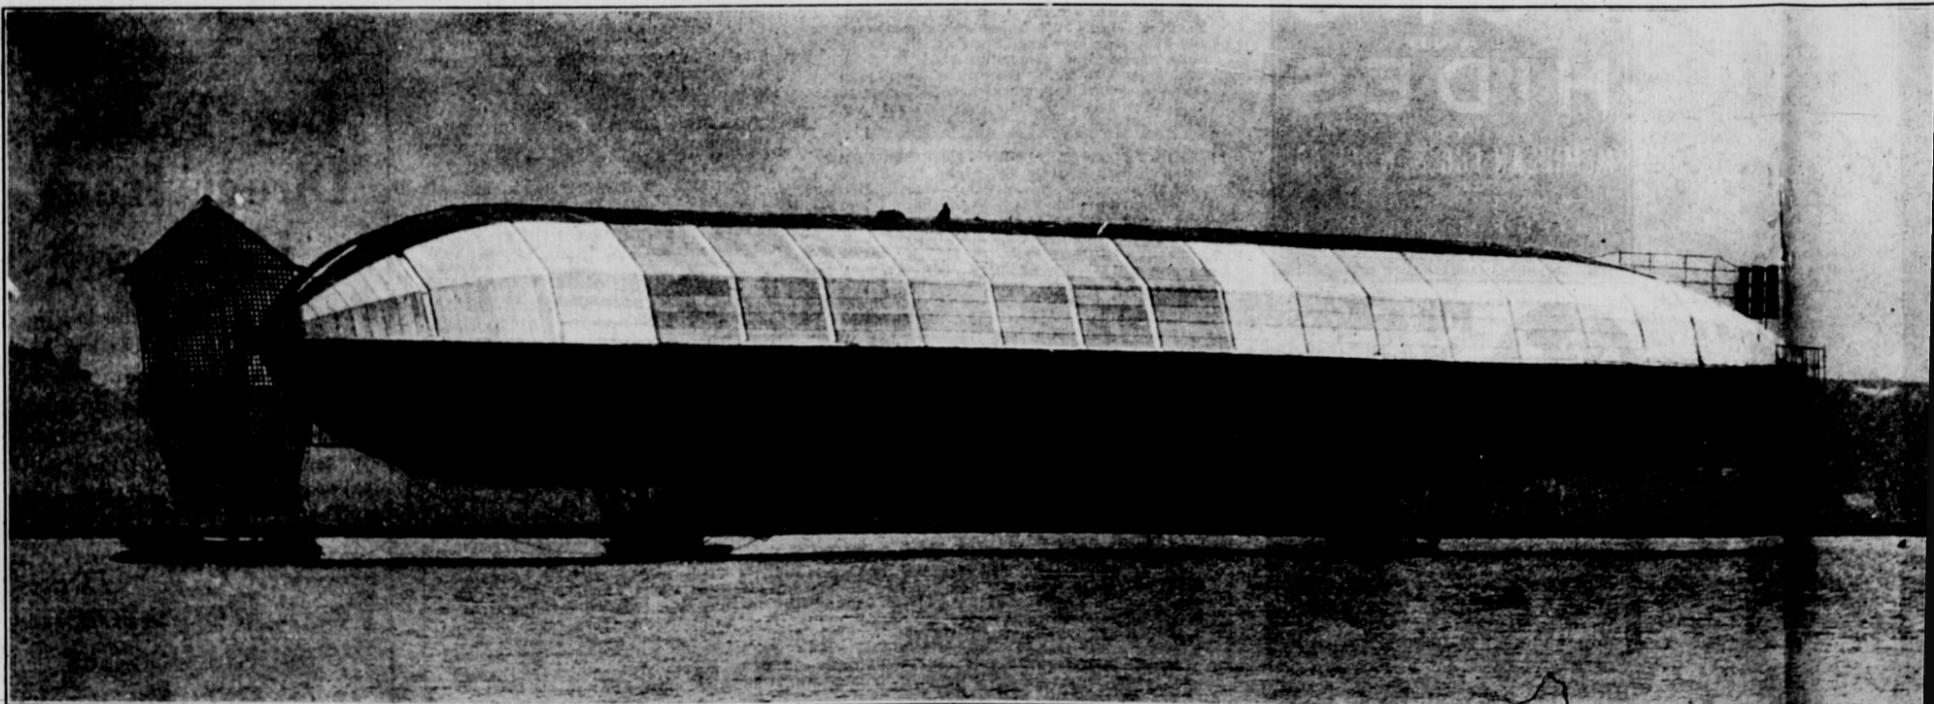

LORD KINNAIRD

LORD ROSEBURY. EARL OF HADDINGTON

THE KING HONORING THE COLONIAL AND INDIAN T
At the close of the Coronation Fetes in London the members of the Colonial and Indian Contingent
Medals by King George. The above illustration shows His Majesty 'medalling' memb
At the table H.R.H. the Prince of Wales is sorting the medals, and by his side stands
Governor-General-designate of Canada. In the chairs on the right of the picture are seated
Kitchener stands beside the King.

BRITAIN'S FIRST NAVAL AIRSHIP

This airship, the Mayfly, was two years in building, and cost slightly more than £40,000. It is 512 feet in length, and is twelve-sided, with a blunt bow and attenuated stern. The framework is of the new alloy, duralumin, which was discovered by the chemist to the builders of the airship, and adopted by the Admiralty. In the picture the huge wind-screen at the stern may be seen.