An Anti-Slavery meeting, called by the Mayor, in compliance with the requisition of certain inhabitants, was held in the City Hull, on Wedheaday night. The chief movers in the affair were Clergymen. There were the Reverenda Dr Willis, Lillie, McClure, Roaf, and Dr. Burne. The latter gentleman did not address the meeting, but went away in consequence, it is understood, of the presence of another Clergyman, with whom he lately declared he would never again meet on he lately declared he would never again meet on a platform, till certain statements to the prejudice of the obnoxious Clergyman were cleared up, or satisfactorily explained. The speaking smacked somewhat of cant and maudling fanaticism. These philanthropic gentlemen propose to themselves a share in the glory of abolishing Slavery throughout the world. One of them insisted on having the decree go forth, that "Slavery shall be abolished." The means are to be an after consideration allogether. No man whose heart is in the right place, but desires the extinction of Slavery everywhere. But there are right-minded men courageous enough to denounce the wretched demagoguism that cants, and raves, and refuses to look at the difficulties of the question—that will listen to no reason, but only shouts from the borders of a foreign country, "down with Slavery, you inhuman Yankees on the other side of the Lake." A sober man will be apt to ask himself, have we considered the statements of the prejudice of the planting strains of Maffer's Band were in att-ndance, and dancing commenced at half-past eight o'clock. A sober man will be apt to ask himself, have we dancing went on with unabated spirit, and did Canadians any right to interfere with the domestic affairs of a neighboring country? Can we interfere effectually ? But the ardent philanthropists who met in the City Hall, asked themselves no such questions. Now, in my opinion, we have soling to do with American Slavery, except in so far as the extradition of its victims to these shores may impose upon us any obligations. And our further interference can be productive of no result but to create irritation and hatred between countries that ought to live on terms of friendalip.
