THE ENGLISH LEAVEN.

"When General Louis Botha passed through Vryheid a few weeks ago," says the London Chronicle, "the impression given by his good spirits was that he was pleased with the 'terms,' while one of the officers of his staff confidently declared that peace would be proclaimed in a fortnight. The English commanding officer went out to exchange courtesies with Botha, and our infantry gave him a guard of honor until he joined his own burghers a few miles out of Vryheid. All this is as might be expected; but (a strange incident occurred. The Eng- evil work in the North Ontario eleclish officer in charge of the escort tion in 1896, and under Liberal auswas presented to General Botha's secretary, Jacobus De Wet, who had been three years at Oxford, and to his aide-de-camp, Louis Eslem, also heard from, and the end is not yet. He speaks English, French and Gera 'varsity man. They were evidently The Ontario Government pretends to man as well as his own language. He speech with our lieutenant, and their first words were, 'Who won the boat race?' " How long will it take to effect the reconciliation tion of the Boers and bring in an era of friendship with such forces at work?

OMIT THE KISSING.

By an act passed at the recent ses sion of the Ontario Legislature it i now optional with a witness in an Optario court of justice whether he will be sworn by kissing the Bible, or after the Scotch fashion of uplifting the hand and repeating the following form of words:- ... we we was take a "I swear by Almighty God, as shall answer to God at the Great Day of Judgment, that I shall tell the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so far as I know it, and the same shall be asked of me."

This reform is a concession to the teaching of science which objects on sanitary grounds to the unclean and unhealthful practice of kissing a book which may have been so pressed a thousand times to the lips of persons suffering from contagious diseases. It may also be regarded as a tribute to the growing intelligence of the age which refuses to superstitiously treat the Bible as in itself more sacred than any other book or the form of administering the oath as constituting a more solemn and binding obligation than the Scotch form. Nor can it be construed into an evidence of irreligion, but rather a recognition of the divine omnipresence. The kissing of the Bible is a species of bibliolatry which in a less enlightened day placed the book upon the doorsteps of Scotch homes to keep the spooks away, or under the head of the dying that they might have a more certain entrance to the abode of the blessed. We are not the worse that we have escaped the bondage of such superstitious tices, and the Citizen does not anticipate less truthful testimony in the courts as a result of the legislation in question, while it is certain that the health of witnesses will be protected thereby.-Ottawa Citizen.

CONDITIONS IN MODERN WARFARE.

Detroit Tribune British value is as great to-day a it ever was, but sublime courage is useless and even wasteful in the face of physical impossibilities. When one man hidden behind a boulder is able by the use of long range arms of great accuracy to destroy a score of his enemies before one of them can reach a position of advantage, at-foolhardy. The zone of danger was within a range of 300 yards in revolutionary days. It had increased to nearly 1000 yards at the time of the civil war, but that was only for a moment. Powder smoke obscured the field after a few volleys, and it took ton of lead in rifle balls to disable one man. Snickeless powder, improveed rifles have increased the danger zone to a breadth of more than (a mile. While an armed soldier is crossing a space of a mile his enemy can have a hundred shots at him. Had Pickett's charge at Gettysburg been made in the face of modern artillery and small arms, not a man could have lived to get within half a mile

Newsylv THE CATFISH ZONE.

And the Origin of the Philadelphia Habit of Catfish and Waffles. While pessimists have been denouncing the extension of the pie belt through the United States and the enlargement of the saleratus biscuit district, they have been entirely oblivious of the extraordinary development of the catfish zone. This mischlevous dweller of the pool is known to the small boy and the rustic angler under many names-in one place as a sucker, in another a bullhead, in a third a wolf fish and, most outrageous of all, in northern Mississippi as a shad. But its own only genuine title is catfish. The name is derived from the fact that when the creature is raised from the water it emits a grunting protest which poetical fishermen have pronounced like the purring of a family cat.

Philadelphia produced the catfish habit. For two centuries the animal was looked at as something which might be eaten to prevent starvation until one fine day a thrifty Quaker found that the catfish would eat boiled cornmeal and that this simple food not only fattened the eater, but changed the color of its belly from white to yellow. He perceived the pecuniary value of the discovery and established a catfish farm in which he fattened the fishes which he caught elsewhere and in due season sold them to the Philadelphia markets.

A Quakeress soon after that discovered that the old fashioned waffle, slightly saited and covered with melted butter, made an irresistible accesso ry to the fish when well fried. This started the catfish and waffles, for which the City of Brotherly Love has ever since been famous. The habit spread like an epidemic, and, like the star of empfre, its way was westward. So far as is known the United States government has no record of catfish and waffles east of the Delaware river, but starting at Philadelphia a distinct catfish zone runs westward, terminating at Denver, reaching as far north as Minneapolis and St. Paul and as far south as Mobile and New Orleans. The catfish is said to possess medicinal virtue. It is mildly anæsthetic, soperific and antispasmodic.
