of the handsome speaker, but his words thrilled her heart through and through. The audience sat spell-bound, breathless, until the lecturer drew near the alcove.
'For mother's sake,' he said. 'That one little sentence has made me what I am. Who in this crowded room recognizes me? Five years ago, on just such a night as this, I was a prisoner in the old jail over yonder. My mother's love saved me from the consequences of youthful folly and when I parted from her under the old locust trees out there in the lane, I promised to be a better man—for mother's sake! Neighbors and friends you all know me now. I am Dick Arnold. I kept my promise—I have been a better man for mother's sake! I wonder if my mother is here, and hears my voice to-night! Oh, thank God! Oh, my boy! my boy!
In another minute he had her in his strong arms, her gray head pillowed on his breast. She looked up at him with yearning, wondering eyes.
'Yes, I do not mistake—you are my son. Oh, Dick?
He held her closely, tears streaming like rain over his bearded face.
