

UNITED SOUTH AFRICA NEAR.

Second Reading of Constitution Bill is Passed.

Number of Members Fixed for First Parliament.

British House of Commons Passed Second Reading Unanimously.

London, Aug. 16.—The House of Commons to-night unanimously passed the second reading of the South African constitution bill. In the course of the debate ex-Mr. Balfour said that the House in dealing with the question of a constitution for the federation of the South African colonies—the Transvaal, Cape Colony, the Orange River State and Natal—was discussing one of the most important events in the history of the British Empire. The bill, he declared, was a wonderful issue from all the controversies, battles, bloodshed and difficulties to peace, and he believed the world could not show anything like it.

The race problem, Mr. Balfour said, was but a fractional part of the great question Parliament was now deciding. He strongly denied that it was intended to give the colored races equality with Europeans, declaring that so far as the Government, society and the higher forms of civilization were concerned, it would be impossible to give equal rights to the colored races without threatening the whole fabric of civilization. In the opinion of Mr. Balfour the best hope for the solution of this great problem was to place absolute and implicit confidence in the representatives institutions the South Africans are now creating, and for the home Government to use its life with it. He added that he desired to do nothing that would hamper the Government in carrying out a measure so essential to the future of South Africa.

THE BILL IN BRIEF.
The London Daily Chronicle of July 26 gave the following summary of the South African constitution bill:

It shall be lawful for the King, with the advice of the Privy Council, to declare by proclamation that, on and after a day therein appointed, not being later than one year after the passing of this act, the colonies of the Cape of Good Hope, Natal, the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony shall be united in a legislative union under one Government, under the name of the Union of South Africa. After that date the Government and Parliament of the Union shall have full power and authority within the limits of the colonies, but the King may at any time after the proclamation appoint a Governor-General for the Union. The colonies, which will retain their present limits, shall become original provinces of the Union, and the names of Cape of Good Hope, Natal, Transvaal and Orange Free State, as the case may be.

The salary to be paid to the Governor-General is £10,000 a year. An Executive Council shall be formed, the members of which shall be appointed and summoned by the Governor-General. Part 4, which deals with the Parliament, provides that the legislative power of the Union shall be vested in the Parliament of the Union, which shall consist of the King, a Senate and a House of Assembly.

Lape Town shall be the seat of the Legislature of the Union, but Pretoria shall be the seat of government of the Union.

The House of Assembly shall be composed of members directly chosen by the voters of the Union in electoral divisions. The number of members to be elected in the original Provinces at the first election shall be as follows:

Cape of Good Hope, 51.
Natal, 17.
Transvaal, 36.
Orange Free State, 17.

These members shall not, in the case of any original Province, be diminished until the total number of members of the House of Assembly reaches 150, or until a period of ten years has elapsed after the establishment of the Union, whichever is the longer period.

Parliament may by law prescribe the qualifications of voters, but no such law shall disqualify any person in the Province of the Cape of Good Hope who, under the laws existing in the colony of the Cape of Good Hope at the establishment of the Union, is or may become qualified to vote, by reason of his race or color, until unless the bill be passed by both Houses of Parliament, and, after that, and at the third reading, be agreed to by not less than two-thirds of the total number of members of both Houses. No person, who, at the passing of any such law, is registered as a voter in any Province shall be removed from the register by reason only of his disqualification based on race or color.

The House of Assembly, like the British House of Commons, is to have the power of the purse, and the Senate has only a limited veto over non-financial measures. Both the English and Dutch languages shall be official languages of the Union and shall be used in the making of laws and in the exercise of equal freedom, rights and privileges.

TRESTLE COLLAPSED.

One Man Dead and Several Injured in New Brunswick.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 16.—One man was killed and several others had narrow escapes when six spans of the New Brunswick section of the National Transcontinental collapsed on Saturday afternoon.

The accident occurred at the trestle over McMullin's Brook, where the G. T. P. crosses the Canada Eastern division of the Intercolonial.

The dead man is John McMullin, of Boston, and the injured are John Patterson, engineer, badly bruised, and four other workmen, not seriously hurt.

The trestle is 1,400 feet long and about 50 feet high. Six of the twelve spans were hurled to the bottom, and the men went with them.

A PIOUS JOKE.

The Rev. Dr. Alexander relates that there lived in Peebles-shire a half-witted man, who was in the habit of saying his prayers in a field behind a stone-dyke. One day he was followed to this spot by some boys, who secreted themselves on the opposite side, listening to the man at his devotions, who expressed his conviction that he was a very great sinner. The opposite side pushed the dyke over on him, when, scrambling out, he was heard to say: "Heck, sir! it's an awful world, but it's 'a'en in earnest."

THE CRY IS FOR MEN

To Help Gather Saskatchewan's Great Harvest.

Regina, Aug. 16.—Already there are incipient signs of labor famine in connection with the gathering of the Saskatchewan harvest, and at points on the Arcola line farmers are offering as much as three dollars a day and board, without obtaining the required help. The great heat of the last ten days has brought harvesting on with a rush, with the result that cutting has started at scores of points in southern Saskatchewan at least a week earlier than was anticipated, with the result that no labor is available. The handful of men who arrived here yesterday from the east were at once snapped up, and at the present time there are points south of the C. P. R. main line which could easily absorb one hundred men each, with no prospects of the want being supplied until the next excursion arrives from the east.

ARREST WATCHMEN.

Charged With Theft From West Toronto Factories.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—Admitting that for a year he had been pilfering from the Comfort Soap Works, of which he was night watchman, and that he had also exchanged goods taken by him for goods from the Heintzman & Company piano factory, Hugh McDonald, of 29 Alexander street, was taken into custody by Detective Mitchell last night. John LaPage, the night watchman of the piano factory, had been arrested early in the afternoon at his home, 45 Augusta avenue, on a charge of theft, and he, too, spent the night in the cells at number three police station.

At the police station last night there was a large imposing pile of goods which the police claim were stolen from the two factories which had been left in charge of these men during the night hours. From the soap works, of course, there was nothing more than soap of different grades, but from the Heintzman factory there was a considerable pile of various kinds of valuable felts, cotton, broadcloth, paint brushes, chambray skins, and nickel hinges. All these goods are utilized in the building of pianos and they are very valuable, and they were identified by Mr. Thomas Egan, the assistant manager, as having been taken from the factory. In addition to this, McDonald admitted to Detective Mitchell, that a considerable quantity of lumber from the Heintzman yard had gone to his house at 29 Alexander street, which is in the course of erection.

This motley collection of goods was gathered by the sleuths during the day. It did not come from the houses of the prisoners only, and in fact none of it was secured at LaPage's house on Augusta avenue, but it was assembled from several houses, including one on Esther street, one on Perry Place, and from 29 Alexander street, the home of McDonald. A fact which the police regard as very significant is that a quantity of felt and some brushes from the piano factory, were found at McDonald's house, in addition to a quantity of soap. In all the other houses visited goods alleged to have been taken from both factories were found. It is on these finds and upon McDonald's own admissions that the police built up the collusion theory between the two men. There are still a number of houses to visit, and more arrests may follow.

CUTTER RELEASED.

Charges of Diamond Stealing Were Not Sustained.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Early in August the State Department received a despatch from Lisbon telling of the seizure of a small cutter flying the American flag at Quissanga Argola, West Africa. The owners of the vessel, whose nationality was then taken from, were arrested and charged with diamond stealing. There was some talk of piracy, too. Mr. Handley, the American Consul-General at Boma, Congo Free State, now informs the State Department that the prisoners were Americans, but that the charges of robbery were not sustained.

Mr. Bryce at St. John.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 16.—Hon. James Bryce, the British Ambassador at Washington, and his wife arrived here at midnight from Northeast Harbor, Maine. They were met at the train by Premier Hazen and the officials of the Canadian Club. Mr. Bryce addressed the Canadian Club here to-night on "Canada's Possibilities."

STONES IN POCKET.

Body of Finlander Taken From St. Mary's River.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 16.—Last night at a late hour the body of a man was taken from the river by a couple of men who had been out for a trip in a launch. Coroner McCaig and the Chief of Police were notified, and the body was taken to Simpson's morgue. At first it was supposed that the body was that of a sailor of the ill-fated steamers Cleuson or Aurania, but later investigation proved that it was that of an unknown Finlander. In the pockets of the coat were found heavy stones, showing that the man had either been a suicide or had met with foul play. An inquest may be held. The clothes of the dead man bore the stamp of a Milwaukee firm.

WALKING.

He who uses his legs is thereby enabled to use his eyes. Nature in all moods is the companion of him who walks. A network of sun and shadow, or a maze of muddy pools, lies before his feet. His cheek feels the impact of kindly breezes or harsher rain. The land in the road lures him onward and fills him with peaceful conjecture.

A pleasant comrade at his side seems not amiss to most, though Hazlitt and Stevenson cast their votes against it, in declaring that the full flavor of a walking trip is best gained by solitude. Stevenson better analyzes moods, but Hazlitt is the more lyric. He was among the first of Anglo-Saxon blood to sing the open road.—New York Evening Post.
