L. BLACK & CO'S
Spheroidal
Spectacles

AND
EYE GLASSES

ARE the best for the preservation of the sight, and took the medal at the Centennial Exhibition.

The lenses are made of the best material, uniform in density, and of high refractive power, their perfect polish and spheroidal shape adapt them to ease and improve the sight of the wearer.
The eye being the most delicate organ great care should be exercised in selecting spectacles; it is not enough that the glass be of the right focus, but the lenses must be perfectly centered and in many cases perfect relief is only given by having each eye fitted separately. To effect this the lenses are made interchangeable, and having an Opto-meter to measure the sight, a perfect fit is guaranteed.
Call and examine before purchasing any other kind.
A full stock in Steel, Rubber, and Gold Frames and prices to suit all pockets.

IVANHOE.

(BY SIR WALTER SCOTT, BART.)
CHAPTER XXIV.

"Thou must be up and away, old house cricket," said one of the men; "our noble master commands it. Thou must leave this chamber to a fairer guest."

"Ay," grumbled the hag, "even thus is service required. I have known when my bare word would have cast the best man-at-arms among ye out of saddle and out of service; and now must I up and away at the command of every groom such as thou."

"Good Dame Urfried," said the other man, "stand not to reason on it, but up and away. Lord's bests must be listened to with a quick ear. Thou hast had thy day, old dame, but thy sun has long been set. Thou art now the emblem of an old war-horse turned out on the barren heath—thou hast had thy paces in thy time, but now a broken amble is the best of them—Come amble off with thee."

"Ill omens dog ye both!" said the old woman, "and a kennel be your burying place! May the evil demon Zernebeck tear me limb from limb, if I leave my own cell ere I have spun out the hemp on my distaff."

"Answer it to my lord, then, old house-fiend," said the man, and retired; leaving Rebecca in company with the old woman upon whose presence she had been thus unwillingly forced.

"What devil's deed have they now in the wind?" said the old hag, murmuring to herself, yet from time to time casting a sidelong and malignant glance at Rebecca; "but it is easy to guess—bright eyes black locks, and a skin like paper, ere the priest stains it with his black unguent—'Ay, it is easy to guess why they send her to this lone turret, whence a shriek could no more be heard than at the depth of five hundred fathoms beneath the earth. Thou wilt have owls for thy neighbors, fair one; and their screams will be heard as far, and as much regarded as thy own.

Outlandish, too," she said, marking the dress and turban of Rebecca.
"What country are thou of? a Saracen, or an Egyptian? Why dost not answer? thou canst weep, canst thou not speak?"

"Be not angry, good mother," said Rebecca.
"Thou needst say no more," replied Urfried; "men know a fox by the train, and a Jewess by her tongue."

"For the sake of mercy," said Rebecca, "tell me what I am to expect as the conclusion of the violence which hath dragged me hither! Is it my life they seek to atone for my religion? I will lay it down cheerfully."

"Thy life, minion?" answered the sibyl; "what would taking thy life pleasure them? Trust me, thy life is no peril. Such usage shalt thou have as was once thought good enough for a noble Saxon maiden.
And shall a Jewess, like thee, repine because she hath no better?
Look at me. I was as young and twice as fair as thou, when Fronde-Bouf, father of this Reginald, and his Normans, stormed this castle. My father and his seven sons defended their inheritance from story to story, from chamber to chamber. There was not a room, not a step of the stair, that was not slippery with their blood. They died—they died every man; and ere their bodies were cold, and ere their blood was dried, I had become the prey and the scorn of the conqueror!"

"Is there no help? Are there no means of escape?" said Rebecca.
"Richly, richly, would I requite theine aid."

"Think not of it," said the hag; "from hence there is no escape but through the gates of death; and it is late, late," she added, shaking her gray head, "ere these open to us. Yet it is comfort to think that we leave behind us on earth those who shall be wretched as ourselves.
Fare thee well, Jewess! Jew or Gentile, thy fate would be the same; for thou hast to do with them that have neither scruple nor pity. Fare thee well, I say. My thread is spun out, thy task is yet to begin."

"Stay! stay! for Heaven's sake!" said Rebecca; "stay, though it be to curse and revile me—thy presence is yet some protection."

"The presence of the mother of God were no protection," answered the old woman. "There she stands, pointing to a rude image of the Virgin Mary, 'see if she can avert the fate that awaits thee.'"

She left the room as she spoke, her features writhed into a sort of sneering laugh, which made them seem even more hideous than their habitual frown. She locked the door behind her, and Rebecca might hear her curse every step for its steepness, as slowly and with difficulty she descended the turret-stair.

Rebecca was now to expect a fate even more dreadful than that of Rowena; for what probability was there that either softness or ceremony would be used towards one of her oppressed race, whatever shadow of these might be preserved towards a Saxon heiress?

Yet had the Jewess this advantage that she was better prepared
