The Adventure In Port.

Hails for 9,600 Old and Young Seals--
Leaking Badly--Loses Two Propeller
Blades and Narrowly Escapes Destruction.

The s.s. Adventure, Capt. Henry Dawe, arrived here from the seal-fishery at 8.30 a.m. yesterday after a very trying experience. The vessel hails for 9,600 old and young seals. After leaving here on the 12th March the ship was in company with the Bosphoric and Bellaventure until the night of the 13th, when it became stormy with thick snow and she lost sight of both vessels. She ran down off the Funks and several old seals were seen, and the first white coat was taken on the 22nd. The vessel had steamed in towards the main patch in company with the Aurora, Erik Hanger and Bloodhound, and getting to the eastern end of the big patch secured about 600. She then steamed further in and passed the Newfoundland, Florizel, Bellaventure and Algetine all with their flags out and most of the patch cut up by them. By this time the ship had 2,000 seals, and one night in the latter part of March, the men worked by moonlight and secured about 2,400. In this ice the vessel secured about 7,500 young seals and then went in search of the old fat, steaming down some miles to the north of the White Bears on the Labrador Coast. The seals were fairly plentiful all the month of April but the ice was loose and no chance could be got to kill any great number. As a matter of fact the old seals killed were shot from boats in the water and picked off the scattered ice. The ship bore up for home Friday morning last, and though she had lost two blades of her propeller, one on either side of the "boss" in forcing through heavy ice during the spring, she made good speed and it looked like a quick run to port. Shortly after noon the weather became thick, a gale of E.N.E. wind sprang up and soon a regular blizzard set in. For nearly two hours one could hardly see the length of the ship ahead, but a bright look-out was kept. Suddenly, at 4 p.m., one of the crew who was standing on the deck caught a glimpse of land dead ahead of the ship and instantly gave the alarm. This proved to be Belle Isle in the Straits, and the ship was almost in on the north eastern end of the island, with the wind blowing a gale dead on the land and a big sea running on the cliff. This is the highest part of the island and the ship was not much more than twice the length of herself from it when the helm was put to port just in time to clear it. Second-hand Parsons had the bridge at the time and manipulated the ship with consummate skill. Members of the crew say that had the accident occurred at night or had the land been so quickly observed the ship would have been dashed to pieces and not one of the 203 men on board could have been saved, as no boat could live in the high sea which ran on the island. When the alarm was raised, Capt. Dawe ran to the bridge and took charge. Navigator Newhook also helped materially to get the vessel into a position of safety. The ship answered her helm "luckily, and then a big iceberg was descried quite near her, and much trouble was experienced in trying to work clear of this also. After getting the ship's head round, so heavily did the wind and sea sweep towards the island that with every pound of steam on her it took fully two hours before the ship was out of perilous proximity with the land. Most of the crew were below, and rushing on deck and witnessing the terrible predicament in which they found themselves, some looked pitiously, while others stood mute and horror-stricken at the awful possibility of being dashed to death against the foaming cliffs. Chief Engineer D. McFarlane, Second Engineer C. Ellis and frames Mark Abbott and Alf King, who were on duty in the engine room, realizing their responsibility, stuck to their posts and are regarded as heroes by the crew, for had they left the engine room for a minute when the panic began nothing would have saved the ship. Firemen Dormidy, Roberts, Hynes and Stamp also rushed into the engine room and rendered valuable help to their mates. In the midst of this several heavy seas struck the ship and came on board. One running forward struck the carpenter, Mr. Parsons, and hurled him with terrific force against a winch. His lip and nose were laid open and he was severely cut about the head. Another man named Rex was badly hurt about the legs and body. Both were looked after by stewards McCrudden and Baker. Besides the damage to her propeller the Adventure is also leaking and pumps are kept going on her. The ship saw the Aurora about two weeks ago, just north of Belle Isle, and she reported then for 7,000 old and young seals. Some of the crew of the Ranger were on board the ship Sunday week and reported for 5,000. Tuesday last the Bloodhound was seen off the Round Hill Islands, and seemed from her appearance to have a good trip of fat. The Diana was seen two weeks ago and has 7,000 seals. None on the ship will ever forget the terrible experience when the ship was under the cliffs at Belle Isle.

Children Had Eczema

Treatment prescribed had no effect—
made thorough cure.
Mrs. Oscar Vanocot, St. Antoine, Sack, writes:—"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure for Eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him."
"Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment and we hope more people will learn about it so that their little ones may be saved from suffering."
As a cure for eczema and itching skin disease there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers of Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Recipes sent free.

Died in Exile.
KINGSTON, May 1.
The ex-President of Hayti, died here to-day. His death occurred after a brief illness. His health, however, had been considerably broken by the experiences of the last year and a half, for he was deposed from the Presidency and sent into exile. He had been a refugee here since the revolution in 1908, and was possessed of considerable property in Kingston. A picturesque ruler was removed from office when Nord Alexis was compelled to flee from Hayti on December 21st, 1908. Port au Prince was then in the hands of the revolutionists and Gen. Antonine Simon, who afterwards became President, was marching up with an army of 5,000 men. Nord Alexis was variously estimated at from 90 to 100 years of age. He was a descendant of one of the oldest families in Hayti. Nord Alexis became President of Hayti in 1902. His term was to have expired May 15th, 1909, but his administration was not successful. Prominent politicians grumbled because he did not give them what they considered their fair share of the spoils and punished some notorious looters of the National Treasury. Early in 1908 the movement against him had gained great strength and in March a reign of terror was subsequently inaugurated in Port au Prince. The Government sent out troops who seized many of the revolutionists and summarily put a number of them to death. Warships of several nations hastened to Port au Prince, and their arrival secured the lives and property of foreigners. For only a few months however did Alexis maintain his rule. In November he ordered Gen. Antonine Simon, Commander of the South of Port au Prince, to confer with him on the situation. Gen. Simon refused to comply and took up arms against the President. His march to the Capital was a triumphant one and on his approach to Port au Prince, the people of that city turned against their President. The surrounded the palace and took possession of the city.

Alarm of Fire.

Seeing smoke for a moment envelop the roof of Mr. E. Sinnott's house, Circular Road, a young man passing there at 6.12 p.m. yesterday turned in an alarm from box 221. The Central and Eastern firemen responded but there was no need for their services. The wind blew the smoke from the chimney down on the roof and gave the person who rang in the alarm the idea that it was on fire.

ANXIETY ABOUT PARENT.—Yesterday at 1 p.m. two little boys of the West End visited the lockup and asked the guard if their father had been arrested Saturday night. They were very anxious about him as he had gone out Saturday evening and had not put in an appearance at his home up to the time of their enquiring for him.

May Day celebrated here by demonstration by 20,000 workmen, in Hyde Park. 100 Trades Unions and Socialists were represented. Albert Grayson, former socialist member of Parliament, was one of the speakers. The proceedings were orderly.

Paris Quiet.

Special to Evening Telegram.
PARIS, May 1.
May day in Paris passed off quietly. The Government has taken the strongest precautions and troops patrolled Bois de Boulogne and the Boulevards, but their services were not required. The general federation of labor in the face of Premier Briand's energetic attitude last evening did not attempt to carry out its threatened demonstration. Throughout the provinces also quiet prevailed.

Massacre at Nyassa.

Special to Evening Telegram.
PARIS, April 20.
There is a serious uprising of the natives at Nyassa, Portuguese East Africa. King Munro at the head of the tribes has massacred the people, pillaged and burned the settlements, and destroyed Empogua.

Stronghold Abandoned

Special to Evening Telegram.
CONSTANTINOPLE, May 1.
Late official despatches received here state that fighting between the Turkish troops and the Albanians lasted 13 hours. Finally surrounded on all sides the Albanians made a disorderly retreat leaving many behind who were made prisoners. The Albanians lost 500 men and the Turks 100. It is believed by the officials here that the retreat from this important pass has broken the back of the rebellion.

The Walls of Jericho.

To-night Mrs. Innes and her talented associates in the amateur dramatic world will put on the boards at the T. A. Hall The Walls of Jericho. As the performances this week are the farewell performances of those which for some years have been managed so skillfully and well by Mrs. Innes, we have no doubt our citizens will show their appreciation not only of the merits of the play, its staging and playing, but of the kindness of the lady who has sojourned among us for a time. Apart from this the proceeds of the performances will be devoted to worthy purposes, viz., the A. F. C. and Bishop Jones Church Ship Fund.

Likes His Policy.

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir,—The announcement of Mr. Fred Fitzpatrick, on Saturday, to enter the field for Municipal honours, will be hailed with delight by thousands of voters. They want men like Mr. Fitzpatrick on the Council Board; men who are not afraid to institute reforms, for reforms in the Council is what is wanted. That Mr. Fitzpatrick would make an ideal councillor I have no doubt. His policy to wipe out the disgraceful sanitary conditions which exist at present, is a wise one, and I believe if any man in Newfoundland will do it Fitzpatrick will. By electing this gentleman the voters will be making a wise move, and they will never have cause to regret it. Mr. Fitzpatrick has travelled considerably, having spent several years on the Pacific slope. His success as a business man in St. John's speaks for itself, and if he uses the brain power in conducting the Council's affairs as he has used it in his own business, the city will certainly be the better.

Yours sincerely,
TAXPAYER.

Men Will Be Scarce.

The Trinity schooners which arrived here yesterday report that all in the Bay are now busy getting their schrs. ready for the Labrador fishery, and that an early departure will be made this year as it is thought there will not be much ice down the Labrador Coast to impede them. Many men intend to go to work on the new branch railway, and it is thought that it will be difficult to get men to go to the fishery this season.

McMurdo's Store News

MONDAY, May 2, 1910.
You doubtless have noticed how your "Scrubber" nail brush breaks down in the centre after a little use, and then it quickly becomes useless and you have to buy a new one. The reason is that you can hold the ordinary brush in only one way, and one part of the brush receives all the wear, and the brush is useless long before it is worn out. The Oriwara Brush owing to its octagon shape, can be held in eight different ways, so that every fibre of the brush can be used up to its limit. The Oriwara will outwear at least three ordinary brushes. We have them. Price, 25 cents.—advtd
