LONDON, Aug. 23.
Thirty-one are in hospital as the result of fights between mobs and police at Ebbw Vale, Rhymney and Tredegar, in Monmouthshire. Clashes took place early this morning, when the rioters looted the stores in defiance of the police. The mob fought the constables gleefully, but the sight of military forces everywhere had a sobering effect upon the position.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Aug. 23.
The men who make short sea trips on trading vessels are again causing trouble to London Docks. The Transport Federation, with a view of not dislocating the work in port, has offered to submit to arbitration the terms of the award rendered by Sir Kaye Rolin. The Federation offer was, however, refused. Sir Kaye was appointed to settle the trouble with the transport workers, but his award did not satisfy the men. The Federation, following the refusal, has invited the short sea trip men to decline work on vessels the owners of which refuse to grant the men 18 cents an hour, and, say, 25 cents an hour overtime. The coal-handlers are now agitating for working in gangs of 5, instead of 4 as heretofore.

The Swansea Railroad men have also gone on strike. They allege that only 60 out of 300 on the Midland Railway, who struck, have been reinstated, and the strike was declared this morning. The trade of the docks is at a standstill.

Special Evening Telegram.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 23.
The strike situation remains without change, and the Government will not relax its efforts to preserve order. This was made manifest this morning when Home Secretary Churchill sent a telegram to the Mayor of Liverpool, in which he declared that military and police precautions would not be lessened whilst the need remained.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Aug. 23.
The Commission appointed to inquire into the trouble between the Railway Companies and their employees, which led to the strike, was announced by the Government in the House of Commons today. The Chairman is Sir David Harrel. The railroads are represented by Sir Thomas Ellis, Secretary of Mineworkers Association, and Sir Charles Beale, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Birmingham. The representatives of the men are Arthur Henderson, the Labour M. P., and Burnel, the chief Labour Correspondent for the Board of Trade.

In naming the Commissioners, Premier Asquith briefly congratulated the country that the clouds had lifted, adding, amid cheers, that the few words said with regard to the past, at the present moment, the better. The question as to the greater cost of railway travelling in the United Kingdom under the terms of the settlement is attracting attention. Under one clause of the agreement, the Government gives assurance for providing that the increased cost of labour, due to the improvement of conditions for the working staff of the roads, shall be regarded as a valid justification for a reasonable increase of charges. If the demand of the men for minimum wages of thirty shillings a week is conceded, the wages bill of the Railway Companies will be swelled by $40,000,000 per annum.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 23.
There is a serious crisis in the Liverpool strike situation and a big national strike is threatened. The Liverpool Tramway Company refused to reinstate 250 men now out, and the Strike Committee has issued a manifesto to all transport men to remain out until a settlement is reached. The Committee appointed Tom Mann and two members of the Strike Committee to proceed to London to confer with the members of the Railway Servants' Union Executive and representatives of the Mining Engineers' Federation, the object of the Conference being to call out all railway servants, transport workers, and the men who control the engines in the collieries. The present indications are that a strike of greater magnitude is about to be precipitated, unless the Liverpool Tramways Committee recognizes the decision of today. Engineer Mann and other leaders of the strike have made ineffective demands for the reinstatement of the Liverpool tramway men, and at 1 o'clock today telegrams were sent to London, calling the railway union officers to meet the Liverpool strikers. Troops and mounted police are guarding twenty truck loads of food up the way from London to the North Western Station. A load of food was attacked by hungry men and women today and some of the food was stolen. Some Liverpool papers this morning urged that the reinstatement of the tramway men was the best means of restoring or bringing about peace. The ocean liners are still held in the docks for want of workers to discharge and load them. In the event of a national strike being declared in sympathy with the Liverpool tramway men, over five hundred thousand men will be involved.

Labour Trouble Breaks Out Again.

Liverpool Tramway Company Refuse to Reinstate Men--Keir Hardie Attacks Lloyd George and MacDonald Denounces Churchill.

Special Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Aug. 23.
There was a lively passage between Keir Hardie, the Socialist leader, and Lloyd George, in the House of Commons, yesterday. Hardie accused the Government of taking the side of the Railway directors, and said that if the same pressure had been brought to bear upon them as upon the men, there would have been no strike. He declared vehemently that the men shot down by the troops during the strike "were murdered in the interest of the capitalist system." As a protest, he moved an amendment to the motion for adjournment that the House adjourn to August 29th, instead of October 24th.

Lloyd George Replies.

Chancellor Lloyd George replied that the configuration had been put out, but that there were still smouldering fires here and there, which might at any moment burst into flame. He knew nothing more likely to bring about such a disaster, and perhaps cause the men to fling away what their leaders had claimed was a triumph for them, than "such grossly inaccurate statements" as Hardie had made. There was "not a syllable of truth" in Hardie's allegations that the Government had sided with the railway directors. It was due to pressure brought to bear by the Government, that the directors had been induced to meet the representatives of the men face to face. The Government employed all its power to see justice done to both parties. The Chancellor then referred to a speech made by Hardie, in which he had told a big meeting that the Premier was prepared to shoot down every striker, a charge which Lloyd George, stigmatized as baseless and contemptible. Hardie's amendment was defeated by 93 to 15.

McDonald Denounces Churchill.

Ramsay MacDonald, Chairman of the Labour Party, who took a prominent part in the settlement negotiations, was optimistic, and said that if the spirit shown by both sides during the negotiations, prevailed in future, the country had heard the last of railway strikes for a generation. He was unable to resist making a heated denunciation of Home Secretary Churchill and the employment of soldiers. During the strike, he declared, that the Department which had played a most diabolical part was the Home Office. Churchill's bulletins on the situation were "mischievous and inaccurate; expressions of opinion therein were not sensible, and effect was to make the men more desirous of continuing the fight than of coming to a settlement."

Churchill's Defence.

Winston Churchill's retort to MacDonald was that if the Llanelli rioters had been left to themselves, they would have wrought more damage and misery in three or four hours than the whole 50,000 troops employed on strike duty. The wholesale employment of soldiers was necessary to prevent undue loss of life. Churchill held that if the authors of the strike had succeeded in their intentions, they would have brought about a catastrophe, compared with which blockade by a foreign enemy would be an almost negligible quantity.

National Strike Imminent.

Special Evening Telegram.

LIVERPOOL, This Morning.
Tom Mann and other strike leaders arrived in London from Liverpool last night and held a conference with the representatives of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants. An ultimatum was sent to Premier Asquith, Sydney Buxton, President of the Board of Trade, and the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, practically demanding the reinstatement of the Liverpool tramway men by noon to-day. Meanwhile the situation is so acute that George Asquith, Comptroller of the Labor Department of the Board of Trade, has gone to Liverpool to try and arrange matters. Mann declares it is the intention of the leaders to bring about a national strike unless the Corporation yields.

Avondale Appeal.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Mr. Editor.—In acknowledging the contributions to our rebuilding fund the following paragraph was inadvertently omitted:
"Further contributions and the names of those who have already sent smaller amounts will be published at a later date."

We are far from forgetting those generous people who have forwarded smaller sums, as in our misfortune no amount is too small to prove a real help to us. In fact in appealing to the outside public after our beautiful church was destroyed by lightning, we particularly said: "We shall be grateful for any amount, however small," for we realized that without the assistance of all the charitable throughout the country it was almost a hopeless task to replace what we had lost.

Our reason for not publishing the full list at one time is that we did not care to trespass too much on the generosity of your paper.

Thanking you for this correction, I remain,
Sincerely yours,
R. M. SHERAN, P. P.

The Archbishop at St. Lawrence.

ST. LAWRENCE, Aug. 23.
Last evening the Archbishop, accompanied by his Chaplain, Rev. J. Pippy, arrived by the s.s. Argyle. A magnificent demonstration of faith and of loyalty to the head of the Roman Catholic Church in Newfoundland was exhibited. Bells went out and escorted the Archbishopal party to the wharf, where an immense gathering greeted them. On landing the horses were taken from the traces and the Archbishop and priests were handed by hundreds of willing and enthusiastic inhabitants to the Presbytery. All the houses were illuminated with candles; the form of the harbor lending itself to such decoration. The effect was really fine and most pleasing to the distinguished visitors.

Spectacular Forest Fire Excursion by Ingraham

About 2.40 p.m. yesterday, just as the wind was about at its highest, the ridge which crowns the South Side Hill near Duck Pond and overlooking the city took fire and burned fiercely. Two boys, Fred Bussey and Alan Keeping, who were up bathing in Duck Pond, were the first to see the blaze, got their clothing adjusted quickly and ran down over the South Side Hill and reported the matter at the Western Fire Station. Soon an intimation was telephoned the police station, and at the suggestion of I. G. Sullivan, Supt. Grimes dispatched a sergeant with several men of the police force to the scene. The men all the evening did good work trying to beat out the blaze, but the wind was too high for their exertions to be effective. The spectacle, however, was one which thousands of people viewed with admiration. The whole ridge was burnt over and cleaned out as far as wood is concerned, and when the shades of night fell the sky all over the western part of the city was lit up. The burning woods resembled a great bonfire, and the people on the higher levels certainly enjoyed the sight, for they could see it to better advantage than those living below. The fire burned over an area of two miles and at 2 o'clock this morning was not thoroughly extinguished. Hundreds of people who were on the South Side Hill picnic yesterday climbed the ridge to see it, but took good care to keep to windward of the big blaze.

Fire Alarm Yesterday.

All yesterday, but especially in the afternoon, a gale of wind blew and it looked to be a dangerous time for an outbreak of fire. I. G. Sullivan had all his men on the alert, and when an alarm was turned in from box 35 at 4.30 p.m., the Western and Central men made a very quick response. The scene of the fire was at Mr. Stealy's residence in Murphy's Square. A spark falling on the roof ignited the shingles, but ladders were quickly run up by the firemen, and a few buckets of water quenched the blaze in a hurry; very little damage was done.

This is to certify that I have used MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family for years, and consider it the best liniment on the market. I have found it excellent for horse flesh.

Nightly at 9 Charlton Street they meet and give very fine selections to the pleasure of the people of that section. ## Household Notes.

A solution of oxalic acid is good to clean copper and brass.
A sun bath is of more value to health than much warming by the fire.

A piece of hame bone added to vegetable or stock soup will improve the flavor.

One teaspoonful of ammonia to a cupful of water will clean gold or silver jewelry.

To cure the sting of wasp or bee, mix common earth with water and apply at once.

Candles will last much longer if they are kept on ice twenty-four hours before using.

To let vines climb up on wooden walls will seriously damage them, as it promotes decay.

Hardly any better dusting cloth can be found than the old-fashioned red bandana handkerchief.

If an oven is too hot, the temperature may be lowered by opening the lid of the range a trifle.

When making panned oysters it is essential to have the pan piping hot before putting anything into it.

When making sweet croquettes, and a little sugar to the crumbs in which the croquettes are to be rolled.

A pinch of soda added to water in which tough meat or vegetables are boiled will make them more tender.

Pans greased with butter will make the bottom crust of pies soft and flaky and prevent them from being soggy.

Celery can be much improved by soaking it for an hour in cold water
in which a lemon has been squeezed.

Instead of using soap and water to polish painted surfaces, boil a pound of bran in a gallon of water and strain it.

To scour a copper kettle, rub it with powdered bath brick and paraffin and polish with dry brickdust or whiting.

If bread is wrapped in a paraffin paper as soon as it is taken from the oven it will keep fresh and moist much longer.
