AT HOME PORTRAITURE!

Portraits can be made in the home just as satisfactory as at the Studio. If you won't come to the Studio, we will bring the Studio to you, or its essentials. W. Parsons has had a unique experience in this branch of Photography. When with Messrs. Elliott & Fry, the world-renowned Photographers, in London, England, his particular line was photographing people in their homes. Among the many distinguished people he has photographed were Signor Merry Del Val, Papal representative at the Coronation of the late King Edward the VII.; the Duke of Norfolk, the late Lord Roberts, the Duke of Grafton and many others. In this respect he gave Messrs. Elliott & Fry every satisfaction. In this respect he gave Messrs. Elliott & Fry every satisfaction. Terms for attendance will be given at the Studio.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT! STOP DANDRUFF AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine" hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter for a few cents.

All the Boys Want to be Airmen.

(By G. B. Burgin.)

The "boy airman" is the most wonderful of all the wonderful combatants in this war. Those in authority like to catch him young, for his "nerve" is better, and he comes into training an absolute stranger to fear.

Shortly before the war an angry parent called on his boy's schoolmaster. "I don't know what to do with my boy," he said despairingly. "All I can get out of him is that he wishes he were a bird and could fly."

"Well," replied the schoolmaster, "if the war comes we shall want all the human birds we can get hold of. Let him fly." So the irate parent reluctantly let him fly.

Three months after his training was finished the boy came to see me. He had turned into a man, with, as the old lady put it, "an eye like a hawk."

He was, in truth, a human bird, and told me of the dangers he had passed as coolly as if he were narrating the incidents of a football match. The second time he came his face was disfigured by two of the most awful black eyes I have ever seen on any human countenance. "How did it happen?" I asked.

"Oh," he said, in a matter-of-fact tone, "I was making a turn and didn't put enough back into it. It's just like a sideslip on a bicycle."

"And you came down?"
"Of course I came down."
"And did the machine come down too?"

"There wasn't any of it left in workable shape. A week in hospital put me all right."

That's the wonderful spirit of it all. These boys encounter risks which would turn our hair grey. When they go to the front they are ready to put an enemy machine out of action. If they are "put out of action" themselves they die with a smile, for fear to them is absolutely unknown.

And the Overseas boys are equally plucky. One I met had a badly smashed finger and was in hospital. When it got well he came to say goodbye to me, as he was expecting to go to the front. Three months later he called to explain that he had joined the Flying Corps. "How's that?"

"Well, you see, mother always thought put an angel, so I thought I'd try whether she was right and learn to fly."

It is the same story everywhere. Our great need is aeroplanes, and aeroplanes must have people to work them. The British boy, directly he is old enough, volunteers, is put into training, learns energy, promptness, decision. He does not need to learn to be brave, because all English youngsters are brave. Often I think of him speeding skyward and of all that his splendid daring has to face, including the ever-present risk of being shot at by our anti-aircraft guns as an enemy machine. And the more I think of it the more the wonder grows.

I repeat that the "boy airman" is wonderful, and the parents who so nobly give him up to his country's service are wonderful too. He has the joy of conflict; they have the suspense of waiting to learn how the conflict ends.

Creatures that Live in Snow.

Snow has both a flora and a fauna. The flora includes the tiny organisms of the seaweed family which commonly produce the phenomenon of "red snow." Each of these "plants" is a spherical cell, about a thousandth of an inch in diameter. These cells multiply rapidly by the simple process of splitting up to form new cells, and the latter are at first equipped with whip-like appendages which enable them to swim in water. Red snow is not uncommon in the polar regions and on high mountains. Large tracts of "green snow," produced by another simple plant, were found by the Charcot antarctic expedition.

But there are also humble forms of animal life that give snow a red color. Patches of snow reddened with a microscopic rotifer, or wheel-animalcule, have been found in the Alps and the Andes. M. Gain, of the Charcot expedition, found snow reddened with mites or tiny spiders.

In Germany, the term "snow worm" is applied to the larva of a beetle often found in the snow. Many species of insect are commonly found on glaciers. The most abundant of these are the springtails, which hop like miniature fleas or wriggle deftly into the cavities of the snow, but are so minute that the passer-by needs to look for them in order to see them. Occasionally, in their jumps, they light in a puddle of water, but this experience does them no harm, as they are thickly clothed in furry scales which save them from getting wet. Snow-loving springtails are not confined to glaciers; they occur in great numbers on the surface of melting snow, on bright sunny spring days, through the northern United States.

Mr. F. E. Matthes, of the U. S. Geological Survey, has recently described some curious worms that abound on the lower parts of the Mount Rainier glaciers. They are dark brown, slender and about an inch in length. On favorable days in July and August millions of them may be found, writhing on the surface of the ice, evidently breeding there and feeding on organic matter blown upon the glacier in the form of dust. "So essential to the existence," says Mr. Matthes, "is the chill of the ice that they enter several inches, and sometimes many feet, below the surface on days when the sun is particularly hot; reappearing late in the afternoon."

Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Fashion Plates. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

A PRETTY FROCK—LADIES' DRESS

2295—Satin and lace will combine nicely in this model. It is also good for serge with Georgette crepe for trimming, lovely for cashmere, velour, velvet or corduroy. The waist and jumper portions are crossed in surplice style. The skirt is a two-piece model with gathered fullness and side closing. It may be finished separate from the waist.

The Pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 6 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for the dress and 1 1/2 yard for the jumper. The skirt measures a little over 3 yards at the foot.
