The Widow's Mite and Some Other Instances of Remarkable Psychic Phenomena Described.

A year or so ago a New York daily published a sensational article, the subject of which was the finding of a such a coin." Mr. Wheeler, who is parlost coin through the spirit of a Henry ticularly skeptical of "spirit com Ward Beecher, Dr. Isaac J. Funk, the cations," playfully remarked: "Well, now find that coin, and it will be a chief editor of the Standard Dictionary, and senior member of the great publishing firm of Funk and Wagnalls, received the message, which was transmitted from the spirit world through a Brooklyn medium.

Briefly, the spirit of the famous preacher was worried because an ancient coin, known as the "widow's which many years before Dr. Funk had borrowed from a friend of Mr. Beecher's, had not been returned to its rightful place. The coin had been borrowed for use in the compilation of the dictionary, and Dr. Funk and his assistants were under the impression that it had been returned.

Mr. Funk's story of the widow's mite is as follows: In the early part of February, 1903, having heard of a woman in Brooklyn who every Wednesday evening gave spiritualistic "sittings" to her family and a few invited guests. I secured an invitation to attend several of these meetings. I found the family plain, intelligent folks, in humble circumstances: the medium a delicate lady of 68 years, of little school education, refined in manners. The family is composed of this lady, a son of 35 years of age, and a brother of 58 years. he woman is a widow, and the brother a widower whose three children died many years ago. The spirits report themselves to be three in number. a daughter of this brother by the name of Mamie, who died at the age of 7 years, and a friend of one in the circle by the name of George Carroll, and a son of the medium by the name

On my third visit I was quite tired, and sat rather quietly during the entire evening listening to the talk between the cabinet and the sitters - of the sitters there were fewer than a dozen. About 11 o'clock the control dozen. and Mr. Beecher wishes you to find it.
That is all that I can tell you." The next day when I went to New York I thought over this curious communication about "The Widow's Mite." I was certain the coin had been returned, but the insistent statement that it had not been returned, and the curious fact that such an unusual piece of money should have been so positivementioned, all impressed me very strongly. In the afternoon, at our business conference, Mr. Wagnalls, the vice-president of our company, and Mr. E. J. Wheeler, the editor of the Literary Digest, being present, I told them of my curious experience. Mr. Wagnalls said: right," and, tapping the bell, called the cashier and asked him: "Do you remember an old coin, called 'The Widow's Mite,' which was in our possession during the making of the dictionary?" He replied that he did, that it was given to him by Mr. B. F. Funk, and he was under the impression that it had been returned to its owner. I asked: "Are you sure of this?" He said: "I believe it has been so returned." I told him to go to the large iron safe (we have two safes in the cashier's office), and have his assistants help him see whether that coin was anywhere in the safe. In about twenty minutes one of his assistants came into the office and handed me an envelope
