

BISHOP OF LONDON AT RICHMOND VA.

Outlines Characteristics That Must Dominate the Use- ful Church.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 2.—In a sermon in Holy Trinity Church during the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Anglican Church in America, the Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram, Lord Bishop of London, gave his idea of the characteristics which the church that shall dominate the future must possess. He said in part: "First undoubtedly, the future can only belong to a church which believes and preaches the forth-reaching, energizing and active love of God. God forbid that I should deny the difficulties which surround a belief in the love of God or ignore the stern side of the New Testament, but no church will save the world, and especially these thousand millions who have not yet had a chance of making their minds up as to the truth of Christianity, except a church that believes and proclaims and gives out the love of God to every child that he has made."

"And with the Gospel of the love of God, what we call in England, the message of a free salvation. It may be that in the past we have allowed a legalizing spirit to creep over the church, but today, high church and low church vie in England to preach a Gospel of a free salvation—that the eternal Son of God came into this world and gave himself for his brothers, that the Christian religion does not consist in a belief in a good man named Jesus Christ, dying on the cross, but consists in a belief in the sacrifice of God himself."

"I have no means of knowing the trend of religion thought in the United States, but from my experience of East, North and West London, the future lies with no church which sinks to what is called the new theology."

"God forbids we should say a word against any individual man who believes as much as he can of the Christian creed, but what we must beware of on both sides of the Atlantic is losing the power of our message by trying to make it easier to be believed."

"The church of the future must undoubtedly possess the unbroken ministry and the historic sacraments which you possess in the church in America today. 'Hold fast that thou hast, that no man take thy crown.' But after all is said and done, the most evangelistic, the most catholic, the most orthodox church on earth will produce no effect upon the world if it has not still one further characteristic. It must unmistakably be before all the world and unworship itself. Bear with me, then, when I say as my last words that the greatest danger of the church on both sides of the Atlantic is worldliness."

"In one sense, it is impossible for the church to mix freely with the world. Into the slums of East London, into the business of Wall street, into the mining camps at Klondike, the church must go and no human interest in the world is outside the interest of the church."

"But, on the other hand, to run a church as a man runs a successful business, to depend upon cleverness and management, rather than the grace of God, to neglect prayer and intercession in favor of influence with the press, to lower the teaching of the church or its moral standards in order to suit a self-indulgent age, is to spell ruin and failure and shame for the most orthodox church in the world. In a voice which still rings down the centuries, Jesus Christ himself proclaimed: 'My kingdom is not of this world.'"

Bishop Ingram in his public statements has referred to the fact that for a century and a half the church in the United States was under the Bishop of London. He declared that he valued the sister nation. The question of creating bishops is causing most heated advance discussion.

Many of the delegates to the triennial convention will urge the passage of a more drastic and possibly the prohibition of re-marriage of a divorced person by any clergyman of the Episcopal Church. Already the question of creating a court of appeal in the church has provoked much discussion and the opponents claim it would be heresy.

Discouraging Nerve Exhaustion

What is more discouraging and debilitating than trying to conquer nervous exhaustion and prostration by means of ordinary treatments? Because you do look sick and are not suffering great pain, and because they cannot realize your feelings of weakness, helplessness and discouragement, your friends fail to show much sympathy for you, and most doctors are simply helpless in the face of exhausted nerves. Of course you need not expect Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to work a miracle and cure you in a day or a week, but you can be absolutely sure that you will be benefited, to at least some extent, by every dose of this great restorative that is taken into the system.

The dreadful weakness and helplessness which makes life miserable for you and leads to all sorts of dark forebodings, will gradually and certainly give way to strength and vigor under this treatment, headaches will disappear, your appetite will improve, you will sleep and rest better and you will find that day by day your nervous system is being built up to health and strength.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MULVANEY--RAMSAY

A Pretty Wedding at Hyde Park on Wednesday.

An exceedingly pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, Oct. 2, at the Presbyterian Church, Hyde Park, when Janie Meda, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ramsay, was united in marriage to Mr. R. Mowbray Mulvaney, of this city, by the Rev. Dr. Nixon, of Hyde Park. To the strains of the bridal chorus (Lohengrin), played by Mr. Jordan, of London, the bride entered on the arm of her father and looked beautiful in a gown of albatross, trimmed with applique, lace, and wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Ruby, who was dressed in cream, trimmed with allover lace and ribbon. The groom was supported by Mr. Wm. R. Ramsay, of Hyde Park. The ceremony being over the guests returned to the residence of Mr. Thomas Ramsay, Fernleigh, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast awaited them, and the young couple received the warmest congratulations. The many and valuable presents testify to the popularity of the bride and groom. The bride's going-away gown was of dark blue ladies' cloth, with hat to match. After the wedding breakfast the happy couple left for a trip east. Mr. and Mrs. R. Mowbray Mulvaney will be at home to their friends at 423 Midland street, after Nov. 6.

London, Oct. 2.—The change that the practice of medicine is undergoing is the key note of several addresses made by leading London doctors at the winter session of the medical schools in connection with the London hospital.

The speakers said that the day was coming when the doctor in private practice would disappear and be replaced by the public doctor whose work would lie in the prevention rather than in the cure of diseases.

Dr. Ewart told the students that the profession was in the throes of a "double crisis"—economical and professional. He declared that the growing prevalence of disease and the growth of specialism had contracted the field of general practice, and the process was bound to continue. He said it should become more and more the servant of the state. Henceforth its members must devote themselves to the culture of health, preventing instead of curing, disease.

Other addresses of a similar nature were heard, one physician contending that things were moving towards the unique consummation of a calling by its own training and application in the very source upon which it depended for its living.

Boston will begin a girls' high school of practical arts to correspond in purpose with the commercial high school for boys. The school will attempt to teach girls practical courses to fit them as home-makers. Among the studies will be house furnishing, decoration, bookkeeping, cooking, sewing and millinery.

It is now possible for a balloon to throw out more ballast than it carried up from the surface of the earth. In a balloon ascent made from Berlin by Captain Von Krogh, the pilot of the Parseval balloon, there was carried a quantity of chemicals which have the property of absorbing moisture, and thus increasing their weight in a damp atmosphere. The experiment was successful.

There is a scarcity of laborers in Sweden, but plenty of college students. Three hundred young men from the University of Upsala have accepted employment in the fields for this year's harvest season.
