This Is Intention of Board as Foreshadowed by Pool at Princess.

NO SCHOOL WITHOUT ONE

All To Be Constructed Will Have Swimming Tanks in Future.

The decision of the board of education to place a swimming pool in the new Princess Avenue School was commented on most favorably by citizens today. The plan of the board is to have every boy and girl taught to swim un-der the direction of a competent instructor. The new school will be the first in London to have a swimming pond, but the board expects that from now on it will be demanded by others.

Every Pupil Taught to Swim.
"It is certainly a step in the right direction," said Chairman A. E. Silverdirection," said Chairman A. E. Silverwood, of the building committee, to The Advertiser today. "The swimming pond at Princess avenue will not be an elaborate affair, like some of those we saw in Rochester, but it will fill all requirements. It will be heated in the winter from the same system that is used to heat the school. Every class will have its regular time for using the bath, and we plan to teach all the children to swim. This is invaluable, and when extended to other schools should go a long way toward preventing the go a long way toward preventing the loss of life each year from drowning ac-

The artistic playing of advanced pupils of Mrs. Lotta Francis-Vining. of the London Conservatory of Music staff, delighted a large audience in Heintzman Hall last evening, when the program included such difficult numbers as the Bach Concerto in C minor; "Les Deux Alouettes," Leschetizsky, a taranteile by the same composer, and the Schubert-Tausig Marche Militaire. Miss Margery Talbot, soprano, a pupil of Miss Brown, afforded much pleasure by her singing of "More Regal in Low Estate," from "The Queen of Sheba." Mr. Fred Bartlett, violinist, a talented pupil of Maurice Poure, also assisted in the program, in which the following took part: Miss Margaret Johnston, Miss Gwendolyn Scandrett, Miss Mary Weston, Miss Mary Ashton, Miss Marguerite Mann, Miss Dorothy Davis, Miss Mildred Baker and Miss Kate Lancaster.
