MODERN YOUTH IS DEFENDED

Rev. R. B. Cochrane Declares
Present Generation Better Than Past.

MISSIONS REPORT

Rev. Dr. A. Gandier Gives an Outline of Conditions in Mother Country.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 8.—Young people of 1925 are brave, honest and religious the Presbyterian assembly was told today by the Rev. R. B. Cochrane, minister of College street church where the sessions are being held. Dr. Cochrane came vigorously to the defence of modern youth while presenting the report of the board on work in Sunday schools and among young people.

"There is," he said, "a good deal of indiscriminate and loose criticism of the youth of today. I have ministered for ten years in this church, in the boarding house and college district, and to my mind this criticism is almost altogether unfounded."

"The youth of the church, as I know him, belongs to a splendid, hopeful, adventurous generation. The youth of today is intellectually honest, he has a determination to know the truth. He hates intolerance. He is a little impatient of dogma. He does not find it easy to subscribe to creeds of the past, but he has a passionate love for righteousness. He rails at the church largely because he thinks the church is not on the side of the future, not on the side of the youth of today. I hope the United church will have the spirit and outlook to challenge such a youth as I have described. It will be a church looking to the future, not the past; a church with a world outlook, putting emphasis on the essentials."

The morning session was occupied with presentation of Dr. Cochrane's report and with a report on foreign missions given by Rev. Dr. Gandier, principal of Knox college. Dr. Cochrane declared that the Sunday schools had more than kept pace with the growth of the church at large since 1875, and he urged still greater co-operation.

REPORTS ON MISSIONS.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, June 8.—The report of the Presbyterian foreign mission board was presented to the general assembly this morning by the chairman, Rev. Dr. Gandier, principal of Knox college.

Dr. Gandier, who had just returned from the old country where he attended the assemblies of the United Free church and the Presbyterian church in Scotland, said the foreign mission boards of those churches emphasized precisely the same points he wished to make here.

"Never," he said, "was the world so consciously in need of Jesus Christ as today. Never were the people in the different fields so receptive as today with opportunities so many and so promising; and just when the success of the work urgently demanded expansion, the state of the funds demanded retraction."

OLD QUARREL

Russians Refuse To Keep Quiet, So Police Arrest Six
To Prove Sincerity.

Torrid weather resulted in two near murders in London yesterday. And a certain calmness at the police station yesterday, associated with the past week's heat wave, was upset.

Provoked by a family quarrel, Fred Reckho, 25 years old, threatened to kill his wife. She replied by breaking an alarm clock over his head. Ensnared noise notified neighbors that the Reckhos were fighting again, and a crowd of 100 stood in front of 405 Nelson street as the battle progressed. Mrs. Reckho won the first advance, and Reckho himself, fearing for his safety, notified the police.

Four times in English Reckho threatened his wife with death, two constables related to magistrate Graydon in court this morning.

The quarrel followed police court proceedings of several weeks ago, when Fred Reckho was charged by his wife with non-support. Hundreds of neighbors attracted by the noise of the husband and wife created in their dispute, witnessed the battle, police said this morning.

LONDON GETS LARGE PLAYER-PIANO ORDER

Five Carloads of Instruments
To Be Shipped To Britain.

W. N. Manning of the Sherlock-Manning Co., London, on his return trip to England brought with him orders that call for the immediate delivery for the British market of five carloads of player pianos.

Last year when I was over I found it was possible to get some export business there," said Mr. Manning, "and this year on my trip I became quite certain of it. The call just now is for the player piano, and that is what will make up the five cars we will soon have on the way. The prospects are more business from the same district. Despite all the talk about unemployment and business depression in Britain, I was surprised to see the amount of business that is going on, and the recovery seems to be very general."

It is a series that will be remembered long after its conclusion. Full of epigrams and frank discussions of love, marriage, clothes and crowns.

ROAD MAY ASK FOR 2 LICENSES

Commission Makes Decision On Beer Sale After Little Discussion.

MAY BE MONOPOLY

Desirable That Other Permits
Should Not Be Issued
At Port.

The London & Port Stanley Railway commission decided at a meeting this morning to make application for a permit to sell 4.4 beer at the cafeteria on the board walk at Port Stanley. Application will also be made for permission to sell the new beverage in the Bridge street booth if, after investigation by General Manager Richards, such a step should appear desirable.

After considerable discussion, the commissioners reached the decision that, as it was inevitable that the new beer would be placed on sale at the Port this summer, it was in the best interests of all concerned that the cafeteria should take over the sale of the beverage, under the strictest supervision, rather than allow permits to be secured by some of the privately-owned booths along the board walk.

The Only Permits.

There have been no permits granted at Port Stanley as yet, except to hotels on the east side of the river, and the commission felt that if they raised application for the permits, they would in all probability be the only ones granted, thus insuring that the London & Port Stanley authorities would have absolute control of the sale of the beer.

When the question was under discussion, Commissioner George Burdick raised the point that public opinion was rather more than evenly divided on the 4.4 beverage and he was doubtful as to whether the commission would not offend a large number of citizens who are patrons of the cafeteria by having the beer on sale there.

Monopoly Advisable.

After considering the problem from all angles, the outstanding point seemed to be that the new beer would certainly be sold by some body at the lake resort, and it seemed obvious that, such being the case, the municipality owned and controlled establishment would be the most desirable place of sale, especially as it was altogether likely that the bathing suits were being sold by the London & Port Stanley commission would be the means of preventing the issuance of a permit to other individuals and the Toronto authorities would then be able to point out that the new beer was already on sale at Port Stanley. The commission was finally unanimous in instructing Manager Richards to apply for the necessary permit.

TOWNSHIP ASSESSED $110,005 HIGHER

Westminster Figures Affected
by Suburban Land
Prices.

Westminster township assessment has been increased $110,005 this year, according to figures given the township council at today's session by R. W. Milne, Glanworth, township assessor. The increased assessment is accounted for mostly in the suburban area district, Mr. Milne stated, and business and income assessment, which has practically doubled. The total assessment is $5,398,195.

There is an increase in the dog population of the township. It is now 100, which will mean $200 additional in taxes.

Mr. Milne's report, which was accepted by the council, shows that there are in the township 63,284½ acres of land. Of this amount, 57,140 acres are cleared, 1,161½ acres slash, and 5,083 acres swamp land. Buildings are valued at $2,302,945 and business assessment totals $22,545. Taxable income is figured at $8,550. Separate school assessments are $23,801. Land and buildings exempt from taxation are valued at $354,560.

EAST AND WEST COOLER BUT ONTARIO SWELTERS

Weather Forecasters Hold Out
Little Relief For This District.

Temperatures.

Temperatures, Barometer.
Thursday	82.5 29.41
Friday	88 29.41
Saturday	99 29.22
Sunday	97 29.18
Monday (2 p.m.)	88 29.11

Today brought no promise of relief to a city tormented for four days and four nights by a savage army of heat demons. The terrific grip of ultra-summer has loosened on the west and the maritimes, but Ontario is still smarting under an embrace that is becoming more provocative every hour.

The only glint of hope in today's weather forecast is the prediction of thunderstorms. The center of depression is moving from the east toward Ontario, and rain may reach London tonight.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the thermometer had dropped to 88, while the barometer registered 29.11, giving rise to the hope that Toronto reports of continued heat might be premature after all.

Probabilities of a storm tomorrow are strong, and the hope is general that the law of weather averages will not fail the district at a time when an even break is more of a plea than a wish.

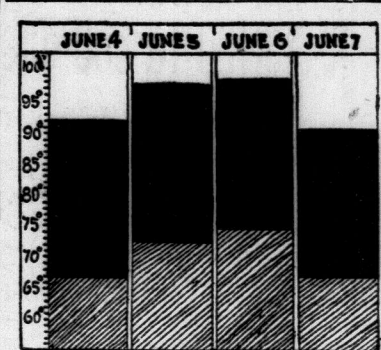

District crops are on the verge of disaster, and unless rain comes within the next few days farmers say that a partial collapse of the 1925 yield will be almost unavoidable.

Thunderstorms Promised.
The terrific pace reached Saturday, when the thermometer clocked off 99 degrees for a short spell, slowed a little on Sunday, and a little more today. But weather instruments will not promise the retreat of General Heat. The imminence of thunderstorms is the only hint that the vanguard of General Cool is nearing the heat-stricken district.

Yesterday morning brought breezes, but a suspicious London took to its automobiles and its radiators and sought water havens where winds were not so fierce. Thousands trekked to Port Stanley, and were delighted to find that the resort was only within hailing distance of the city. Lake Erie was a big disappointment, however. Waters of perfect soothing qualities were visioned, but the majority diagnosed them as "cold." Bathing suits were donned though, and an occasional plunge joined with a comfortable sun and pleasant winds in dispelling memories of heat.

The river Thames had its hundreds of friends as well. Youth tuned in perfectly on the "swimmin' hole" call, and the north and south branches called dozens of youngsters. The beach at Sage's farm, Adelaide street Continued on Page 7, Column 7.

The black columns show the additional heat this year, with 92 on Thursday, 98 on Friday, 99 on Saturday, and 91 on Sunday.

ADVANCE REGISTRATION FOR SCHOOLS OPENS ON TUESDAY

Accommodation Likely To Be Limited For Fall Term.

TO FORM CLASSES

Registration For Secondary
Schools May Be Changed
Later.

Advance registration for the fall term at the London secondary schools is being conducted this week at the technical and commercial high school and the central, south and east units of the collegiate institute.

The principal's offices in the four schools will be open on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon this week to permit those desiring to do so to register for the re-opening of school in September.

Owing to the fact that accommodation at the secondary schools is likely to be limited this fall, all public school pupils and others expecting to attend any one of the three colleges units or the technical school are urged to register this week in order that the principals may be able to proceed with the arrangement of classes.

Since the registration this week is only provisional and may later be withdrawn if necessary, pupils trying their high school entrance this morning should participate in the registration and endeavor to select the course which they intend to take in the fall.

of Boiler House Costing $50,000.

More than $60,000 will be spent this summer on construction of additions to the Ontario hospital, it was stated by Dr. W. H. Robinson, superintendent, today. This amount is being expended in renovation of the older hospital buildings and in erection of a new building.

Tenders for the work were called today, and will be let on Wednesday. Dr. Robinson said today. Between $10,000 and $12,000 is being spent on this work. The patients' dining-room, under process of remodeling for the past month, is now nearing completion.

Present plans call for an expenditure of $50,000, which includes price of building construction and installation of new boilers. Tenders for the boiler work will be called on Wednesday.

M'MASTER PLAN NOT APPROVED

Government Will Not Abandon Petersen Contract As Suggested.

By E. V. BUCHANAN,
Staff Correspondent.
Ottawa, June 8.—The proposal of Andrew MacMaster, chairman of the special ocean rates committee, that the Petersen contract should be abandoned will not be acceptable to the government.

The substitute suggestion of Mr. MacMaster, that by some means the conference companies should be persuaded to file their tariffs with the dominion railway commission, and that the publicity attending this declaration of rates, would tend to keep them down, does not appear with any force to those who support the government view that the control of ocean rates is essential to the industrial and commercial interests of Canada.

Mr. MacMaster's suggestions were given to the committee while it sat in camera. He expressed himself as unfavorable to the Petersen contract, either in the original form or modified along lines suggested during the examination of Sir William Petersen. He does not suggest that the conference companies could be compelled to file their rate tariffs with the railway commission, but believes they might be induced to do so. It is thought that the Canadian Pacific might not object to this course and that other lines might follow its example.
