Tecumseh's Split Even With Hamilton Clippers

Delman Allows Three Hits in Morning Game for 3-to-1 Victory, While Achenbach's Support Goes "Bloody" in Afternoon Game for 13-to-4 Drubbing.

The London Tecumseh's divided yesterday's holiday fixtures with the Hamilton Clippers winning the morning game 3 to 1 through the gallant pitching effort of Joe Delman, while Adams proved much too clever for the Indians in the afternoon game, with the Clippers captured by 13 to 4.

Two large crowds witnessed the games, but the afternoon game was by far the better game. It was decided in the first inning. Delman only allowed three hits during the encounter, and two of them came in a cluster for Hamilton's only run in the opening frame. Froman started with a triple and a single, while Adams pumped a Texas leaguer in behind second base that Baker might have handled, scoring the Indians runner. Only three batters faced Delman every inning except in the fifth, when Neitzke bled.

Opposed to Delman was Duncan McCullum. He was effective in every frame but the first, and after striking out Sandquist the Indians connected. Baker scored on Nason's single to tie the game, and when the ball got away from the latter Neitzke hit right fielder, who scored. Neitzke popped out, but Cogan drove the drive home with a single through the box.

ADAMS SETTLES DOWN. The afternoon game started similarly. The Tecumseh's scoring three runs in the first, but a perfectly good game went to the enemy when everything that might happen to smart pitching occurred to handpick Stanley Achenbach. With two out Schwab singled to right, Neitzke scored, and Neitzke dropped Gehring's snap throw on a slow grounder. Neitzke suffered a torn finger during the play. Robertson then bounced a roller towards Sandquist, which went safe when the latter got it in the sun, filling the bases. Achenbach, thoroughly disgusted, then Adams and Froman with pitched balls, forcing in two runs. Roper came to bat with the socks still thickly populated and his double quickly unloaded the runways. Neitzke struck out, ending the terrible catastrophe.

Achenbach weakened in the fifth and was relieved by Fields, who was little more effective. Nason's triple with Sandquist and Baker on the paths in the first inning was one of the features. The ball traveled high and deep into the foot of the fence in deep left field. Roper, with four hits in six trips to the plate, was the Hamilton hero. He drove in six runs and scored one himself.

"BOX SCORE" OF MATCH WILL HELP YOUR GAME

BY MERGER BEASLEY
This is a fascinating pastime and study for anyone who desires to know exactly what happens during a tennis match—it is a stroke-by-stroke tabulation of the battle. I suppose you could correctly call it the "box score" of the match. At any rate the idea is strikingly similar.

Some days ago I spoke of getting some illuminating tennis information from watching Bill Tilden in action. It was true. No one can watch the national champion and not learn a whole lot about tennis. I probably learned more than the casual observer because I "scored" every I saw him make.

From my account of his matches I could tell you how many shots he made on the ground with his back-hand, how many hit the net, or went over for placements, or out of the court. Likewise, I could tell you the same thing about his forehand strokes.

I made a check on his service, tallied the faults, the double faults and the aces. I had all his volleys, shot for shot, forehand and backhand, high and low. In short, I had on made a minute the same manner that a ball game is scored, every I saw him make.

This is the kind of information that is denied you unless you go to a match prepared to jot it down. It's the best way I know of to get the real secret of a star player's "form."
