THE ILLNESS OF THE HOLY PATHER .: For some days past the health of the Holy Father has been the subject of some anxiety in Vatican circles. Last week an audience was to have been granted to the members of the Irish colony, who desired after the cere-mony at Santa Sabina, at which the Cardinal-Archbishop of Dublin took possession of his titulary Church, to unite in expressing their gratitude to His Holiness for the elevation to the purple of the revered Irish prelate. The audience, however, had twice to be postponed, owing to the indisposition of the Pope, and is now, with several other important engage-

THE SIGNORINA ANNA PEGC!, niece to Pope Leo XIII., is engaged to be married to the Marchese Canali di Rieti, and the ceremony will take place this week. The Holy Father has given several magnificent wedding gifts to the youthful bride, and a rumour was in circulation that the marriage would be solemnised by his Holiness himself in the Pauline Chapel. The official, however, will in reality be the bride's uncle, Cardinal Pecci, at whose residence in the Barberini Signorina Anna is the daughter of Count Giov. salute and feu de joie was fired. previous to his departure from Rome, was received in private audience by the Holy Father, and it is said that the question of the reopening of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and England was mentioned. His Holiness said, I hear, that it was his especial desire that the Catholic clergy should everywhere give their assistance towards the maintenance of order and good government; and to that end it was necessary that he should be in such amicable relations with all Powers as would enable him to obtain the sure and exact information requisite to carry out his intention. He warmly expressed his into a hole, and threw the rider, driver John admiration of the constitution and Government of England, under which the Catholic Church enjoyed such ample and exceptional liberty. He was desirous of possessing means for obtaining such information on matters of fact as would prevent his acting at any time under a mistaken impression on points connected with the Government of an empire embracing interests so diverse as those, for instance, represented in Ireland and in

THE BIRTHDAY OF ROME

The Eternal City has been celebrating her birthday. She is two thousand six hundred and thirty-three years old, but the past arouses little enthusiasm, for the memory of joyful customs which used to celebrate the day are but "sorrow's crown of sorrow," and the flattery of her new friends fall discordantly on her ears. Formerly, on this day there was always held a reunion of the most distinguished literary men of Italy, who, under the auspices of the Society of the Patriziato Sabino, delivered addresses in prose and verse. In later years a public banquet was given in the ruined which were tastefully decorated with banners of the Papal colors-yellow and white. At one end was the rostrum for the orators, at the other the grand old Pontifical Band, and in the centre on a raised stage was placed the statue of Rome, with the wolf suckling Romulus and Remus at its feet. Each speech was heralded by a flourish of trumpets and followed by a vocal chorus of some patriotic ode, and at the end the ode in honor of the Holy Father was received with unbounded enthusiasm. The title of

was on this day received by Pius IX. of sainted memory. A new Romulus he might well be called, as the founder of a nobler work than even the founding of the Eternal City, and as the author of the sending forth of a spirit that would rouse to lofty energies and lead to nobler attainments, not only Italy, but every country of the civilized

THE KINGSTON REVIEW.

Kingston, May 24.—The review and sham fight, announced to take place in this city, came off to-day, and was quite successful. The first corps from a distance to arrive was the Montreal Artillery, who arrived at 3.30 a.m., and were mot by Lieut.-Col. Montiments of a similar character, postponed sine zambert and a portion of the B Battery band. The men were marched to quarters, when they had a preliminary breakfast, the officers It is not strange that his health should be being the guests of Lieut.-Col. Montizambert and officers of B Battery. The Queen's Own of Toronto arrived about 9 o'clock, and were the guests of Lieut .- Col. Kerr and officers of is, I hear, not good; he complains of much the 14th P.W.O. Biffes. Shortly after 12 weariness, and has been obliged to relinquish o'clock a parade of the entire force took place on the Barriefield Common. The troops under arms were: -- B Battery, under comfor the present the habits of early rising to mand of Col. Montizambert and Major Herbert, 60 men and band, four guns. Gananoque Field Battery, Major Mackenzie, 20 men, 20 band and 2 guns. B.M.C. Cadets, Captain Sankey, 67. Montreal Garrison Artillery, 250 and band, Lieut. Colonel W. B. Oswald. Princess of Wales' Own, Lieut.-Col. Kerr, 250 men and band. Queen's Own Rifles, 10 companies, 469 men, brass and bugie band, signal and ambulance corps.

The inspection by the D.A.G., Lieut.-Col. Villiers and staff concluded, a royal To the Cadets must be awarded the palm in all three. The Garrison Artillery were greeted with hearty applause, the marching of companies Nos. 1, 2 and 6 being particularly good. The Queen's Own looked and marched magnificently. The completeness of their organization and equipment was most noticeable. The P.W.O. were scarcely up to the mark in marching or drill. The next proceeding was the gallop past of the artillery, which the four guas of B Battery executed admirably, followed by the two guns of the Gananoque Field Battery, and here a most deplorable accident occurred. After the Gananoque Battery had passed the saluting point, one of the horses in the leading gun stumbled, through putting his foot Dompster, to the ground, the wheels of the gun passing over his head, fracturing his skull and killing him instartly. The staff doctors were immediately in attendance, but help was of no avail, and the body of the unfortunate soldier was at once removed by the ambulance corps of the Queen's Own. The Garanoque Battery at once retired, and took no further part in the day's proceedings. The force then moved off for the sham fight, supposed to represent an attack on the village of Barriefield, which was defended by the 14th and two guns of B Battery, the whole under command of Col. Jno. Kerr. The attacking force consisted of the Queen's Artillery, supported by two guns of B Batguns stationed on the shore of the Cataraquit, skirmishers on the hill. The attacking artillery then took up a position to the left of

Meanwhile the Garrison Artillery had been ordered to the support of the Queen's Own on the front attack, and moved up the bill in splendid order, until within about fifty yards of the defenders' skirmishers, when the order to retire was sounded, and the battle ceased, the assailants being supposed to be driven back. The fight lasted until nearly three o'clock, instead of 1, as intended. The whole force then returned to town, and marched through the principal streets to their quarters. After the review the officers of the Queen's Own Rifles lunched with the officers of the 14th, and the officers and visiting guests of the Garrison Artillery with Lieut. Col. Villers, D A G., Col. Montizambert and officers of B Battery, Col Hewitt and officers of the Royal Military College.

As the cable is lying very hard just now about what is known as the Kilmainham Treaty, the following report, which has arrived by mail, will be of interest :--

In his "statement" to the House of Commons on May 4th ex-Socretary Forster vented his malignity not only on the Irish gentlemen whom he had imprisoned, and who now sat smiling at his impotent rage, but on the Gov-ernment which at last had put a stop to his atrocious proceedings in Ireland. It is now Forster's purpose, ovidently, to attempt to injure both Mr. Parnell and Mr. Gladstone by charging a compromise on them. When Forster had concluded his weak statement, Mr. Gladstone answered him, point by point. In the course of his speech Mr. Gladstone said:--

There is no arrangement of any sort between the honorable gentleman, the member Cork, and ourselves (cheers). The word arrangement, as it was used by my right honorable friend, I myself used on Tuesday night in order to repudiate the idea. There is no arrangement, no bargain, no negotiation-notaken (cheers from the Home Rulers). We have promised nothing in conjunction with the release of the honorable member for cal settlement of the land question of Ireland, thing has been asked and nothing has been Cork.

MB. PARNELL. that I have not, in conversation with my friends or in any written communication to my friends, entered into the question of the release of my hon. friends or myself, as any condition of our action (cheers, with which Mr. Gladstone assented.) I have not, either in writing or verbally, referred to our release in any degree whatsoever; and I wish to call attention to the first statement of the Prime Minister in order to show that it conveyedalthough I am sure the right hon. gentleman di not intend it should do so, the reverse of ti at fact (no, no, from Mr. Gladstone). Still, av., I have stated verbally to more than one o: my hon, friends, and I have written that I believe a settlement of this arrears question (which now compels the Government to turn out into the road tenants who are unable to pay their rents, who have no hope of being able to pay rents for which they were rendered liable in the bad seasons of 1878-9 and 1880, would have an enormous effect in the restoration of law and order in Ireland (cheers), would take away the last excuse for the outrages which have been unhappily committed in such large numbersin such large and increasing number-during the last six months, and it such a settlement were made that I believed we, in common with all persons who desire to see the prosperity of Ireland, would be able to take such steps as would have a material effect in diminishing these unhappy and lamentable outrages (ministerial and Irish cheers).

Mr. Dillon, whose rising was also cheered, said : Mr. Speaker, I only desire to state on my own behalf, and I speak only for myself, that during the somewhat lengthened period since I last appeared in the House I never have had either directly or indirectly in any sense any communication with the Ministers of the Crown or with the Government in Ire-

Mr. Gladstone-Hear, hear. Mr. Dillon-The only explanation which presents itself to my mind of the statements and hints which have been thrown out from the Treasury Bench is that I was aware of the drafting of a bill which was submitted to this house, and that I never took any trouble to conceal my conviction that if the proposals in that bill were passed into law and the Coercion Act withdrawn, it would be easier nishing order, until driven back by made that statement to my friends I have never taken the trouble to express any conviction to that effect with the intention that it would go to the ears of Her Majesty's Ministers, because I did not care even in the least degree whether it should reach their ears or not (hear, and laughter). I desire to point out that in making that statement I have not abated a hair's breadth from the statement I made in this house last yearnamely, that if you save the Irish people their public rights, and if you stop eviction, you will stop police outrages in Ireland, and you will have no trouble in maintaining law and order in that country (hear, hear).

I say the provisions of that bill would stop eviction (hear, hear). If you restore to the Irish people their right of public meeting. If you restore to-night to the responsible leaders of the Irish people the responsibility and power of controlling the people, you will have only to say, in conclusion, that having been for some time under the custody of the right hon, gentleman the late Chief Secretary I now feel myself just as free to take any course which may seem right and judicious to and if the Prime Minister believes that I teel myself in any way honorably bound to shape my actions otherwise than seem to me right, he is perfectly mistaken (loud cheers from the Irish members.)

MR. O'KELLY.

Mr. O'Kelly, who was received with cheers, said :-The right hon. gentleman the Prime Minister stated that if I did not come to him and ask him for the restoration of my liberty he would have left me in prison. Sir, the gentlemen who know me know that I would have died in prison before taking that course (loud choers from the Irish members.)

Mr. Gladstone-In reference to the observations of the hon, gentlemen who have just addressed the House. I think I may say there is no difference at all as to the sense of what I have stated. I perceive, upon consideration, that the words "upon release, which I used, might have been taken to imply that hon, gentlemen had covenanted to do something upon release. I think, after the positive declaration made, that there was nothing given and nothing taken, there was no need to show so much sensitiveness on the subject.

MR. PARNELL BEADS HIS LETTER TO CAPTAIN

London, May 15.—A boisterous scene was created in the House of Commons this evening, when Mr. Parnell himself undertook the task of enlightening the House upon the matter, with the view of settling himself right and making the matter square for everybody Mr. Parnell in the middle of the question Mr. Parnell in the middle of the question time arose and asked permission to make a personal statement, which he proceeded to do by reading a letter from himself, dated Kilmainham Jall, April 28, and addressed to Captain O'Shea. In this letter, which was of considerable length, Mr. Parnell expressed regret that Mr. O'Shea had left the Albert manslon before Mr. Parnell reached London, at the time of his parole, inasmuch as after their previous conversations he deed it proper that Mr. Justin McCarthy should be put in possession of views which he had expressed.

These views were that on the question of arrears a settlement had become imperatively essential, and if this were of a satisfactory kind it would enable the Irish party to show the small tenants that they were being met with justice and generosity, from which he confidently hoped that by the efforts which they would then strenuously and unremittingly be able to make, outrages and intimidation would be stopped.

Aid in the form of a loap, however, would not be admissible and would be rejected, no matter what the number of years for payment might be. As regarded further ameliorating measures the lesseholders must be put upon the same footing as ordinary tenants in the matter of fair rent, because so long as a large number of people were left outside the Act discontent must exist, and the matter must be regarded as unsettled.

He further hoped that some compromise on the tenure clauses of the Land Act would be arrived at for their better amendment, and that the purchase clauses, which all parties had now adopted (here Mr. Parnell looked with triumph at Sir Stafford Northcote and Mr. W. H. Smith), would receive immediate expansion and application. The result and he believed that the Government would then be justified in dispensing with further Mr. Parnell—I wish to say emphatically coercive measures. "And then follows my bat I have not, in conversation with my own signature," said Mr. Parnell, as he sat down.

RETURN OF MGB. LAFLEOHE.

A special despatch from Cohees, N. Y. says that His Lordship, Mgr. Lafleche, has returned fro Rome, and arrived in that town yesterday evening. His Lordship is accompanied by the Rev. Father Dumesnil. They are expected to arrive in Montreal to-morrow evening.

Oscar Madigan went to a St. Louis fortune teller for advice as to which of three young women would make the best wife. She went into a trance, and revealed to him that none of them was worthy of him. She also hinted that he had better seek a wife on the spot. On awakening she declared that she didn't know a word she had said, and was quite shocked to learn that she had so nearly offered to marry him. Oscar obeyed the oracle by going to a justice with her that same day. He is now suing for a divorce.

MALARIA! MALARIA!!

THE CAUSE OF DISEASE IN THE STOMACH, KIDNEYS AND NERVOUS SYSTEM!

Below will be found a brief Summary of a Lecture upon the Liver, delivered before the Eclectic College of Medicine, by

DR. J. HAYDOCK.

The Liver has been known as the great blood-maker and blood-parifier of the circulation. From its lize and spongy structure, it plays a most important part in the animal economy, as regards assimilation and nutrition. Food taken in the mouth and acted upon by the digestive organs or the stemach is converted into Glucose or Peptone, and in these forms enters the Portal vein. Here, by the action of the Liver, these substances are converted into a form of sugar and pass out of the Liver by a large vein, called the Hepatic vein, into the general circulation. The new material now formed serves two purposes, viz: the maintenance of heat in the body and assisting in the cell growth of the system.

Dr. Murchison says:—"The composition of bile and its secretion is very complex. It is constantly being secreted by the Liver, and, increasing suddenly before eating, gradually decreases as soon as the appetite is ratisfied and feeding cases." New, it this most important organ of the body becomes torpid, or the passage of bile interfered with emagiation and disease ensue. I note eight marked peculiarities that now occur, and which we all know of:

1. The patient compliains of a feeling of weight and fullices of the epigastrium.

1. The patient complains of a feeling of weight and fulluss of the epigastrium.
2. Distortion of the Stomach and now-ls by wind.

3. Henrichurn.
4. A feeling of weariness, pains in the limbs, and great sleepiness after meals.
5. A bad taste in the month, especially in the morning, and furred tongue,
6. Constitution, with occasional masks of diarrhom.
7. Headache in front of head.
8. Depression of spirits and great melancholy, with larslinde and a disposition to leave everything for to-morrow.

All of the above symptoms go to show functional derangement of the Liver; and now comes the great importance of any error made as to the c. ndition of the patient. He should immediately provide himself with a LIVES TIMULANT, the most common form of which is a Pill. Daily experience shows that this, when the Pill is compounted properly, is the readist mode of inciting and prometing the action of the Liver, and can be almost always relied on. I have devoted many years of my life, as many of you now before me know, to compounding a Pill that will act readily and systematically as a Bilicus Remedy. I do not believe in great purgatives, and therefore have made a Pill, one of which is an active and thorough dose. I have called it

THE WEBER BABY GRAND. RECEIVED HOME.

"THE WEBER PIANO"

Is generally acknowledged the grandest instrument of music which has ever appeared in the household, or adorned the Lyric Stage. Its tones are pure and beautiful beyond all others. It is sweet, sympathetic and plaintive, or loud, grand and majestic, at the will of the performer. In its capacity to portray feeling, and in its wonderful power of expression, it stands absolutely without a rival. The duration of its tones, quick responsive action, and perfect mechanism, place it, in the estimation of all musical people, above and beyond all its competitors. For many years the "Weber" Piano was used only by the wealthy and musical aristocracy of the United States; but since the Philadelphia Exhibition, where it was first placed before the public in competition with the great makers of the world, the demand for it has been unprecedented.

The first second-hand instrument of this maker, offered at public competition in Montreal, though a square several years in use, realized $515.00. This was far above the price reached by any other piano, and shows that a good piano, like a good painting, will always command its price.
