it cannot fail to produce the most lamentable consequences, and extend the means relied on by France for annihilating

for

the

her

on

inju

self

the

not

gra

of

prin

cess

to a

duc

acti

com

stan

Let

may

tinu

thou

orde

thei and four

òrig E

ship

whi

trad

part

Was

Indi

shar

Gre

were

inde

clude

conf

of o

the maritime power of Great Britain.

Thus the principles and views of the advocates of the new system become apparent; for though in other parts of this work, it is (but seemingly with reluctance) admitted, "that the policy of favouring our own shipping, cannot be doubted ";" yet there pervades throughout the whole of this examination of the conduct of Great Britain towards America, so strong a disposition to depreciate and lessen, the just popularity with which the recent energetic measures of the present administration have been received throughout the country, that little doubt can be entertained, that such is the real object of the publication. If, fortunately, these measures are not relaxed, but are adhered to and enforced+, it being evident, "His Majesty cannot otherwise get out of the war with safety," the people may anticipate a successful termination of it; for on that depends the MARITIME power of GREAT BRITAIN, which constitutes at present the only barrier to universal despotism and misery, and on which the nation must rely for the continuance of its liberties and independence.

" Qui mare teneat, eum necesse rerum potiri."

"On the right of Great Britain to issue such instructions

* Mr. Baring's Examination, p. 167.

† See the Antijacobin Review for February, 1808, p. 204, for some very patriotic observations on this subject.—" The king who makes war on his enemies tenderly, distresses his own subjects most cruelly."—Dr. Johnson.

† "The decrees of the lords of the ocean may be unjust and oppressive, but they are still mild, when contrasted with the mere sic volo, which would issue from the court of the universal sovereign of both elements."-Mr. BARING, p. 119.

"We are the Neptunes of the ocean,
And such as traffick shall pay sacrifice Of their best lading;"

"Lords of the world's great waste, the ocean, we Whole forests send to reign upon the sea;
And ev'ry coast may trouble, or relieve:
But none can visit us avithout your leave."

WALLER'S Panegyric on Cromwell.

"Desparing Gaul her boiling youth restrains, Dissolv'd her dream of universal sway;
The winds and seas are BRITAIN'S wide domain;
And not a sail, but by permission, spreads."

THOMSON'S Liberty.